INDIANS ASK FOR RED RIVER LAND

Claim Involving Millions in Oil Up to Congress

Supreme Court Recently Held Area Was Nation's

Bill Was Ready for Favorable Report Last Session

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

OKLAHOMA CITY (Okla.) Aug. —A claim of the Kiowa and Comanche Indians and affiliated tribes of Southwestern Oklahoma for more than $1,000,000 worth of royalty oil already produced in the bed of Red River and for possible other millions in the future may be recognized by Congress during the next session. The Indians are getting at the matter through a bill introduced by Congressman Elmer Thomas of Lawton, which provides that the Indians be given that section of Red River, formerly lying south of their reservation, that a few months ago was held by the United States Supreme Court to belong to the United States government.

"Hearings on the bill were completed last winter and spring," says Mr. Thomas, "and it would have been reported to the calendar with recommendation that it pass and there not been such congestion of important measures of the calendar ahead of it. These hearings developed that the Indians when given the reservation, believed that the southern boundary extended to the boundary line between the Territory and Texas. Since the court has decreed that the area south of the middle of the stream is government property and that the south bank is the boundary between the States, and since it is held that Indian allottees along the river have riparian rights extending to the middle of the stream, the tribes believe that their riparian boundaries should be extended to the State line."

Mr. Thomas, who is a member of the Indian Affairs Committee of the House, does not believe that Congress is likely to repeal the Watson Act, which authorized the Secretary of the Interior to recognize rights of placer mining claimants to government areas in the bed of the Red River. President Coolidge, he says, in a letter last spring demanded its repeal but later was advised to withdraw the letter.

ST. PETER'S CHAIR

Since the eighth century the festival of St. Peter's chair has been celebrated annually at St. Peter's in Rome, with great pomp and solemnity. The chair, old, ugly and worn, on which St. Peter is said to have been pontificated, is enthroned by a magnificent throne, supported by four gigantic figures, and mounted upon a tribune decorated by Michelangelo. The throne stands in the great nave, behind the altar of St. Peter's. The venetians once claimed to possess the chair of St. Peter, but it was discovered about a century ago that this supposedly sacred article bore the inscription: "There is but one God and Mahomet is His prophet." It is supposed that this chair was brought from the east by the Crusaders.—[Exchange.

"No, suh."

"Well, how on earth can he stand it?"

"Well, suh," came the reply, "I reckon it's jes' dis way: In de fo'part ob de night de colonel's mos' kin'ly so 'toxicated he don' pay no attention to de skeeters; an' in de fo' part ob de night de skeeters is so 'toxicated dey don' pay no attention to de colonel."—[Boston Transcript.

REPUBLICANS TO CONCEDE NOTHING TO LA FOLLETTE

Vigorous Campaign in Strongholds of Radicals Ordered; Trend to Coolidge in Northwest Seen

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—Concede nothing to La Follette. This policy, emphatically stated at Republican national headquarters today, is taken as a virtual indorsement of a proposal to establish a regional headquarters at Minneapolis or St. Paul from which the campaign in the Northwest could be directed more effectively than from the main Chicago headquarters.

Chairman William M. Butler is reported to pass finally on this question of strategy when he returns to Washington the latter part of this week. The White House is favorably inclined to the project.

Former J. McCumber, former United States Senator from North Dakota, told the President today that an active campaign in the Northwest will put Minnesota and North Dakotas in the Coolidge column in November.

"With proper work on the part of real Republicans in North Dakota I see no reason why that State will not be for President Coolidge," said Mr. McCumber. "The same applies to South Dakota and Minnesota. These are Republican States and we can keep them Republican."

TREND FAVORABLE

Reports to the President indicate a more favorable trend of political current in the Northwest. Representative Royal Johnson of South Dakota has also told the President that a vigorous local campaign in that State would win for the Republican ticket.

James W. Good of Chicago, a former Representative from Iowa, who was western manager for the President in the preconvention campaign, declared that up to the time Mr. Coolidge had increased in strength since his nomination, while Democrats were making inroads from the candidacy of Senator La Follette of Wisconsin. This report checked with others which have been received by the President recently as to the effect of Senator La Follette's campaign.

TROUBLE IN MONTANA

Politicians there is a possibility that "something" may happen to put a crimp in the La Follette-Wheeler campaign. Senator Wheeler is scheduled to come to trial in the Federal courts in Montana before the election on the charge that he used his official position in representing a client before the Department of the Interior in Washington. Eight radical forces are reported split as a result of Senator Wheeler's indorsement of Senator Walsh instead of ambitious members of the radical group who would like Mr. Walsh's seat in the Senate. A movement is reported under way to substitute Gov. Charles W. Pine for Wheeler on the ticket in that State.

ANGLO-RUSS PACT MADE

Nations Agree on Two Treaties

Understanding Reached Will Govern Commercial and General Relations

Negotiation of Many Months Ends Successfully, is Report to Commons

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

LONDON, Aug. 6.—After months of negotiations a commercial treaty and a general treaty have been arranged between Great Britain and soviet Russia.

The proceedings in the Anglo-Russian conference underwent a sudden change this afternoon, after the announcement made on Tuesday of a breakdown in the negotiations. This afternoon, just when the House of Commons was preparing to listen to an explanation by Arthur Ponsonby, Undersecretary of State for Foreign Affairs, regarding the failure of the conference, John R. Clynes, Lord Privy Seal, announced that this explanation had been delayed until a later hour, owing to the prospects of a settlement of the issues involved.

AGREEMENT SURPRISES

Shortly afterward Mr. Ponsonby was able to announce, much to the surprise of members of the House, that the conferees had arrived at an agreement and that he hoped a treaty would be signed tomorrow. Mr. Ponsonby admitted it had been a race against time, because the imperial government was eager to reach a settlement of the controversy before Parliament adjourned for the summer recesses.

Mr. Ponsonby said the commercial treaty followed the usual lines of such treaties.

FIRE SWEEP ENDANGERS SIGNAL HILL

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

LONG BEACH, Aug. 6.—A spectacular fire that took out all the fire-fighting apparatus of this city to an arroyo in the Signal Hill district tonight, burned about 10,000 barrels of waste oil, destroyed trees and shrubbery and for a time threatened the plant of the Lomita Gasoline Company, where thousands of gallons of gasoline were in storage. The gasoline was moved in freight cars.

The waste oil, which was still burning late tonight, has been accumulated during a period of several months and lies in a natural gulley about three-quarters of a mile long north of Sunnyside Cemetery and through a part of the Jergins city lease. The fire is said to have been started by a welding torch used by a workman on a pipe line. The flames spread rapidly through the dry grass and brush into the arroyo. Within a few minutes the arroyo was a mass of red flames and black smoke shooting eighty feet in the air and with a roar that could be heard over the surrounding district.

At the Lomita Gasoline Company Shell Oil Company firemen battled to save the plant. They were aided by the firemen from Long Beach and hundreds of volunteers.

MID-WEST IS STORM SWEPT

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CHICAGO, Aug. 6.—Chicago and its suburbs suffered heavily from the terrific rainstorm which relieved the torrid spell that had held the city in its grip for several days.

RAINFALL 4.09 INCHES

A total of 4.09 inches of rain has fallen in the last three days, according to the official record at the weather bureau. This is more than was recorded for the entire thirty-one days of July, when 3.66 inches fell.

Thousands of basements, according to reports at the fire-alarm offices, were flooded in the city, car schedules were disorganized, and streets were flooded, while in the suburbs, especially along the Desplaines River, and the drainage canal, fears were expressed that the property damage from overflows would be heavy.

A rise of nearly seven feet in the Desplaines River at Maywood was reported, but the high banks at that point protected the village. Several dams were submerged, and the east bank from Maywood to Wheeling was inundated.

The Methodist camp-meeting grounds at Desplaines were under water.

Although Chicago was deluged, drenched and inundated, Milwaukee and other Northern Wisconsin towns got the worst of it. From Sunday night until last night Milwaukee was soaked with 4.65 inches of rain in intermittent storms. Danger of flooding some parts of the city were so acute that the great dams in the upper river were opened.

Blasting of expensive concrete bridges near West Bend, Wis., to permit a faster flow of flood waters is going on today as a necessary relief measure.

More than fifteen bridges on the Chicago and Northwestern road and the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul road between Milwaukee and Green Bay have been washed away. All train service in the north branch of these lines have been discontinued.

Hundreds of tourists are stranded in cities and towns of the flooded area, while in Milwaukee many persons are waiting to continue journeys northward. Eight deaths directly due to the storm have been reported from the State.

The Milwaukee River was like a mill race and registered a current of twelve miles an hour. Three big boats were unmanageable in the miniature Niagara and smashed into bridges.

Thereupon the port of Milwaukee was informally closed.

NEW YORKERS SLEEP IN PARKS TO KEEP COOL

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—The mercury continued to climb this afternoon after a start at 76 at 7 a.m. and by 2 o'clock it stood at 87 deg. This was only 2 deg. higher than yesterday and the humidity was slightly lower.

There was some promise of relief tonight through thunderstorms. The official forecast calls for local thunderstorms tonight and tomorrow, with a lower temperature by tomorrow night.

Following receipt of an order from Mayor Hylan early today, the parks were thrown open to all who wished to sleep in them in an effort to escape the heat, which at 2 a.m. was 85 deg. and the humidity 66.

Inspector George C. Liebers established police details in all the parks to guard citizens, scores of whom shifted their slumbers from hot bedrooms to park lawns.

INDIANAPOLIS (Ind.) Aug. 6. Three deaths and a score of prostrations resulted today from a continuation of the worst heat wave of the season in Indiana. The dead are Theodore Hallenbeck, 72 years of age, of Kendallville; Hiram Freeman, 75, farmer near Hartford City, and Willis Walter, 62, of Kendallville.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

OKLAHOMA CITY, Aug. 6.—At a late hour tonight "Jack" C. Walton, former Governor of Oklahoma, bitter opponent of the Ku Klux Klan, who was recently impeached by the State Legislature for malfeasance in office was generally conceded the nomination for United States Senator on the Democratic ticket by political leaders of the State. The vote in 2190 of 2996 precincts was: Walton, 59,880; E. B. Howard, 56,810.

During the early counting of the ballots, Howard, Klan candidate led Walton by a comfortable margin. However, when the vote from the "grass route" country began coming in, Walton went into the lead and has since maintained it.

TOPEKA (Kan.) Aug. 6.—Late returns from the Kansas primary indicate that Senator Arthur Capper has been renominated by a large majority.

Lieut.-Gov. Ben S. Paulen, who was indorsed by the Ku Klux Klan, apparently had won the Republican nomination for Governor over Clyde M. Reed and former Gov. W. R. Stubbs in a close fight. Gov. Jonathan M. Davis was easily renominated on the Democratic ticket.

GERMAN DELEGATES SPEED UP LONDON CONFERENCE

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

LONDON, Aug. 6.—The German delegation to the international conference which is seeking to evolve plans for putting the Dawes plan into effect cheered today the wearied Allied plenipotentiaries who have been struggling with the question for three weeks by being ready early this morning with a memorandum outlining the German opinion of the program which the conference has adopted for launching a new reparations era.

Chancellor Marx and his colleagues evidently caught the fever for holding all-night sessions. These sessions have been numerous among the world diplomats gathered in London, and the Germans worked throughout last night and until 3 o'clock this morning to complete the draft of their views for presentation to the delegates to the conference, assembled in the British Premier's official residence in Downing street at 10:30 o'clock this morning.

The final meeting of the "big seven" preceded the arrival of Chancellor Marx, Foreign Minister Stresemann and Finance Minister Luther. When the Germans came into the meeting room, the "big seven" called in additional members to their respective delegations and the conference, counting the Germans, thus became the "big fourteen," which is the committee of the chief delegates which will take the leading role during the remainder of the conference.

OBJECTIONS RAISED

While the delegates awaited a translation of the eighteen-page German memorandum, Chancellor Marx in a speech summarized the German objections to the plans of the experts for launching the Dawes project.

After studying the German memorandum and covering letter presented with it, Ramsay MacDonald, the British Prime Minister, handed both to the committee of seven experts, including a German member, for sifting out and cataloguing the German objections. Some points which are entirely political will be passed upon by the chief delegates. Other technical issues will be reviewed by select committees of the experts, which will include Germans.

The experts spent this afternoon at work and completed a study of the reports the Inter-Allied conference adopted on the economic restoration of Germany and the transfer of reparations payments. Tomorrow morning these two reports will be placed before the "big fourteen."

This evening the delegates met in Premier MacDonald's room in the House of Commons to consider with the Germans the plans which have been adopted for defaults and sanctions under the Dawes project.

ATTITUDE PLEASING

The American delegates are greatly pleased over the German attitude. In fact, throughout conference circles, there was favorable comment tonight upon the speed with which the German delegation complied in formulating their views on what has been accomplished.

After studying the German objections carefully, an American authority said there existed a good basis for the settlement of every objection the Germans had raised. He added that the issues outside the purview of the conference, such as military evacuation of the Ruhr and regarding Allied railway men on the German railroads, would cause more trouble, but he was optimistic that there would be a satisfactory settlement of these problems.

FLYERS TIED IN ICELAND

Weather Menace Causes Delay

Army Air Service Officials Decide Against Taking Hazardous Chances

New Plane for Lieut. Wade Starts for Nova Scotia Destination Today

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—Decision to hold the American world flyers at Reykjavik until weather and ice conditions assure reasonably safe landing on the Greenland coast was announced today by the Army Air Service.

The proposal that a 1000-mile hop from Iceland to Ivigtut be attempted, if efforts failed to establish a base at Angmagsalik was rejected after careful consideration as subjecting the remaining two ships to the possibility of almost certain injury.

"Should temporary weather and ice conditions on the Greenland coast preclude immediate landing of the expedition there," a statement from the department said, "the flight will remain at Iceland until conditions improve. It is not contemplated that an attempt will be made for a nonstop flight from Iceland direct to the coast of Labrador."

HOPE FOR "OPEN SPELL"

A wait of several days at the Iceland capital was admitted by officials as adding to the danger of even more adverse weather conditions ensuing because of the advanced season, but hope was expressed for an "open spell" which would be the signal for the next advance toward the goal of aerial navigation of the globe.

The ice pack reported to have formed around the Greenland Coast is not considered in itself an impassable barrier to the continuance of the flight, Army experts said, because it had been proved entirely feasible for the planes to land beside vessels at sea and refuel. While the ice itself is not a barrier, should a forced landing be necessary, to rescue of the flyers would be difficult.

"It may be recalled," a statement issued today said "that exactly thirty-four years ago this month Nansen's exploration party was attempting to pierce the interior of Greenland from the west coast near the place the American aviators intend to land. The explorer's party became marooned on a large ice floe which floated down the coast for several days before rescued."

NEW PLANE FOR WADE

Apparently abandoning the long-held hope that the Boston, accidentally wrecked at sea last Sunday, might be salvaged and repaired, the Air Service today ordered a substitute plane sent to Indian Harbor so that its pilot, Lieut. Leigh Wade, at least might accompany his comrades on the cross-country trip after they have made the Atlantic flight.

The plane, a Douglas of the same type as those used in the flight, will be flown from Langley Field, Va., as soon as the date of arrival can be approximated.

The cruiser Milwaukee, waiting at Ivigtut to supervise the final trans-Atlantic route, succeeded today in establishing direct radio communication with Washington and thus averting the delay which has been met in transmitting word of the flight to headquarters. The Army advance under Lieut. Shultz, which has been striving to reach Angmagsalik to land fuel and spare parts was blocked fifteen miles east of that port, the dispatch said, but was "struggling determinedly," to reach its objective.

An earlier dispatch signed "Smith" and apparently relayed from Commander Smith, chief pilot of the expedition, told of the impending start for Reykjavik, "where it will be necessary to

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 6.—The assassins of Mrs. Rosalie Evans have been captured, according to a report given out this afternoon at the War Department. The report came from Gen. Roberto Cruz, military commander in the State of Puebla, where Mrs. Evans was shot and killed near her hacienda last Saturday.

"I take pleasure in reporting that Gen. Antonio Gomes Velasco, my chief of staff, informs me from Texmelucan that the assassins of Mrs. Evans have been captured," said the message from Gen. Cruz.

"Valente Quintana, chief of the Mexico City Secret Service, cooperated efficiently in carrying out his mission to capture the assassins. The guilty men have been brought to the city of Puebla, adequately guarded. Accompanying Gen. Velasco and Senor Quintana came the secretary of the British Legation, who is well informed of the active efforts which have been made to clear up the crime. I shall continue to keep you informed."

President Obregon has sent one of his secretaries to Texmelucan to investigate the death of Mrs. Rosalie Evans, who was slain by unknown persons near her hacienda last Saturday, according to Foreign Minister Saenz. Senor Saenz said it had been impossible to furnish the American embassy with a detailed report.

Secretary of War Serrano has ordered Gen. Cruz to proceed with the disarmament of the agrarians in that section.

Whereabouts of George Camp, the Texan who had been assisting Mrs. Evans on her property, and who disappeared the day the crime occurred, continue unknown. Reports from one quarter say he is on a hacienda in the vicinity of Guadalajara.

BRITISH NOTE ON WAY TO MEXICO CITY

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.— A communication from the British government in connection with the killing of Mrs. Rosalie Evans in Mexico has been received in Washington and forwarded to Mexico City for presentation to the Mexican authorities by American Charge Schoenfeld.

The impression prevailed that the British communication was of the usual character in such circumstances and contained representations as to the steps the London government deemed it necessary that the Mexican authorities should take to apprehend and punish those responsible for the murder of a British subject.

In view of Premier MacDonald's statement in London yesterday, it was regarded as improbable that this communication was more than a preliminary to further representations which undoubtedly will be made dealing with the questions of redress and safeguarding of Brit-

PUBLISHER IS ACCUSED

Indicted Attorney Says W. R. Hearst Sought His Ruin Because of What Fallon Knew

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—William J. Fallon, on trial before Federal Judge McClintic for alleged jury bribing, today testified that his trial was the outgrowth of a plot by William Randolph Hearst, and Victor Watson, assistant publisher of the New York American, a Hearst paper, to ruin him.

The indicted attorney, quoting an alleged confession of Ernest Eidlitz, a former employee, told the jury his destruction had been planned because Eidlitz had revealed to Watson Fallon's possession of birth certificates of the children of a certain motion-picture actress.

The defendant quoted the alleged Eidlitz confession as reputed to have been made in the apartment of Billie Bennett, actress, in the presence of Miss Bennett, Fallon, Walter O'Neill, and Mrs. Mona Lewis, who lived with Miss Bennett.

Fallon's testimony on the confession alleged to have been made to him by Eidlitz included this quotation:

FEARFUL OF ARREST

"Eidlitz said to me that he told Watson he was fearful he would be arrested, and that he knew I had birth certificates of a certain motion-picture actress and that I knew Mr. Hearst had sent a woman who pretended to be a countess, to Florida to get evidence.

He said he had told Mr. Watson that I intended to use that information to blackmail Mr. Hearst.

"Eidlitz said he told Mr. Watson that I had the number of the car and the name of the man who went to Mexico with the same party, the same motion-picture actress. He said that a few days later Hearst communicated with Watson and said to Watson, 'Fallon must be destroyed.'"

Fallon is charged with bribing Charles W. Rendigs, a juror in the Durell-Gregory mail fraud case, where Fallon represented one of the defendants, but he answered this charge today with the assertion that he did not meet Rendigs until after the trial of the mail fraud case. He immediately afterward accused Ernest Eidlitz, former investigator of Fallon, of telling Mr. Watson of Fallon's possession of the papers.

Fallon testified that Eidlitz told him that he had been informed by a reporter of the New York American that Fallon was going to have him arrested for signing Fallon's name to checks. He asserted Eidlitz said he had received $9000 from the American with a promise of $20,000 if Fallon were convicted.

STORY IN DETAIL OF ACCUSED ATTORNEY

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—Questioned by Attorney Richard J. Shanahan in Judge McClintic's court today, William J. Fallon, attorney on trial on a charge of jury bribing, testified as follows:

Question: When did you first meet Charles Rendige? Answer: After my indictment. He called me up in July of last year and said he was worried and wanted to talk with me about the case. Rendigs and I thereafter had several meetings, and Rendigs told me of having obtained a check from Pani on November 6, 1922.

Q.: Did Rendigs go before Federal Attorney Hayward? A.: Yes, and he told Col. Hayward I was innocent. Rendigs said Col. Hayward told him he would dismiss everything against him so long as he would testify against Fallon.

Q.: After your indictment when did you first see Eidlitz? A.: Last February. Walter O'Neill asked me to see Eidlitz. He said Eidlitz was anxious to see me to retract false statements he had made against

LOEB ACTUAL MURDERER

Alienist Tells of Admission

List Includes Students; Two Accused Will Not be Called

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

CHICAGO, Aug. 6.—The defense temporarily exhausted its source of expert testimony today, forced an early adjournment, and tomorrow will introduce the first of its lay witnesses, who will continue to give Judge John R. Caverly evidence on which is based the plea for mitigation in the punishment of Nathan F. Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb, kidnapers and murderers of Robert Franks.

The startling development of today's sessions of the hearing on the youth's plea of guilty was the identification of Loeb as the actual slayer of the Franks boy.

The mystery as to which of the two actually administered the death-dealing blows with a cold chisel had remained unsolved through weeks of investigation and twelve days of the hearing until Dr. Bernard Glueck of New York, the third mental pathologist to testify for the defense, calmly and casually in his monotonous drone of testimony replied to a question of Benjamin Bachrach of defense counsel.

"Did Loeb say who struck the blow?" asked Bachrach.

"He told me throughout that he, Loeb, struck the blow," replied Dr. Glueck.

SIGNIFICANCE LOST

The significance of the delayed revelation apparently was lost on the crowded courtroom. It came with unexpected suddenness just as the doctor had settled into what promised to be further vivisection of the youths' personalities along lines brought out twice previously by Drs. W. A. White of Washington and William Healy of Boston.

Upon cross-examination Robert E. Crowe, State's attorney, launched a vigorous attack upon Dr. Glueck but was met by a smiling composure that refused to be flustered.

The prosecutor forced an admission from the psychiatrist that he did not have in his voluminous notes which lay in his lap any direct reference to striking with death implements.

"Read the notes that Loeb told you he actually struck the blow," demanded the prosecutor.

"Profound lack of adequate emotional response in presence of intact intelligence," read the specialist and maintained under a rapid fire of questions that "it conveys to my mind the absolute conviction that this note refers to that when I discussed with him the details of the murder."

STATE FORCES RECESS

The State, arguing the importance of the point, forced a recess for Dr. Glueck to search for further reference to the actual murder but when he took the stand at the afternoon session he reported his inability to find any further information.

Dr. Glueck concluded from his examination of the defendants, he testified, that Loeb was "disintegrated, suffering from a disordered personality, the nature of which primarily is a profound discord between his emotional and intellectual life, and is incapable of endowing his surroundings with an adequate emotion," and that Leopold is "of a distinct paranoid personality and is developing a definite course of paranoid psychosis." Testimony yesterday brought out that "psychosis" is the modern definition of "insanity."

The brevity of Mr. Crowe's cross examination left the defense unprepared to continue its case and caused Judge Caverly to stop the proceedings an hour and a half earlier than usual. Mr. Crowe hammered at the witness along lines previously employed in his efforts to belittle the value of the testimony in mitigation of punishment.

Clarence S. Darrow, veteran chief of defense counsel, said upon adjournment that a dozen or more lay witnesses, including students from the University of Michigan and the University of Chicago, from which Loeb and Leopold, respectively are the youngest graduates, would be called before the final expert testimony was introduced.

BOYS NOT TO TESTIFY

"The defense does not intend to have the boys testify," said Mr. Darrow. "We may find that we shall want some members of their families to take the witness stand to connect up definite phases of their lives or to identify exhibits already put into the record.

"In that event we shall call Foreman Leopold, brother of Nathan, and Allan Loeb, brother of Richard."

Mr. Darrow indicated that the defense might reach the point where it could rest its case next Monday.

It was the first day that State's Attorney Crowe had not at some interval asserted the hearing had reached a stage where Judge Caverly should summon a jury and have the youths tried upon a plea of insanity.

Judge Caverly took advantage of the early adjournment to scan a stack of several hundred letters bearing postmarks from all parts of the country, advising him as to what his decision should be. He said they were a nuisance and every writer was in contempt of court.

The judge's chambers were invaded after adjournment by an elderly woman who said she was Mrs. Anna Lurie, the wife of a Jewish rabbi of Houston, Tex. She urged that a jury of rabbis be called to hear the trial. She was taken to the psychopathic hospital for observation.

SAMUELL GETS KAYO BY BOUT

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SUPERIOR (Ariz.) Aug. 6.—E. W. Samuell, candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor, had hard luck when scheduled here for an address. It happened to be the time of a prize fight in which great local interest was taken. So the candidate was left without an audience and had to be content with promise of a later date.

W. R. HEARST IS ACCUSED

me. I said I was afraid to see Eidlitz and did not want to. O'Neill said I ought to hear what Eidlitz had to say. He told me Eidlitz had said he would tell the truth and would exonerate me. I agreed to meet Eidlitz. We met him the next day at the Gregoran Hotel. Eidlitz wanted to shake hands, but I said I would not shake hands with him. He said his conscience had been bothering him. He said he had made the false statements to protect himself because the people on the American had told him I intended to have him arrested and they urged him on to make the statements.

He said he had received $9000 from the New York American and had been promised $20,000 and a life job with the American if Fallon were convicted. He said they promised he would get a job in their auto garage. He said that on the day of my indictment Victor Watson of the American patted him on the back and said, "Ernie, for this you have a life job with the American and if you don't get your money from the paper, don't worry, I'll make good." Eidlitz said he was resentful when I discharged him and knew the American had an animosity toward me. He went to see Watson.

BLACKMAIL HINT

He said he told Victor Watson that Fallon had the birth certificates of children born of a certain prominent picture actress. He told me also that he had told Watson that I had learned that Hearst had sent a certain woman, supposed to be a countess, to Florida to get certain evidence. He said he told Watson I knew all the details of a trip of Hearst and this party, the actress, to Mexico. He said he told Watson that he believed I was going to use this information to blackmail Hearst. He said Watson a few days later told him he had communicated with Hearst and that Hearst said, "we must destroy Fallon at any cost."

Eidlitz talked with me about two hours, weeping some of the time. He said he would see Assistant Federal Attorney Millard and tell him the truth and how he had lied against me. He said the American had framed this story of his seeing me giving money to Rendigs. He said the American invented the story of the meeting in the McGee apartment and that they had tried to get Harry Telfair to say that as Rendigs was leaving I was heard to say, "Now you've got your money, you know what to do."

Q. Did you give Eidlitz $2500? A. Not a cent. Eidlitz told me he had plenty of money, enough to last him. He said he did not want any from me. I could not have paid him any money.

Fallon then recounted the story of his meeting with Editor Watson at Watson's request last month. Watson had testified that he urged Fallon to plead guilty, but that Fallon declined on the grounds that if he "squealed" it would send one or more persons to jail. Fallon denied that any such conversation occurred.

Tokio Plan for Reconstruction Called Failure

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—"The anticipated reconstruction program of the Japanese to replace the buildings lost by the earthquake and fire last year has failed to materialize," G. S. Brown, president of the Alpha Cement Company, who returned from a three months' study of conditions in the Far East, said today.

"Temporary structures sufficient to house the people have been erected, but little permanent construction has been started, and when I was there no one seemed to have any knowledge as to when active permanent construction would be started."

CALEXICO IS IMPRESSED BY SAMPLE

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CALEXICO, Aug. 6.—As a climax to a triumphal three-day campaign in Imperial Valley, Calexico people greeted Senator Ed P. Sample, candidate for the Republican nomination for Congress in the Eleventh District, at Recreation Park tonight. The crowd was the largest assembled this summer in the valley to hear a candidate and that the people were in sympathy with the speaker's remarks was evidenced by the frequent rounds of applause.

D. L. Ault, attorney, introduced Senator Sample as the man the people of Imperial Valley want to send to Washington as their representative to further the valley's interests in Colorado River legislation.

An eloquent appeal to support his candidacy at the primaries was voiced by Senator Sample, who outlined his platform briefly and clearly. He showed that he is a staunch supporter of President Coolidge and has received guarantees of the administration's hearty co-operation if he is sent to Congress.

"I know that you people want the Colorado River harnessed by the government and I pledge myself to work hard to accomplish that end," said Senator Sample. "It has been made plain that a bill to build a dam in the Colorado will be forced upon us before all the details of a trip of Hearst and this party, the actress, to Mexico. He said he told Watson that he believed I was going to use this information to blackmail Hearst. He said Watson a few days later told him he had communicated with Hearst and that Hearst said, "we must destroy Fallon at any cost."

This statement of the candidate's met with instant approval. Members of the "Sample for Congress Clubs" of the valley tonight expressed the belief that Senator Sample has impressed the voters with his ability to represent the district and his sincerity of purpose, and it was predicted that he will carry this county, the home of the present Congressman, by a large majority at the primaries.

ALL SECTIONS TO HEAR G.O.P. SPEAKERS

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—William M. Butler, Republican national chairman, today asked Representative Tilson and Representative Saunders, managers of the eastern and western speakers' bureaus, to make every effort to supply speakers even in sections considered safely Republican.

It was said that the new policy was the result of many appeals from New York and New England on behalf of local leaders who already had arranged rallies. In some places in the West also this has been done.

"I am hopeful that we can develop a feeling that the failure to vote will be as disgraceful as the failure to pay proper debts," said the chairman.

LA FOLLETTE DRIVE WAITING FOR MONEY

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—Scope of the campaign in behalf of the La Follette-Wheeler Presidential ticket, those in charge of arrangements said today, will not be determined until it is known approximately how much money will be available for expenditure.

Solicitation of funds from the public and from members of labor, farm and other groups supporting the La Follette movement is still in the organization stage, it was said, with the probability that it will be several weeks before contributions in substantial amounts are received. Until money begins to come in and they are able to gauge the amount that probably will be received, the La Follette organization will have to go slow on expenditures for such activities as speech making by radio and the preparation of campaign literature, leaders said.

In his efforts to obtain funds from members of labor organizations William H. Johnston is sending communications to locals of twenty or more national unions, urging each to appoint a committee of at least three to canvass the local's membership for funds.

CLARKSBURG PREPARES FOR WELCOME TO DAVIS

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

CLARKSBURG (W. Va.) Aug. 6. Plans for the combined homecoming celebration and notification to John W. Davis of his nomination for the Presidency by the Democratic party were outlined today to the Davis homecoming committee by Louis O. Johnson, chairman of the local notification committee, who co-operated with the Democratic National Committee in shaping plans for the event.

The homecoming celebration will begin when Mr. Davis steps from a Baltimore and Ohio train Saturday morning at 9:15 o'clock. Two bands will play at the station and will head a procession to the Davis home in Lee avenue. A homecoming parade will take place Monday afternoon in which virtually all organizations in Clarksburg will be represented.

The telegram also told of the reports in Mexican papers of the "effective action" taken by Mexican authorities. The Charge reported that Mrs. Evans's body had been received in Mexico City, but added that the representatives of the British Consulate who had gone to the ranch to see that the property was protected, had not returned to the capital.

FARMERS HOLD BUSINESS EDGE

Economic Conditions Abroad Regarded as Better

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—Continued recession in almost every business field, with agricultural producers, favored by rising prices, constituting an outstanding exception to the trend, was shown in the Federal Reserve Board's monthly review of business conditions, made public today. The countries of Europe at the same time were declared to be experiencing a commercial revival of sizable extent.

Steel, textile, automobile and nonferrous metal industries of the United States entered July with decreased employment, the review said, while railroad shipments, running 15 per cent below the volume of a year ago, and sales in distributing channels of the retail and wholesale trades alike dropped off. Accompanying declines were noted in wholesale price levels and in the volume of commercial loans extended by banks.

The redeeming condition in the line of agricultural production was noted principally in the cereal-growing regions, although cotton was said to be promising a fair-sized crop at prices somewhat above spring levels. Drought in the western range country and bad weather in scattered tobacco-growing sections were adverse factors reported in the agricultural field.

Building operations, which have proceeded apace in the United States for many months, in June were declared to have shown seasonable contraction but to be still involving construction with a value considerably above the average.

Business activities abroad have sharpened, the review said, under the encouragement of better national fiscal and currency policies and lessened tensity in international relations.

"Economic conditions in Europe during the first half of 1924 have been characterized by an increase in industrial activity," it was added, "a growth in domestic and foreign trade, and in many countries by smaller fluctuations in prices and exchange rates. Countries whose currencies depreciated violently in 1922 and 1923 have since adopted financial reforms resulting during the year in greater stability, and in consequence, business in those countries was no longer under the constant necessity of adjusting itself to wide uncertainties in monetary values, and was conducted more directly with reference to general economic developments.

"Beginning with the latter part of 1923 and continuing until May of this year, unemployment through a large part of Europe has diminished, production in basic industries has increased and in contrast to preceding years the time and character of change in the business situation in the different countries have shown a considerable degree of uniformity. More recently there have been indications of slackening production and trade, but for the first half-year as a whole business has been more active than for corresponding periods in either 1922 or 1923."

SEVENTEEN ARE KILLED BY BANDITS

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 6.—Seventeen defenseless persons were killed and ten others wounded when a band of fifty armed outlaws attacked a hacienda near Upichen, State of Yucatan, according to special dispatch from Merida to El Universal today.

The assailants declared they came from the village of Upichen, where they had previously committed outrages. They sacked the hacienda and fled with 150 Federal troops in pursuit.

The band, composed of Indians, is likewise charged with the recent attack on the village of Kalkini. The special dispatch asserts there is no specific reason for the attacks, which are attributed to the chaotic conditions following the recent occupation of the territory by the revolutionists.

Official quarters here have no confirmation of the press reports.

The general treaty, Mr. Ponsonby continued, after reciting which of the former treaties had lapsed and the few which had been renewed, made provisions for the definition of territorial waters. This question, however, he said, must await international agreement.

With regard to miscellaneous claims, Mr. Ponsonby said an arrangement had been arrived at under which the claims are to be investigated and a lump sum determined. Concerning property claims both sides would appoint members of a commission to investigate them and arrive at a decision regarding compensation.

FLYERS DECIDE ON ICELAND WAIT

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

REYKJAVIK (Iceland) Aug. 6. A conference was held today by Rear-Admiral Magruder on board the United States cruiser Richmond with Lieuts. Lowell H. Smith and Erik Nelson, the United States Army aviators who have reached Reykjavik on their 'round-the-world flight, wit hregard to pressing on toward their next stop in Greenland. It was decided at the conference that the aviators should remain here pending the receipt of reports from Angmagsalik regarding ice conditions off the Greenland Coast, which are said to be bad.

After Tuesday's gale the weather here today was warm and clear and normal Icelandic summer conditions prevailed. The two American cruisers and two torpedo boat destroyers in the harbor are attracting much attention. They are the first American warships that have ever anchored at Reykjavik.

Siggurdur Eggerz, head of the ministry of Iceland, paid a formal visit to the Richmond this afternoon and invited the officers of the cruiser, together with the flyers, to visit the old site of the Iceland Parliament tomorrow.

ONE OBSTACLE FOR COOLIDGE

Apathy is Only Danger, Says Congressman Hull

National Committeeman is Encouraged by Tour

Nothing can prevent the overwhelming election of Coolidge and Dawes next November except apathy among voters, according to Congressman W. E. Hull of Illinois, who is in Los Angeles following an investigation of political conditions in various Western States as a representative of the Republican National Committee.

"The press is full of rumors and reports as to the relative standing of the Presidential tickets," said Congressman Hull, "but a careful first-hand analysis of the situation shows that the Republican ticket is by far the strongest and that the Republican nominess steadily are gaining strength in territory where the opposition is counting on its best showing."

DA FOLLETTE SHOWN UP

The Illinois Congressman said his investigation has demonstrated the existence of a paradoxical situation in the country generally, that whereas the residents of one section believe Coolidge and Dawes will receive an even greater plurality than Harding and Coolidge in 1920, those in another locality may be greatly exercised over the possibility of a deadlock in the Electoral College and a subsequent disposition of the Presidency in the House of Representatives.

"The uncertainties arising from the activity of a relatively strong third party have led to exaggerations and needless anxiety," asserted Mr. Hull, "as it has been my experience in talking to citizens in all walks of life in various Western States that a clearer knowledge of the real issues in this campaign is rapidly increasing.

"People generally are beginning to see Senator La Follette's candidacy in its true light—merely an effort backed by a considerable amount of money to creat political chaos and bring about economic unrest. I believe that by the time the election falls due the man expected to give the third party its greatest support, the laboring man, will discover that this movement represents as much danger to his interests as to the general interests of the country, and that he will vote accordingly.

FEAR RUINOUS REGIME

"I have just come from Colorado, Wyoming and Utah, where a contest undoubtedly exists, but representatives of all interests in these States, the laboring man, the business man and the farmer, have a good understanding of the reasons why President Coolidge should be retained. I found this sentiment among Democrats as well as Republicans. All of these States are more or less dependent upon a protective tariff and they realize that a Democratic administration would be ruinous to their States. They realize that if anything should happen to cause the election of the President to be thrown into the House of Representatives the La Follette movement, it is more than likely that it would terminate in the election of "Brother Charley" Bryan, which, everyone knows, would certainly give the country a setback from which it would take many years to recuperate.

"After talking with representative citizens in different cities in these States I am sure that they realize that it is necessary for them to put their shoulder to the wheel and educate the people to the necessity of a Republican administration for the next four years. Coolidge has been making and expert indication is that he is able, sane and courageous, and not afraid to veto when it is necessary for the best interests of the country to veto. I am under the impression that the exercise of the veto will make him appear more strong with the people.

"Dawes, without doubt, is a world figure and he will be a safety-valve in the Senate."

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

BOSTON, Aug. 6.—Politicial candidates who use the radio to broadcast their speeches in this campaign must be polite. Rules issued by broadcasting station today state that a "man may talk about what he stands for, what his party stands for, etc., but he may not resort to attack his political opponent or any other party." If a candidate violates this rule, it is warned, he will find that suddenly the current has been switched off and he is talking into a "dead" microphone.

OFFICERS CHECK BORDER TRAFFIC

Thousands en Route from Mexico Each Day

New Laws Make Entry Here More Difficult

Many Aliens Held Awaiting Court Trials

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

CALEXICO, Aug. 6.—Immigration inspectors who are checking the traffic into United States across the border here report a total of 418,947 persons crossing in July. This in an increase of nearly 25,000 over June. A daily check is being made, but its purpose is not divulged by the officials.

Basing their estimates on the monthly totals shown recently, inspectors assert that if the same traffic is continued throughout the next year, more than 5,000,000 persons will have crossed the border into Calexico.

According to the official count, which has been under way here for several months, there is an average of three aliens to one American citizen crossing the border. No count is taken of the persons returning southward across the line.

More than 12,000 aliens crossed into Calexico from Mexicali on July 22, which was asserted to be the record day in that month. Slightly less than 4000 American citizens crossed the line in the same day.

Since July 1, when the new Immigration Act went into effect here, immigration inspectors have been more careful in examining persons attempting to enter at this port. Their watchfulness has resulted in sending back to Mexico numerous men and women who could not prove their right to enter this country. The inspectors deported thirty-nine persons in July and several aliens who entered illegally are awaiting trial.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 6.—Gov. Richardson has just returned from trip through the San Joaquin Valley and reports that fire stories sent out by sensational news agencies have been wildly exaggerated and have done resorts, hotels, stage lines, and business generally hundreds of thousands of dollars damage.

In a statement the Governor said: "I made a tour of the counties in the San Joaquin Valley during the last few days and found the people indignant at the exaggerated stories of fires sent out by the yellow press. These stories have cut the travel into the Yosemite Valley, Huntington Lake, Sequoia Park and Gen. Grant Park nearly one-half.

"All lines of business have been injured by fake fire stories. Hotels, mountain resorts, forest camps, stage lines, stores, gasoline stations and business generally have been injured many hundreds of thousands of dollars, not by the few fires, but by the weird yarns sent out from San Francisco, where there are no forests, but where certain agencies delight in making a mountain out of a mole hill.

"I want to advise all who can to be sure and visit the mountain resorts of California this month. The park superintendents report them free from any danger and on account of the cool summer more agreeable to visit than usual. This is one of the finest seasons ever known. El Capitan has not been burned up, the giant trees in Gen. Grant, Mariposa and Sequoia parks still stand and even Half Dome has proved impervious to the flames of yellow journalism. The Sierra Nevada Mountains from Lassen to Whitney were never grander."

FLAME FLARE-UP IN SIERRA FOREST AREA

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 6.—A flare-up of the fires in national forests in California resulted today in the destruction of the mill of the Prescott Lumber Company in the Sierra National Forest in Fresno county. The mill fire started a forest fire which had burned over 300 acres, according to the latest reports received here. Forest Supervisor Benedict hastily was assembling a fire gang to fight this new outbreak.

A fire was reported from the Lassen National Forest near Cassel, Shasta county. There are sixty men on the fire line and the flames are out of control.

MARY, DOUG BACK IN TOWN

Stars Say They Will Not Leave United Artists; Promise Important News Soon

"Mother, you've bobbed your hair! Mary why did you let her do it? Doug, why didn't you interfere? Oh dear . . . " with this wail and accompanying tears from Lottie Pickford Forrest, Mary Pickford, Douglas Fairbanks and "Ma" Pickford yesterday descended from the train at Pasadena. They were home at last after several months abroad and the bobbed hair of Mrs. Pickford was the only discernible change.

Mary, looking radiantly happy in a little black hat and short black frock, clutched dozens of thorny roses in one hand and shook hands with her friends frantically with the other. Doug, looking summery in "ice-cream" trousers, wandered back and forth excited and tongue-tied. And then the two of them saw Charlie Chaplin pushing his way through the crowd and pounced on him. "Charlie," shouted Mary, "It's so good to see you. We heard in Paris all about you, and—well, you know! Who is it now, Charlie?" And all three subsided in laughter.

REPORTS DENIED

The appearance of the three members of the United Artists' Corporation together called for a statement, and Douglas Fairbanks asserted that neither he nor Mary intended leaving that organization. It had been rumored that they intended to join another motion-picture producing and distributing organization.

"The stories in the newspapers to the effect that Mary Pickford and I contemplate any change in our business arrangements are absolutely without foundation," said Fairbanks. "Mr. Chaplin has already said this. So have I. But I want to repeat without any reservation or qualification, and I hope in a way that will prevent the repetition of such reports, that there is no possibility that Mary Pickford or myself will tie up with any other institution or that Mary will do 'Peter Pan.'

"In one way the circulation of these rumors is more or less flattering. The Wall Street Journal the other day stated that the stock of a certain motion-picture organization had been put up by the report that that organization was to handle our pictures. Perhaps that was the purpose of the report, and it may have succeeded, but it does not make the report true. Other artists are also asserted to be on the point of making contracts with the same organization.

PLEA TO PUBLIC

"The public would do us the greatest service if it would reject all such statements so far as they relate to Mary Pickford and myself. It is disturbing to have such credence given to reports of changes which are not only impossible now, but are not even remotely possible in the future.

"I am more than ever convinced that in the United Artists Corporation we have secured absolute freedom for ourselves in making the kind of pictures we want to make, and at the same time have a means of distribution which is so satisfactory that no other need even be contemplated."

"But we are going to have some very interesting news in a few weeks," called Mary.

Jack Pickford, Marilynn Miller, Lottie Pickford, Bull Montana and many others grouped around, eager to welcome the couple back to California. However, the short curly bobbed hair which fluffed out from under Mrs. Pickford's hat was the object of many tears from Lottie, and many scowls from Jack. It was plain to be seen that they weren't certain that Paris had been the best thing for "mother."

Although all sizes and varieties of machines were drawn up for the purpose of taking Douglas and Mary back to Hollywood, Charlie Chaplin, fairly oozing pride in a new blue roadster, literally pushed them into it. Mary, plainly hesitant at risking her life to Charlie's driving, kept remonstrating. "But Charlie, are you sure you can drive?" The famous comedian, frowning at her lack of faith, merely shoved in the clutch and they were off. At a late hour last night no casualties had been reported, so it is assumed that Charlie can drive.

State Railways Gain Heavily in Assessed Value

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 6.—Figures compiled by the State Board of Equalization and made public today show that the assessed valuation of railroads in California, exclusive of all terminals, terminal facilities, stations, etc., totals $320,618,343, representing a gain of $21,798,883 over the assessed valuation of the same properties last year.

TROOPS AT DEL MONTE KEPT BUSY

Los Angeles Regiment in Scout and Patrol Drill; Band Makes Hit

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NATIONAL GUARD ENCAMPMENT, DEL MONTE, Aug. 6.—After the confusion of the first two days getting settled in camp, the One Hundred and Sixtieth Regiment, California National Guard, all Los Angeles men, has had three days during which mornings have been given over to intensive close-order drill and scouting and patrolling. The afternoons from 1:30 until 3:30 o'clock have found most of the enlisted men in schools of advanced battalion tactical instruction or getting in condition for field day, the 12th inst.

With the exception of Capt. Fred M. Logan, U.S.A., senior instructor for the Los Angeles Regiment, all instructors are officers of the Thirtieth Infantry, U.S.A., stationed at Camp Del Monte. Two battalion parades of the One Hundred and Sixtieth have already taken place, that of the First Battalion, under Maj. Seth Howard, and that of the Second Battalion, under Maj. Hewitt Callender, both battalions creating splendid impressions. Without doubt the One Hundred and Sixtieth Regimental Band has done more toward popularizing the regiment than any other single feature.

This afternoon Brig.-Gen. Joseph E. Kuhn, U.S.A., commanding Camp Del Monte, requested the band to play at the Gymnika to be held at Sand Beach.

STONE WILL ACT ON TAX REFUNDS

Attorney-General to Settle California Question

Decision Expected to be Made Within Two Months

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—Atty.-Gen. Stone expects to reach a decision on the question of community property refunds in California on Federal inheritance and income taxes within six weeks or two months. He expects to confer with Solicitor-General Beck of the department about the 12th inst., when he returns to Washington from a vacation and will reach a decision as to whether the Internal Revenue Division of the Treasury shall proceed to make refunds under the opinion of Atty.-Gen. Daugherty or whether the taxpayers of California will have to resort to the courts for still further decisions.

Lloyd Robbins, a San Francisco lawyer who has made the fight for the refunds on community property, and C. R. Dodds, secretary to Senator Shortridge, had a conference with Atty.-Gen. Stone today and believe after their interview with the Attorney-General that a settlement of this question will be given in a short time.

PLEAS TO BE HEARD

The Attorney-General indicated to his callers that opportunity for further oral argument would be given in favor of the contention that the taxpayers of California are entitled to refunds in accordance with the decision of the State courts of California and the decisions of several of the Federal courts holding that community property shall not pay inheritance tax and that income from community property shall be divided into two reports—one for the husband and one for the wife.

Atty.-Gen. Stone wished more data and argument on two points in the appeal for refunds. One was to settle the point whether the Federal courts would follow rulings of the Federal courts in this matter or would the disposition be to sustain the decisions of the California State courts in future rulings in Federal courts. He also desired to secure additional information as to what additional grounds if any were covered by the latest decision of the California Supreme Court which followed the Federal Court decision and came after the ruling of Atty.-Gen. Daugherty that the Internal Revenue Commission should start the machinery for refunds on community property in California the same as in any other States where community property is legalized.

ACTION DESIRED

Atty.-Gen. Stone appeared to desire to handle the case promptly and was sympathetic in desiring to have the taxpayers of California obtain such relief as could properly be granted if uniform action by both Federal and State courts could be guaranteed and is anxious to make a final decision as soon as possible in this case which involves according to the estimates of experts about $130,000,000 in refunds for taxes already paid under protest by holders of community property either in Federal inheritance taxes or in income taxes on community property.

The San Francisco Bar Association has in the last day or two made application to file a brief and intervene in favor of the California taxpayers but it is expected that the application will be denied because of the late date of such application and the desire of the Attorney-General to finally dispose of this case as soon as possible.

Engagement to Baruch Denied by Lois Wilson

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—Miss Lois Wilson, star of the late Emerson Hough's "Covered Wagon," arrived in New York today on the steamship Homeric with a fresh denial that she had been engaged to Bernard Baruch, Jr., son of the noted banker.

"I did not know a thing about it until I saw it in a Paris newspaper, and I was surprised indeed," she said. She added that she had been a friend of the family for a long time and attributed the story to meeting the Baruch family quite accidentally in Paris.

WOMAN WHO ESCAPED ASYLUM FOUND DEAD

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PHOENIX, Aug. 6.—This afternoon in a gulley near the Arizona canal, eight miles north of Phoenix, was found the body of Mrs. Arminta Dillon, 58 years of age, who escaped from the State Insane Asylum July 16, last. She was committed from this city. The body was partly mummified, indicating that death must have been soon after she left the asylum. The skull shows fracture and there is possibility of foul play. A Coroner's jury is investigating.

DIES UNDER ENGINE

DULUTH (Minn.) Aug 6.—Robert Haney, 63 years of age, was fatally injured when he was run over by a switch engine in the Northern Pacific Railroad yards here. The accident is said to have occurred when Haney crawled under a grain car, coming out in the path of the switch engine, which passed over his legs. Both legs were amputated below the knees.

MAN TESTS HER MORALS; JAILED

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—The novel test which William Whittle, 38 years of age, president of the American Music Publishing Company, applies to applicants for work landed him in West Side Court.

Dorothy Walter, 16, of Brooklyn, said that when she went to Whittle's office in response to an ad for a stenographer, he held her hand. She notified her mother, who had Detective William Madden of the special service squad arrest the publisher. "What have you to say?" demanded Magistrate Rytenberg.

"Before I hire a girl," said Whittle, "I always test her morals by putting my arms around her, and being a bit free. If they do not resent it, I know they are used to it and not the kind I want in my office."

Whittle was remanded without bail.

TAX CUT PLEAS HEARD

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PHOENIX, Aug. 6.—The State Tax Commission is sitting as a board of equalization, hearing pleas for reduction of assessments. Many mining companies, though included in the late $39,000,000 drop in the valuation of mines, are asking further cuts. The first day of the session a special plea on behalf of the Copper Queen branch of the Phelps Dodge Corporation was heard.

ENTRIES TO BURNING MINE BEING CLOSED

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

BISBEE (Ariz.) Aug. 6.—The fire in the Lowell mine of the Copper Queen branch is in an old, worked-out area, filled with timber that is expected to continue to blaze or smolder as long as air is allowed to penetrate. So the Copper Queen and Calumet & Arizona helmet crews, under Mine Superintendent Harry Hayes, are bulk-heading all entries to the affected area on the 1000, 1100 and 1200 levels. A similar fire was known twelve years ago in a mine area near by. Little gas or smoke has escaped and ordinary mine operations are being continued elsewhere in the great network of Copper Queen drifts and stopes.

TO CARE FOR CROP

GRAND FORKS (N. D.) Aug. 6.—A number of elevators in Montana and North Dakota, which were closed last season, will be reopened to care for this year's crop as a result of the present crop prospects, according to E. F. Doran, superintendent of the Imperial Elevator Company for the north half of North Dakota.

YANK SWIM STARS WIN IN HOLLAND

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]
[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

AMSTERDAM, Aug. 6.—The American swimmers covered themselves with glory in the international match on Sunday, Kruger and Weismuller of the Illinois Athletic Club easily beating their Dutch competitors.

Despite the handicaps granted by the American sharks, Kruger won the 100-meter race in 1m. and 22 3-5s., which was eleven seconds ahead of Kraan of Amsterdam. The 100-meters free-stroke was taken by Weismuller, but he failed to improve his record because of the choppy water.

Kruger and Weismuller won the 400-meters relay against the Dutchmen. Kruger received tremendous applause for his trick swimming.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SOUTHAMPTON (N. Y.) Aug. 6. Brian I. C. Norton of St. Louis and Robert Kinsey of California reached the semifinal round of the Southampton tennis tournament at the Meadow Club today. Norton defeated S. Howard Voshell of New York, 6-3, 6-3, in the fourth round, while Kinsey furnished an upset, defeating Carl Fischer of Philadelphia, who is ranked three positions above him in the national rating. The score was 3-6, 6-1, 6-3.

Norton set too fast a pace for Voshell. The Long Island man never gave a true account of himself except early in the second set, when he gained a lead of 3-1. At all other stages he was outclassed, remaining at the base line, while Norton bombarded his court with streaking drives.

Fischer started well against Kinsey, but his failure to go to the net cost him the second and third sets. Kinsey's baffling chop strokes and greater steadiness won him game after game in the second set. In the third set, Fischer made numerous double faults which spoiled his opportunities after he had broken through Kinsey's service.

The summaries:

Singles, fourth round: Robert Kinsey, San Francisco, defeated Carl Fischer, Philadelphia, 3-6, 6-1, 6-3; B. I. C. Norton, St. Louis, defeated S. Howard Voshell, New York, 6-3, 6-3.

Doubles, first round: Fred C. Anderson and L. W. Felbelman defeated Stanley Mortimer and Goodhue Livingston, Jr., 6-2, 6-2; R. L. Norton and H. G. M. Kelleher defeated George Crawford and Perry Pease, 4-6, 6-2, 6-1; L. B. Bailey, Jr., and Alan Herrington defeated C. M. Bames, Jr., and A. D. Alexander, Jr., 6-1, 6-2; Harvey Snodgrass and Walter Westbrook won from S. M. Burke and W. Pierson by default; Fritz Mercur and T. S. Mangan defeated Phillip and Ludlow Vanderentter, 4-2, 7-5; S. Howard Voshell and Fred C. Bazzi defeated A. M. Hyde and Walter Stokes, 6-4, 6-0.

Mrs. Henry is Triumphant on Tacoma Court

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

TACOMA (Wash.) Aug. 6.—The bitterly contested match between Mrs. William Henry of Los Angeles and Miss Irene Stephens, Seattle woman racquet ace, was the outstanding feature of the third day's play of the Northwest Tennis Tournament in progress here on the courts of the Tacoma Lawn Tennis Club. Mrs. Henry finally emerged victorious in a three-set match that held the gallery in suspense throughout. The California woman took the first set with apparent ease, 6-0. The Northwest miss made a brilliant recovery, however, and after a warm tussle wrested the next set from Mrs. Henry, 4-6. The former immediately returned to form and proved her superiority by taking the third and deciding set, 6-3.

Ray Casey, who has been having a comparatively easy time of it so far, moved up another notch today by his quick victory over Grafe Hiberly, Tacoma, by a count of 6-1, 6-1. Neil Brown, playing with William Taylor, Seattle, in the men's doubles, easily triumphed over Maunsell Mitchell and Morrison Johnson, Tacoma, 6-3, 6-1. Casey and Herbert Suhr drew a bye in this event.

Mrs. Henry and Casey found little difficulty in disposing of Frances Hunt and Brent Plowden, Tacoma, in mixed doubles, 6-0, 6-0. Miss Winnifred Suhr and Neil Brown drew a bye.

WAMPAS TO PULL OFF BOXING SHOW

Johnny Adams, Pacific Coast lightweight champion, meets Young Lettie, and Phil Salvadore battles Eddie White in the wind-up events of the boxing program to be given the Wampas by Jimmie Murray, Los Angeles newspaperman, next Monday evening in the arena at the United Studios. The arena is being made ready for the occasion by M. C. Levee of the United Studios.

It is expected that 100 members of the Wampas, better known as the Western Motion Picture Advertisers, will attend. Ray Davidson will be chairman. The boxing program, in addition to the two feature events, follows:

MUSHY CALLAHAN TO WORK OUT ON ISLAND

Mushy Callahan, newsboy lightweight, who has been ill for the last few months with an attack of typhoid fever, is again out of bed, and will start training at Catalina Island in an attempt to make a comeback. Callahan has lost a lot of weight and is weak, but believes he will be on local fight cards

Some Fish for Fishes While Others Fish for Publicity

At Times Marie Prevost is bored by the ballroom gowns she must wear in the emotional drammahs and seeks relief by pulling her bathing suit off the hickory limb. Here's the beautiful Marie as we remember her in other days before she passed up the bathing-girl parts in Mack Sennett's comedies for the arduous, emotional roles in Warner Brothers' productions. Miss Prevost is shown here fishing at Laguna. Whether or not she had any luck at angling doesn't really matter so long as we can get a glimpse of the beautiful star in her old-time form.

ACORNS NOSE OUT TIGERS

Lefty Thomas Blows Up in Ninth and Oakland Puts Four Runs Across to Win, 7 to 4

BY ROBERT E. RAY

That loud explosion heard in the neighborhod of Washington Park yesterday was not somebody's cellar full of home brew popping off, but it was Lefty Thomas, Bengal southpaw, blowing up in the ninth inning of the Oakland-Vernon game.

Just before the explosion took place, the Bengals were leading the Oaks, 4 to 3, but when all the debris had been cleared away, it was discovered that the Acorns had scored four runs and grabbed the second contest of the series 7 to 4.

The home-run hitters fell down yesterday, only one circuit swat being registered. Pete Schreider rapped the ball over the left-field fence in the first inning with one on.

The athletes put on another exciting clash yesterday, the Great Mails and Lefty Thomas putting on a neat portside flinging duel for eight innings. Mails retired in to ninth to let Ted Cather single for him, and Kunz pitched one inning against the Bengals, but Walter gets credit for the victory.

TIGERS START STRONG

In the home half of the first inning, the way the Bengals hopped onto Mails, it looked as if another Armenian massacre was about to be perpetrated, with Bill Essick's frolicing athletes in the role of the naughty Turks. But after getting by the opening frame Mails settled down and the contest turned into a real thriller.

Pete Schneider, slugging Bengal right fielder, was hit in the kidney by one of Mails's fast balls in the eighth and had to retire from the game. Schneider was knocked cold for a couple of minutes, but revived and took first. After getting to second safely, Pete had to give it up, Rod Murphy going in to run for him.

Umps Bill Burnside had quite a bit of trouble getting along with both the players and the cash customers. It seemed that nobody was congenial with Burnside, taking exception to numerous of his decisions on balls and strikes. However, Burnside got through without provoking any riots and he should worry, for today is another day.

OAKS TIE IT UP

Oakland picked up a couple in the second when Arlett singled, Lafayette walked and Goebel singled infield, filling the bases. Arlett scored when Maderas forced Goebel at second. Maderas was out trying to steal second, but Baker walked. Then Lafayette and Baker pulled off a double steal, the former counting. The Oaks tied the

PADDOCK SHOWS HEELS TO GERMANS IN 200-METER RUN

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

BERLIN, Aug. 6.—Charles W. Paddock, the American running star, today ran 200 meters over a curved track in 21 2-5s., defeating Houben, the crack German champion of Crefeld. Houben, however, took the 100-meter race from Paddock and Loren Murchison in the time of 10 4-5s.

The American athletes who stopped here en route from Sweden, captured most of the events on the program of a special meet held under the auspices of the Berlin Athletic Club. The showing of the Americans is considered remarkable because they had traveled all night and entered the meet shortly after their arrival here. The visitors were cordially applauded by a large crowd of spectators.

OLYMPIC TEAM RETURNS

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—The United States liner America with 279 members of the American Olympic teams arrived at the foot of Second street, Hoboken this afternoon. The athletes were given an ovation by thousands of friends and relatives.

All the Olympic conquerors were in excellent health and spoke highly of the treatment accorded them in France.

The Mayor's commission of welcome for the distinguished visitors, headed by Grover A. Whalen, vice-chairman, met the contingent as the liner was passing quarantine. The shrill whistles of harbor craft vied with the deep tones of steamship whistles and the sirens aboard the police launch in greeting the returning athletes.

Ralph Works Joins Ranks of Benedicts

Friends of Ralph Works, former Detroit American League pitcher, were busy this week extending their congratulations on the ex-Tiger's recent marriage to Miss Linda Happy, a southern girl. The ceremony took place last Monday, and Works and his bride are again back in the city, following their honeymoon.

Works was with the Tigers in 1909, '10, '11 and '12, pitching against the Pittsburg Pirates in the world series of 1909. Although he never played in the Pacific Coast, he was at one time under contract here, a bad knee preventing his appearance.

For a time Works was one of the athletic coaches at Washington University, St. Louis, and also wrote baseball for the St. Louis Republican. At present he is local representative for the Rand-McNally Company.

ALEXANDER TO FACE SAVAGE ON SUNDAY

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

MEXICALI, Aug. 5.—Boxing fans who love the rough stuff, the slambang, hammer-and-tongs variety of ring contest, will have a whole platter full served up next Sunday in the main event at the O l Arena, when Kid Savage and Vic Alexander step into the ring to try conclusions over the twenty-round route.

Roy Neal of San Diego and Ted Frenchy of Los Angeles are booked to go eight rounds in the semi-final at 150 pounds. Both are sluggers and a rip-snorting fight should be the result. Lou Mormon and Young Sam Langford, both of San Diego, will meet in a special six-round event. Jimmie Barrero and Kid Milo, Mexicali's best of his weight and inches, are to fight a four-round feature and a first-class preliminary will open the show.

LEADS HUNTER TWO STROKES

Qualifies With Card of 70 in Invitation Tournament

Jack Tarrant is Third With Score of 74

Match Play Opens Today in Eight Flights

BY CHARLES WEST

Seventeen pars and a birdie gave George Von Elm medal honors in the annual invitation tournament of the Wilshire Country Club yesterday, the blond rancho player bettering par with a card of 70 to lead by two strokes the balance of a talented field of golfers. Von Elm's accomplice, Willie I. Hunter, also of Rancho, followed with a score of 72, leading Jack Tarrant, Hollywood's youthful phenom, by two strokes, while A. L. Moser's score of 75, which was low during the first day of qualifying, was equalled by W. W. Beckwith.

Hunter and Von Elm played in a foursome with Norman Macbeth and E. S. Armstrong, and drew a gallery of over 250 enthusiasts. Macbeth qualified with a 79 in spite of a couple of bad holes, while Armstrong took an 81.

MATCH PLAY

Match play opens this morning in eight flights, the draw in the Wilshire flight bringing Macbeth and Harry Borde of Brentwood together in the feature of the day's play. Macbeth drew the toughest half of the draw, having Jack Neville and Ed Merritt in addition to Borde to eliminate if he fulfills the expectations of the general public and reaches the finals. Harley Moore and I. A. Thorson of Hollywood appear as the strongest players in the lower section of the bracket. Von Elm, Hunter, E. S. Armstrong, Harlow Hurley and Frank Godchaux were unable to continue with the tournament.

The new system adopted by Wilshire's tournament committee which disqualifies low-handicap men who fail to make one of the first four flights, put nineteen men out of the tournament, and gave their places in the higher flights to high-handicap men. Such golfers as Dave Jacobs, Neal Burns, Phil Forve, L. M. Thomas, Herman Politz and R. H. Moulton were left out in the cold, but the ruling was met with approval on all sides.

PERFECT GOLF

Von Elm's round yesterday was simply perfect. A birdie four on the second hole marked the only time during the entire round he varied from par, and if he had dropped two or three none-too-hard putts his score would have been even more exciting. A series

Newsies Will Pull Off Great Boxing Fiesta

The Newsboys' Athletic Club will pull off the big show of its career next Monday night at its Spring-street arena. The object of this boxing fiesta is to blaze the way toward accommodating the newsies with more commodious quarters in the near future. On the card of eight events will be found eight of the best newsboy boxers in Los Angeles. A number of local business men have clubbed in and bought loving cups which will be presented to the best lads in each class. The list follows: Armond Coppola, 60-pounder; Bobby Olivas, 72-pounder; Hymie Miller, 80-pounder, Dominic Distarci, 85-pounder; Morris Tcatch, 90-pounder; Dick La Pan, 105-pounder; Kid Evans, 112-pounder, and Jack Blank, 115-pounder.

Mayor Cryer and the Chief of Police will be on hand to witness the entertainment — also a number of local judges. The referees will comprise Jack Dempsey (if he happens to be in the city) Georgie Marks, Irving Messenger, Bert Colima and Mickey Rockson.

DAVE SMITH QUITS TULARE GOLF CLUB

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

VISALIA, Aug. 6.—Dave Smith, for three years professional at the Tulare County Golf and Country Club, has resigned, and has gone to Southern California where he expects to secure a position. Smith is known throughout the State as one of the foremost teachers of golf and while here he was called upon numerous times to lay out courses in the valley. During the time he has served as pro, the local golf club has turned out a splendid team and a number of unusually fine players have been developed.

WASHINGTON PLAYER TO JOIN LOCAL CLUB

Jerry Freeman, ex-first baseman of the Washington Americans, is in Los Angeles, and plans to get back into the game again here. Freeman stated that he will join some local semipro club as either manager or umpire.

RIVALS PRAISE LEWIS

Although he doesn't need any unofficial press agents, Ed "Strangler" Lewis, world's heavyweight wrestling champion, gets a lot of free publicity from men whom he has defeated. The title holder makes such an impression upon his rivals with his famous headlock that nearly all come out with statements concerning "Strangler's" ability.

No less a personage than Joe Stecher, from whom Lewis won the title the first time, says this about the champion: "They can talk about the toe hold of Frank Gotch, but the worst hold in the game is the headlock of Lewis, the way he clamps it on a man. It has a strange effect on a man because it suddenly shuts off his hearing. You struggle with it and then everything is silent. That's the end."

Dr. B. F. Roller, the famous physician-wrestler, thinks Lewis the greatest of all grapplers. He says: "Ed "Strangler" Lewis is considerably stronger and heavier than was Gotch, just as fast, and just as clever. The headlock as Lewis uses it would have beaten Gotch."

Perhaps Joe "Toots" Mondt, who wrestles Lewis at the Philharmonic Auditorium next Wednesday night, will have a few words to say about the headlock after the match. However, Mondt is one of the most likely successors to the present champ, and is just good enough to evade that crushing hold.

RING TITLE OF ADAMS IN DANGER

Coast Champ Risks Crown With Trambitis Tomorrow Night at Hollywood

If the wise crackers around Dick Donald's gymnasium know their stuff, Johnny Adams and his title as lightweight champion of the Pacific Coast are in danger when the San Bernardino lad meets Johnny Trambitis in a championship bout at the Hollywood American Legion Stadium tomorrow night.

Adams is meeting the best boy of his weight in the Northwest. Trambitis has beaten some of the best lightweights in that section of the country. Adams is a Southern California boy who has done all that has been asked of him.

The main event Friday night is going to be full of thrills because Adams is defending his title as Pacific Coast champion and Trambitis is the Pacific Northwest champ, coming here to win the Coast title. It is the first time that an intersectional bout for the Pacific Coast lightweight title has ever been fought.

Jim Cullen has Eddie White training faithfully for his bout with Young McGovern, who is handled by Eddie Sears. This bout is going to be one that will prove thrilling, as both lads want to remain near the top spot and to do this they have to keep pleasing the crowds.

Sid Marks and Joe Layman both promise to do some fast milling. Layman always makes the going tough for his adversary. Marks can sock and must go at a fast clip to please the critical Hollywood boxing patrons.

COCHRAN DEFEATS CUEIST CANNEFAX

In a whale of a three-cushion carrom tilt between Cochran and Cannefax at the former's billiard parlors in Hollywood, Cochran won out last night, 300 to 298. Owing to a dispute near the end of the game over Cannefax's shooting with the wrong ball, it was decided to play the match over again next week. The play will continue Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday afternoons and evenings at Cochran's Hollywood parlors.

ANGELS CRUSH BAY CITY NINE

Seals Lose to Krugmen by Score of 7 to 4

San Francisco's Lead Reduced to Half Game

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 6.—The Seals sloughed off a game of their slender lead by losing to Los Angeles today, 7 to 4. Seattle won so the Seals are now leading by only half a game.

Oliver Mitchell got off to a bad start, for the Angels nicked him for two runs in the opening inning. The Seals plugged away and tied the score by picking up a run in the second and another in the third. Paul Waner's homer in the third knotted the count.

A hit by Ellison, a wild pitch and Kilduff's hit gave the Seals a run in the sixth and put them out in front for the first time in the afternoon, but Mitchell could not hold the lead. The Angels fell on him for three runs in the seventh, by bunching three hits with a pass and Waner's wild throw to third.

The Seals got one back in the last of the seventh and were then through for the day. Marty Krug lifted Root in that round and sent in Payne who made Kilduff lift a fly to end the inning, leaving a couple of mates gasping on the sacks.

Mitchell got in trouble again in the eighth and after Golvin had batted a run home, Mitchell walked Payne to fill the bases. Manager Ellison waved Mitchell out of the picture and called on Marty Griffin. Whaley was ticked by a pitched ball, forcing in a run and then McAuley hit into a double play, assisted by Rhyne and finished by Yelle and Ellison. Hunky Schorr batted for Griffin in the eighth and he pitched the ninth, another double play, started by Rhyne, pulling him out of trouble.

In the eighth after Rhyne had gone out, Yelle got a hit. Schorr batted for Griffin and was out on a fly. Then Waner and Valla got hits, filling the bases. It was up to Mulligan. Eddie took a half swing at a ball and sent an easy fly to Golvin and the last chance of the Seals was gone.

Hendryx opened the ninth with a double, but Ellison, Kilduff and Rhyne were easy outs.

On the dope the Seals should simply crush the Angels. But from the looks of the two games played the champions will be lucky to win the series. Meanwhile Seattle and the Oaks are climbing. Score:

HOWARD SHAW DEFENDS TITLE

Singles and Doubles Events Are Scheduled

To Hold San Diego Tennis Tourney Soon

Solid Gold Tennis Racket Pins to Winners

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN DIEGO, Aug. 6.—Announcement was made today that the second annual San Diego county men's singles and doubles tennis championship will be held at the Balboa Park Courts on the 30th, 31st inst., and September 1.

Howard Shaw was winner of the singles event last year, thereby gaining one leg on a beautiful solid silver cup presented by the sporting goods dealers of the city. He will defend his title this year against an imposing array of local talent, including Roy Bleifus, former county champion, Marvin Burnham, former member of the Yale tennis team, and Willis Cutler, former San Diego high-school champion.

Bleifus and Roy Harlow captured the county doubles event last year, but were defeated in the City League tournament last spring by Shaw and Cutler.

A new departure was introduced this year in the women's tournament in the giving of prizes and the policy will be continued in the coming men's tournament. No cups will be given with the exception of the permanent challenge trophy mentioned above, but instead solid gold tennis racket pins, suitably engraved with the year, event and winner's name, will be presented both in singles and doubles.

MORE RECORDS KLAMATH AYES

BY EDWIN L. HEDDERLY,

Assistant in Charge, Southern Division, California Fish and Game Commission.

Right through the final date for filing yesterday, signatures were ceased piling up on Klamath River Fish and Game District Initiative Petitions.

Although as "Proposition No. 11," this measure to save the salmon and trout seed-beds of the primitively magnificent river long since became certain of coming to a vote in November, such an avalanche of sportsmanlike sentiment has been shoving it through that, like most landslides, the "masses" once in motion, have been slow indeed to stop moving.

Volunteer petition-pushers in this county are taking real satisfaction in thus putting over a purely a public welfare measure by such wholesome co-operation. Evidence accumulating with the sportsmen's "Fish and Game Commission" indicates that not only have all initiative records been broken by this filing of over 100,000 duly registered voters' names, but, furthermore, no petition of any sort ever circulated in the State yet has attained such an enormous gross total of signatures. Approximately much nearer 200,000 men and women—have actually approved this principle of the people protecting their own by the ballot.

Although long accustomed to expecting advanced thought and intelligent action from the virile and awakened West, conservationists of the country over are amazed and delighted with this spontaneous demonstration of united popular enthusiasm thus shown by all California's citizenry in the preservation of their natural outdoor attraction resources in behalf of everybody. Wherefore it is confidently predicted that "Proposition No. 11" will pass on election day with the biggest affirmative vote ever accorded any initiative measure since direct legislation began, thereby making fish and game protection and propagation a veil-nigh the unanimous sentiment of the State from Siskiyou to San Diego.

DUTCH LEONARD TO REJOIN OLD TIGERS

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

DETROIT, Aug. 6.—Herbert (Dutch) Leonard, veteran left-handed pitcher, was reinstated by the orders of Baseball Commissioner Landis today and will join the Detroit team at once.

Leonard left the club in the spring of 1922 following a salary dispute. He played "outlaw" ball for a time and was automatically suspended. Recently he asked to be reinstated. Leonard asserted that he is in shape to pitch, having been playing independent ball in California.

FIND GRAYDON DEATH GUN?

Venice Officer Discovers Weapon Near Scene of Murder Four Years Ago

"Times" Staff Correspondent

VENICE, Aug. 6.—Belief that a Venice police officer has uncovered the revolver that sent McCullough Graydon to his death and Maybelle Roe and Oscar Bower to San Quentin penitentiary for life, is entertained at police headquarters this morning.

While walking near the banks of the Sherman Canal this morning Sergt. Horace Williams noticed a rusty revolver protruding from the bank. The gun was found a few feet from the spot where the death struggle over a piece of property in the South Beach district took place.

The case some four years ago caused national interest. Graydon and Bowers engaged in a fistic encounter on the bank of the canal. Although Mrs. Roe never admitted the actual shooting of Graydon, she was charged with the crime and sentenced to prison for life. At the time of the trial an exhaustive search was made for the weapon, asserted to have been used by Mrs. Roe, to aid the prosecution in their case. The gun was never recovered.

The gun now in the hands of Venice police is a hammerless Smith and Wesson. Several cartridges found in an automobile following the shooting were 32.20 caliber, but police believe that the bullets may have been planted to mislead in their investigation.

OFFICERS LOOK FOR RANCHER

Family of Missing Man Fear He Has Ended His Own Life

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

VISALIA, Aug. 6.—Tulare county Sheriff's office is endeavoring to locate J. Arthur Summers, well-known rancher, living four miles east of Strathmore, who disappeared Monday afternoon. He has a wife and two daughters, who today asked the aid of the officers.

Summers, who is about 35 years of age, six feet one inch in height, and weighs 160 pounds, has been suffering from an acute ailment and has talked suicide. He has also requested his physician to give an overdose of anaesthetic several times lately while undergoing treatments. Also, at one time about a year ago, he was the victim of amnesia for a short period.

Summers was last seen Monday. On that afternoon when he drove his automobile to Lindsay, deposited $280 in the bank, drew out $50 in cash, returned to Strathmore, made some small purchases, placing them in his car with the bank deposit slip, parked the car at the curb and disappeared.

Alhambra Officer Arrests Auto Thieves

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

ALHAMBRA, Aug. 6.—When the automobile which they were driving ran out of gas on Mission Road late last night, one of the three occupants started with a can to locate some of the precious fluid. He encountered Officer Boone who became suspicious and escorted the trio to the police station.

At first protesting that they had borrowed the automobile from a friend in Palo Alto, one of the men, the officers say, confessed that they stole the machine in San Francisco Saturday night. Albert Dawson, 23, and A. B. Barber, 21, are held on charges of grand larceny, awaiting the arrival of the San Francisco officers. Their companion, Thomas McCray, colored, is being held on a vagrancy charge. When searched at the station the combined cash assets of the three consisted of one lone penny, which Dawson magnanimously offered to "donate to charity."

ATHLETIC CLUB MAY STAGE FIGHT SHOW

The Los Angeles Athletic Club may stage another boxing show, according to Charley Keppen. Keppen said that plans are being made to put on some of the L.A.A.C. boys in a show on August 28. He stated that all the Olympic boxers should be back by that time, having docked at New York yesterday. Many members should be back from their vacations then and the show as a whole will be worth seeing.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

STOCKTON, Aug. 6.—Branch Rickey, manager of the St. Louis Cardinal baseball team, will arrive in Stockton next Monday to inspect local facilities with a view of bringing his club here to train next spring. Announcement to this effect was made today by Loren W. Loy, member of the local committee, which raised a $5000 bonus to bring the St. Louis team to Stockton.

BUSY BURGLAR

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

ORANGE, Aug. 6.—Resuming his nefarious activities again last night, the "cash burglar," who during the week-end victimized eleven homes in this district, added three more dwellings to the soaring list, according to reports on file at the police station today.

The loot, however, still remains at a low figure, the three depredations last night netting $1 in cash, a watch, gold chain and cuff links, all procured at the Gus Struck residence at 621 North Glassell street.

The home of Leonard Cole on North Cambridge and that of Roy Robinson, City Trustee, were the other places to receive calls from the unwelcome visitor, who fled empty-handed from both places.

LEASES GRAVEL PIT

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

ORANGE, Aug. 6.—The municipal gravel beds, located on a six-acre site in the Santiago Creek, immediately north of the East Chapman Bridge, today were leased to George A. Simpson, Los Angeles paving contractor, now engaged in carrying out Orange's $162,000 paving program.

G. G. Richards, local realtor, representing Simpson, appeared before the City Council yesterday afternoon, opening negotiations for the lease for his client. The lease, covering a period of five years, will be approved at the next meeting, when a resolution is introduced covering the necessary legal phases of the transaction.

Winds Revive Forest Fire Near Redlands

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

REDLANDS, Aug. 6.—After the brush fire in Wildwood Canyon between Yucaipa and Oak Glen was apparently under control this morning, it broke out anew this afternoon and a strong west wind was sweeping it toward Oak Glen.

The fire is yet in brush land and has not reached timber or any of the resorts or orchards of the Oak Glen section and they are not in immediate danger.

The Turner ranch in the upper Yucaipa Valley, where the fire started, was swept by the flames, only the ranch house being saved. Ten acres of cherries, pears and apples was burned over, a barn, outbuildings, tools and fences being swept away. The damage is about $10,000.

One hundred Yucaipa, Redlands and Banning men under Rangers Flagg and Morris are fighting the flames.

SEARCH FOR BODY

Kiwanis Club Plans Trip to Scene of Tragedy

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

ALHAMBRA, Aug. 6.—In a final effort to recover the body of Dr. Herbert F. Bishop, pioneer Alhambra physician who, with two others, was drowned off Santa Cruz Island two weeks ago, a party of ten local men, all members of the Alhambra Kiwanis Club of which Dr. Bishop was also a member, will leave early tomorrow morning for Santa Barbara. A launch has been chartered for the day and the friends of the deceased will cruise the waters in the vicinity of the tragedy in the hopes of finding the body.

Final arrangements for the trip were made at today's meeting of the Kiwanis Club. George W. Tobin is in charge of the searching party. R. F. Bishop, aged father of the victim, and Miss Ethel Bishop, a sister, will accompany the party as far as Santa Barbara.

MONROVIA EXTENDS WELCOME TO CITY

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

MONROVIA, Aug. 6.—In an effort to help newcomers find a place in some of the activities in Monrovia and so make them feel at home, the hospitality committee of the Chamber of Commerce is sending out cards this week to newcomers to the community with little questionnaires.

The cards state that the committee desires to make the strangers feel at home and happy here and is glad to welcome them to Monrovia. And for this reason requests the strangers to state, if they are interested in—"church denominations, fraternal organizations, Parent-Teachers' Association, Woman's Club or civic affairs."

The hospitality committee is composed of Mrs. Myrtle Bailey, Mrs. J. P. Seymour, Mrs. F. R. Alexander, Mrs. Hattie Bellinger, Mrs. Don Walters and Miss Grace Osborne.

ILLNESS LEADS TO SELF-DESTRUCTION

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

TULARE, Aug. 6.—Despondent over a chronic ailment which had brought him from Los Angeles to the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Baxley, near Tulare, to recuperate David Baxley, 47 years of age, hanged himself with a chain from a tree in the yard at the Baxley home today.

His wife died about fifteen years ago, but he had two daughters living in Los Angeles. Besides his parents and daughters, he is survived by several brothers and sisters.

ELKS TO CELEBRATE

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

OXNARD, Aug. 6.—Oxnard Elks will stage a hi jinks the 18th inst., which promises to be one of the finest events of its kind ever held in Southern California. Several lodges have already accepted invitations to be guests of the local organization.

The Santa Monica Lodge will send a large delegation and their officers will put on the degree work. To date twenty-five candidates have been signed for initiation on that day.

Give Wayward Boy a Chance, Says Official

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

ONTARIO, Aug. 6.—That San Bernardino, the largest county in California, has the smallest percentage of inmates at reform institutions for minors of any county in the State, was the declaration this afternoon of George E. Larmore, chief county probation officer, in addressing members of the Lions' Club in weekly session at Hotel Casa Blanca.

The speaker declared that the probation work among minors in San Bernardino county is superior to or on a par with that of all other counties of California. The policy of his department, he pointed out, was to send no minor to a corrective institution unless it is found absolutely necessary.

There are now 110 girls and 299 boys in the county who are wards of the Juvenile Court, the speaker said. The probation officer and his assistants make personal studies of each individual case, so far as possible, in an effort to locate the seat of trouble, and efforts are made to find suitable employment for mis-led boys and girls and get them "going straight."

LOCAL BOOSTERS FAVOR HIGHWAY

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

ALHAMBRA, Aug. 6.—Representatives of the East Side Organization of Greater Los Angeles spoke before a big meeting of the chamber of commerce here last night at the auditorium, outlining plans for the extension of Wilson avenue from Alhambra to the harbor district in keeping with the industrial development of the east side.

Local speakers also stressed the need for the similar extension of Garfield avenue, another main north and south artery of Alhambra. A program which would include the extension of both streets was heartily indorsed by the gathering.

Montebello, Monterey Park and other neighboring cities were represented at the meeting.

RANCHER, SON HELD ON LIQUOR CHARGES

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SANTA BARBARA, Aug. 6.—One hour after his 19-year-old son had been jailed on a charge of having liquor in his possession George Rowe, rancher of Goleta Valley, was arrested on the same count. Shortly after the son had been taken to a cell in the City Jail officer started for the family ranch and took Rowe, Sr. Is is asserted thirty bottles, some of which were full of liquor, were taken as evidence. The prisoner pleaded guilty to possession and on his release went over to the jail and deposited $250 as bail for his son.

FOILS ATTEMPTED PLOT OF HUSBAND

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

VENTURA, Aug. 6.—That her husband threatened to kill himself and then make it appear that she had murdered him is the statement made by Mary Andrews in her suit for divorce filed in the Superior Court here yesterday against Alva Andrews. The couple were married in Knox county, Indiana, in September, 1908. They have one child aged 13 years.

AWARDED CONTRACT FOR WOMAN'S CLUB

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

INGLEWOOD, Aug. 5.—Low bidder on the contract for the new building of the Inglewood Woman's Club is Nick Wierk of 630 East Queen street, this city, who was awarded the contract at $20,727. The architect, Frank M. Goodwin, has designed a colonial Spanish building of stucco exterior. An assembly hall to seat 500, with a spacious stage at one end and a balcony at the other, are included in the plans, as well as a lounge, whose air of hospitality will be emphasized by a huge open fireplace.

WHO GETS OLD FIRE ENGINES?

QUESTION STARTS DEBATE AT CHIEFS' CONVENTION IN PASADENA

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

PASADENA, Aug. 6.—What is done with fire engines when they are worn out? This was the interesting question raised and answered by Fire Chief Ernest F. Coop of Pasadena in a paper read at today's meeting of the Pacific Coast fire chiefs' convention at the Hotel Maryland.

When an automobile is used by the owner for a number of years he generally trades it in on a new one. Some one else buys it and it will probably change hands for years. This, however, is not the case in the instance of fire engines, for the reason that the demand is limited. It is not everyone who wants to buy a $15,000 apparatus, it was pointed out.

Chief Coop told what they do with old engines in Pasadena. They rebuild them, he said. New parts and new motors are installed and the old inefficient affair is brought up to date. This practice has met with great success, he said.

But Fire Chief R. J. Scott of Los Angeles thought differently of the idea and, as a result, a lively discussion ensued. Chief Scott declared that dollars and cents could not be compared with life and property. When an engine wears out buy a brand-new one and protect the lives of your firemen, Chief Scott declared.

A verbal battle between the two chiefs took place with considerable enthusiasm. Part of the convention cheered for one speaker and another part supported his opponent, until the convention took on the aspect of an old-time political debate.

RAILROAD COMPANY TO REMOVE TRACKS

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

LONG BEACH, Aug. 6.—Formal application by the Union Pacific system to the State Railroad Commission for permission to remove the railroad tracks from Ocean avenue, in the downtown section, and on Alamitos avenue, will be made within the next three weeks, Mayor Clark was informed today by Bert Henley, secretary to the Greater Harbor Committee.

Mr. Henley announced that H. D. Knickerbocker, general manager for the system, was his authority for the statement. Abandonment of the track in the downtown section of the city has been one of the main objectives of city officials and others here for years past. The action of the railroad company will be one of the final steps in bringing about the improvement of Ocean Boulevard and the rerouting of trains.

REALTY REPORT MADE FOR SANTA BARBARA

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

SANTA BARBARA, Aug. 6.—Total value of real estate in Santa Barbara amounts to $29,296,865, according to reports submitted to the Board of Equalization by the County Auditor today. Real estate in incorporated cities is valued at $8,422,050, and the remainder is outside the cities. It also was reported by the County Treasurer that bank clearings in local banking houses had increase more than $500,000 over the clearings for June and were more than $300,000 greater than for July of last year.

TO PROTECT BUYERS

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

GLENDALE, Aug. 6.—The Glendale Automobile Dealers' Association plans to appoint a committee to confer with City Attorney Ray L. Morrow to determine whether the existing ordinance dealing with the transactions of dealers in used cars cannot be amended to eliminate irresponsible men who have no place of business beyond a vacant lot. This action of the association followed an explanation of the ordinance at the weekly meeting of the association by Attorney Morrow.

Death Recalls Stirring Days of the Pioneer

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

PASADENA, Aug. 6.—Mrs. Mary Mears, wife of Otto Mears, world-famous road builder and pioneer of the State of Colorado, died this morning in her bungalow at the Hotel Maryland, where she has been living for the last eleven years, Mrs. Mears, herself a prominent figure in the history of pioneering in the Rockies, was 76 years of age, and has been in ill health for some time.

Although Mrs. Mears's health was poor, her condition was not believed to be serious and everything pointed to an early recovery. Mr. and Mrs. James R. Pringle, son-in-law and daughter of the deceased, were notified by telegram this morning. They resided at Silvertown, Colo.

Mr. Mears is the owner of extensive mining interests in Colorado and owns and operates a railroad. He became known as a renowned builder of roads for his work in Colorado during the early days. Mrs. Mears was her husband's constant companion during the periods marked by the dangers of attacks by unruly Indians. At the time Mr. Mears was an Indian Commissioner.

The couple celebrated their golden wedding anniversary in Pasadena four years ago. Funeral arrangements have not been made.

SEEKS TAX REFUND ON BRANDY STOLEN

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

LANKERSHIM, Aug. 6.—Suit to secure a refund of $1805 in taxes assessed against 820 gallons of grape brandy asserted to have been stolen November 15, 1920, from bonded winery No. 5 at Lankershim has been filed by Jacob Bauman against the Collector of Internal Revenue.

Bauman avers he leased the winery for the 1920 season from Borgia Brothers and that during his operation of the plant the fortifying room from which the brandy is asserted to have been stolen was locked and sealed by the internal revenue department, and that therefore he as a plaintiff should not be held responsible for the theft or required to pay a tax on the liquor.

STABBED HIS BOSS; HELD FOR ASSAULT

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

LONG BEACH, Aug. 6.—Thomas Arcodos, 27, a Greek cook, was being held in the City Jail here today on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon, following his asserted attack late last night upon Jack Paulos, proprietor of an American-avenue cafe.

Arcodos, Paulos declared, stabbed him in the abdomen with a knife following an altercation that arose between the two over wages said to be due Arcodos. Paulos's wound, according to police surgens, is slight but necessitated treatment at Seaside Hospital.

REMAINS TO MEXICO

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

SOUTH GATE, Aug. 6.—The remains of the late Aurelio Aponte, who was employed at the California Cyanide Company's plant, and who died suddenly a few days ago, were started on their way to Parral, Mex., last night, where they will be interred at the home town of his father, who is said to be a silver-mine owner in that section.

Aponte had been in this country about five or six months, it being said he had left Mexico on account of a revolution at that time.

UNUSUAL ACCIDENT

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

VENTURA, Aug. 6.—Speeding across the long causeway and blowing a tire on one of the large spikes protruding from the bridge, caused a machine driven by O. H. Turner, this city, to turn turtle, throwing Turner out and under an automobile going in the opposite direction. Turner suffered a fractured right arm and other injuries. He was driving his machine toward Santa Barbara. With him were two girls, both sitting in the rear seat, neither of whom were injured.

AIR CRAFT NOW KING OF THE SKY

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

VENTURA, Aug. 6. — Three mighty golden eagles swooped with the speed of terror from their craggy eerie on Matilija Peak today and alighted in the center of Ventura.

Above the city three powerful airplanes zoomed from the west, circled in triumph, then with a mighty snort of their motors darted from sight.

It was one of the most vivid dramas of the age of mechanical progress. The eagles, kings of the air since back into the reaches of forgotten centuries, dauntless before all that flew, had acknowledged defeat.

Fleeing from man, they nevertheless sought safety in man's abode. They were cowed by the deafening roar and the great wings of the mechanical birds.

With their wings quivering the golden eagles alighted in C. W. Bains's yard near the heart of the city. There they remained, twitching with fright, until the airmen had sped away and the drone of motors could no longer be heard.

Then the largest eagle stretched his wings, took to the air and spiraled to a great height. One after another the two followed him and then all three flew back to the mountains whence they had come.

LOOK FOR POISON

Seek Aid of Chemists in Riverside Death

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

RIVERSIDE, Aug. 6.—To determine whether or not W. I. Neuman, 59 years of age, Elsinore pioneer, died from natural causes or as a result of poison, the stomach and other organs of the body were brought to Riverside today for chemical analysis.

Neuman went to his home near Elsinore at noon yesterday and at 3 o'clock in the afternoon he died without apparent cause. Coroner C. S. Dickson this morning conducted an inquest, during which Ella Jackson, his housekeeper, was closely questioned.

The woman was not arrested pending the result of the chemist's analysis, according to Sheriff's officers. However, she is said to have threatened to kill Neuman with a revolver about two weeks ago.

Neuman was engaged in the plumbing business.

HOME FOR BURIAL

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

VENICE, Aug. 6.—The remains of Hamilton Coffin, former bank executive, who took his life early Saturday, were yesterday shipped to Seattle for burial. The deceased has a wife and four children in the northern city.

The man had been in ill health for more than three years following a nervous breakdown. Saturday he placed a revolver in his mouth and fired two shots, both bullets penetrating the brain. He was well known in the business world in this district.

MOTHER FINDS MYSTERY BOY

Youth Has Most Vivid Imagination

Tale of Kidnaping of His Own Invention

Self-Made Hero Was Looking for Adventure

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

ANAHEIM, Aug. 6.—Anaheim's "mystery boy," who, two days ago, was found wandering about the streets here and who told a weird tale of being kidnaped by two strange men and of being unceremoniously ordered from the car by his captors, was home with his mother, in Long Beach this afternoon.

The assumed name, Harvey Kingsley, under which he has avoided identification since coming to Anaheim, had been forgotten and the "kidnaped" boy no longer held the interest of the city, as he appeared in his true role of an 11-year-old lad, Robert Sourisseau, who had carried out the strange dreams of his childhood days and left his home on a trip to see the world.

Newspaper stories of the lad's appearance in Anaheim reached the frantic mother in Long Beach and early today she called at the home of Mrs. William Knott, where the boy has been kept, and verified her belief that Harvey Kingsley was her son.

Although police who were investigating the story told by the boy were inclined to doubt his strange tale, it was admitted that the story was carefully arranged, and there were few conflicting points which might have placed it in discredit.

LOOKS WITH FAVOR UPON LONG BEACH

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

LONG BEACH, Aug. 6.—Possibility of the establishment in Long Beach Harbor of a $1,000,000 plant for the manufacture of fabricated steel products became a possibility here today following the visit of Milton T. Clark, an official of the Truscon Steel Company of Youngstown, O.

Mr. Clark is making a tour of the Coast with a view to selecting a site for the company's Pacific Coast branch factory. He declared, after an inspection trip in the harbor district, that he was very favorably impressed with Long Beach as a desirable location. He said that when completed the plant will employ 250 men at the beginning, with the working force to be increased as business conditions warrant.

PURCHASE SCHOOL SITE

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

LANKERSHIM, Aug. 6.—The site for Lankershim's new $400,000 high school has just been announced in the purchase of twenty acres on the west side of Eucalyptus avenue, extending south from Sherman Way to Fourth street, for a consideration of $43,350.

Construction work on the building will be gotten under way in the near future and it will be completed before the beginning of the 1925-26 term.

An hour after Kendall left him starkly facing the inevitable consequences of that act, he would perhaps, have equivocated, evaded, put it off somehow. But the signed confession was already in Kendall's pocket. He could not withdraw. He could not face Welbasky and the whole endless torment of stone walls, iron bars, cross-examination, conviction, and consignment to hell on earth. In sheer baffled desperation he blew out his brains, and died in failure as he had lived.

In part Kendall apprehended this, but he now had Flora to think of in a more disadvantageous position than ever, for if the district attorney refused to accept Barlow's confession, his suicide would react upon her. As one immediate result of such refusal, a formal charge of murder would be lodged against her. A desperate case required a desperate remedy.

"Give me a couple of good men, will you?" Kendall asked. "O'Rourke for one. I want to search a flat on Forty-fifth street."

He told Welbasky then how Jenks had been going back and forth to Mrs. Josephine Smith's and sketched Mrs. Smith's part in the story. With no faith in any theory that involved Jenks, but by way of a boop to a condemned man, the captain granted the request. With two capable aides, therefore, Kendall started for Forty-fifth street.

But Mrs. Josephine Smith had other callers that morning. She and Marie Marsh were dressed for the street and about to leave the little apartment, when there came a ring from the vestibule downstairs. Mrs. Smith pressed the buttor to unlock the lower door and opened the door into the hall, then she and Marie stood awaiting the caller, who could see that the ladies were ready to go out and would, therefore, make the call brief. But whatever other careless conjecture Mrs. Smith may have had in mind respecting this early ring at her bell, she was not in the least prepared for the pair that actually came into sight at the open door, stout, hard, resolute Mrs. Kate Chadwick, in a ridiculous hat and a coat like a farmhand's ulster, accompanied by a uniformed policeman whose mild air rather suggested an attache of a juvenile court. Mrs. Chadwick, getting the address from Stamford Marsden, had come to recover her abducted ward.

But the first sight of the ward seemed to disconcert the policeman. What he had in mind was a truant juvenile. This young woman certainly looked of age. Mrs. Josephine Smith looked like a woman who knew her rights and was prepared to defend them. The net result of the conversation was that Marie Marsh said she was 22 years old, had come with Mrs. Smith of her own free will, had been well treated, and wished to remain there. The somewhat crestfallen policeman could only advise the resolute country woman at his side that in such a case he could do nothing. He suggested somewhat vaguely that Mrs. Chadwick would have to get herself appointed the young lady's guardian. Mrs. Chadwick, defeated in the first encounter, remarked grimly that she would come again.

Mrs. Josephine Smith did not doubt that she would, which gave her something unpleasant to think about. Her capable mind was engaged with it as she and Marie set out on their delayed shopping tour. Mrs. Chadwick would be coming back. Mrs. Smith's situation was already rather delicate, and this square-jawed country woman from Maine introduced another hazard. Fortunately Marie never demanded attention or conversation from her companion, being happy to walk along the streets in bright winter weather, looking at the buildings and the traffic, and peering into shop windows, so Mrs. Smith was able to cogitate undisturbed with only a mechanical attention to their course.

First, they visited Mrs. Bertha Littleton's beauty parlor in the Kingsel Apartment Building, where Mrs. Smith purchased, from the proprietor, a box of face powder and two or three other like articles. She then led Marie over to Fifth avenue, continuing down that thoroughfare and stopping now and then at a shop. For one thing Mrs. Smith bought a handsome traveling bag, directing that it be delivered to her flat on Forty-fifth street that afternoon. But if the most capable detective on the force had shadowed them from beginning to end, he would have seen nothing but just two women out shopping, buying ordinary articles, such as women shoppers are always requiring.

Now when the car containing Phillip Kendall and the two men from Welbasky's staff crossed Lexington avenue in Forth-fifth street, Mrs. Smith and Marie were coming out of the Oak street door. A moment later Kendall recognized them on the sidewalk. But that was all the better, since what he wanted was the flat, not the women, and if the women were out he would be spared the bother of using the convenient search warrant which can always be had at short notice to give legal color to intrusion into a private dwelling. Adept Sergt. O'Rourke had no difficulty in opening both the inner vestibule door and the door to Mrs. Smith's flat. They had the place to themselves, and began searching.

The apartment contained a small sitting room, two smaller bedrooms, a miniature bath, and a kitchenette, all neatly but simply furnished. It occupied the rear half of the third floor of the building. The double doors in the north wall of the sitting-room were fastened with a stout bolt, evidently communicated with the apartment which occupied the front half of that floor, so that the two flats could be thrown together and used as one. That arrangement aroused Sergt. O'Rourke's curiosity. Listening at the double doors convinced him there was nobody in the front flat. He slipped the bolt; there was no fastening on the other side; the door swung open.

The searchers stepped into a bedroom, quite twice as large as Mrs. Smith's sitting room and different in character. A beautiful silvery blue rug covered the floor. The walls were delicately papered. The canopied bed in the corner would have distinguished the show window of an antique shop. A luxurious and exacting lady might have claimed this room as it stood, only it was badly in need of airing and seemed to have been long unoccupied. The small blue and white bathroom had the same air. One of the stories that Pat Cullen had told about Othman came to Kendall's mind. This might have been its scene; and such stories as that might account for Mrs. Josephine Smith's relations with Othman.

This intrusion into the front room came after they had thoroughly searched Mrs. Smith's apartment proper. They were still searching the front bedroom when Mrs. Smith appeared in the double doorway to her own sitting room. Kendall was aware of her before she spoke, by some change in the light, and looked around. Marie Marsh stood in the sitting-room behind her, round eyed with surprise.

"Looking for something?" Mrs. Smith inquired with mock politeness.

It was than past 1 o'clock. This expert microscopical searching had been going on for more than three hours. They had found nothing. It was about the last throw. Kendall had been thinking a good deal about Mrs. Smith. He thought she was a crook and that one crook will always betray another for a price. And he was desperate, the last strands of precious time slipping through his fingers. He felt in his bones that tomorrow would be too late.

"I'd like to have a talk with you," he said.

Mrs. Smith turned back into the sitting-room. Following her, Kendall pulled the door to behind them. Doctie Marie Marsh slipped out of sight.

"Let's go back a little," the reporter began. "Frederic Othman had some valuable jewels. They were a part of the Russian crown jewels that Bolshevist agents carried to London. There was a lot about it in the London newspapers at the time. They were going to subsidize a radical newspaper and so on. But the best part of the game disappeared somehow, according to the newspaper accounts. They were smuggled over here and Othman bought them. A man whom the papers called Karoff was assassinated immediately after leaving Othman's house. That is what an advertisement in the Forum last Saturday meant."

Mrs. Smith was listening without a sign, her intelligent gray-green eyes on the reporter's face. As he paused she observed, with a straight face, "Jewels are always interesting to a woman."

"Last Saturday night Jenks borrowed your typewriter. He carried it to Othman's house from here. I saw him."

"Typewriters are not so exciting," she remarked.

"Late yesterday afternoon he left Othman's house with the typewriter and came here. The jewels were in the typewriter case. That's what he borrowed the typewriter for—something he could carry out of the house without suspicion. You can stick a peck of unset diamonds around the typewriter in one of those cases."

"Jewels again," she murmured.

"Jenks is a thorough crook," the reporter went on. "He shot Othman. He is not going to get out of town; I promise you that. The police have never taken the least stock in this jewel business. They are not looking for jewels or thinking of them. Give me Jenks and I'll forget the jewels, too."

The intelligent gray-green eyes rested steadily upon him for a moment; evidently a brisk activity was going on in the brain behind them. Then a slow, satirical smile spread over Mrs. Smith's sallow, unhandsome face.

"It's a generous offer," she said, "and I accept it. Jenks is yours. Forget the jewels. Forget your name if you want to. Treat Jenks kindly. He's always been used to a good home." She laughed outright.

But Kendall persisted earnestly: "It's the most generous offer you'll get. You know where those jewels are. Jenks came here with them in the typewriter case yesterday afternoon. I saw him take a southbound Madison avenue car. Nobody except you and Jenks knows where they are. Give me Jenks. You can do it. I'll forget the jewels. When he's locked up for the murder of Othman, you can snap your fingers at him."

GOMPERS FLAYS DAVIS'S RECORD

Federation Leader Finds No Friendship for Unions

Denies Assertions Made by ex-Secretary of Labor

Tells How Candidate Sought to Dicker for Support

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

ATLANTIC CITY, Aug. 6.—Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor today again snapped his whip of scorn at his one-time friends, the Democrats. This time he rose from a sickbed to pen a denunciation of John W. Davis that stripped from that candidate every semblance of friendship toward labor unions.

He denounced every act of Davis's that has been cited in the past as friendly toward the wage earners, revealed for the first time that Davis had sought conferences with union leaders to dicker for the union vote, and wound up by again praising La Follette as personally a candidate worthy of union labor's support.

The denunciation came through a letter to William B. Wilson, former Secretary of Labor, once a power in inner union circles, and more recently one of the chieftains of the Democratic National Committee. It was in reply to one from Wilson, received several days ago, urging the federation executive council in session here to defer action on La Follette until after Davis's speech of acceptance on the 11th inst. at Clarksburg, W. Va. Wilson intimated that Davis would say things that would make union labor support him. But the council paid no heed to the request of Wilson, to whom, in the past, they had often deferred.

The reason is simple. It may be paraphrased thus: The wrath of an organization scorned. Gompers and his followers have supported the Democrats since 1906. Now they feel that the New York convention scorned them in refusing every request they made. They are fighting fire with fire and on Davis they will battle to the finish.

The letter from Gompers first denied that Davis deserves any credit for enactment of the Clayton Act which deals with labor injunctions. Recounting the passage of that law, which is considered one of labor's greatest laws, the letter says:

"In none of this does John W. Davis appear."

Dealing with the Adamson law, which Mr. Wilson had asserted was held constitutional primarily through the efforts of John W. Davis as solicitor-general, Mr. Gompers recites facts and then says: "It was the machinery of the union labor movement and not the Supreme Court and John W. Davis which prevented the threatened strike" of railroad employees.

TEXT OF WILSON LETTER MADE PUBLIC

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—Writing under date of the 2nd inst., William B. Wilson, former Secretary of Labor in the Cabinet of President Wilson, and for years active in the labor union movement in this country, suggested to Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, that the executive council of the Federation refrain from taking any "definite political action" until after John W. Davis, Democratic candidate for President, delivers his acceptance address at Clarksburg, W. Va., on the 11th inst.

The text of the letter was made public tonight by the Democratic National Committee. In it Mr. Wilson reviewed the labor record of Mr. Davis and praised him for his position in years passed, and announcing that he had accepted an invitation from the Democratic National Committee to assist in the campaign for the election of Mr. Davis.

Speaking of Senator La Follette in his letter, Mr. Wilson said:

"He has done good service for the country in the way that he best is qualified to do it. He has ably called attention to existing wrongs; he has been 'the voice crying in the wilderness.' He has attracted wide attention, but he does not seem to have the facility of consolidating his contentions into concrete legislation for the relief of the people. In addition to that, he has allowed himself to be placed in the position in this campaign where he is being used as the auger to bore the labor organizations of the country from within.

URGE FORD AS SENATE CANDIDATE

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

DETROIT, Aug. 6.—Circulation of petitions here today to place the name of Henry Ford on the ballot as candidate for the Republican nomination for United States Senator, further complicated the approaching race for the Senatorial nomination, proposing the fifth Republican candidate.

The field into which friends are trying to place Mr. Ford is made up of Senator James Couzens, candidate for re-election; Judge Arthur H. Tuttle of the United States District Court of Michigan; Hal H. Smith, Detroit attorney, and Daniel W. Tussing of Lansing.

Although officials at the Ford Motor Company today characterized as "absurd" the idea that Ford is seeking the Senatorial toga, some of those favorable to his candidacy have pointed out that Ford has run for office four times, twice as a Republican and twice as a Democrat in Michigan, and in each case has been placed on the ballot without his formally announcing his candidacy. In no case has he withdrawn his name after it was placed on the ballot of either party.

The estate of the Czar of Russia was about three times the area of England.

The Affair at Othman's

BY WILL PAYNE

What happened to Nelson Barlow was simple enough. Always, at bottom, he had been fond of Flora Mendon. His self-respect had suffered a shattering blow. His friends and associates, the whole world that he cared about, knew him as a thief and a forger, and would have cut with contempt. There was an instinctive urge to recover his self-esteem. Kendall's statement of the position of Flora Mendon offered a means of doing it. He could clear her by taking the crime upon himself, confessing to the murder, and thus, by sacrificing himself for an innocent and beloved woman, make a figure from the stage in the manner of heroic tragedy. That appealed powerfully to his vivid, dramatic, unballasted imagination. He made the grand gesture, signing the confession. An hour after Kendall left him starkly facing the inevitable consequences of that act, he would perhaps, have equivocated, evaded, put it off somehow. But the signed confession was already in Kendall's pocket. He could not withdraw. He could not face Welbasky and the whole endless torment of stone walls, iron bars, cross-examination, conviction, and consignment to hell on earth. In sheer baffled desperation he blew out his brains, and died in failure as he had lived.

In part Kendall apprehended this, but he now had Flora to think of in a more disadvantageous position than ever, for if the district attorney refused to accept Barlow's confession, his suicide would react upon her. As one immediate result of such refusal, a formal charge of murder would be lodged against her. A desperate case required a desperate remedy.

"Give me a couple of good men, will you?" Kendall asked. "O'Rourke for one. I want to search a flat on Forty-fifth street."

He told Welbasky then how Jenks had been going back and forth to Mrs. Josephine Smith's and sketched Mrs. Smith's part in the story. With no faith in any theory that involved Jenks, but by way of a boon to a condemned man, the captain granted the request. With two capable aides, therefore, Kendall started for Forty-fifth street.

But Mrs. Josephine Smith had other callers that morning. She and Marie Marsh were dressed for the street and about to leave the little apartment, when there came a ring from the vestibule downstairs. Mrs. Smith pressed the button to unlock the lower door and opened the door into the hall, then she and Marie stood awaiting the caller, who could see that the ladies were ready to go out and would, therefore, make the call brief. But whatever other careless conjecture Mrs. Smith may have had in mind respecting this early ring at her bell, she was not in the least prepared for the pair that actually came into sight at the open door, stout, hard, resolute Mrs. Kate Chadwick, in a ridiculous hat and a coat like a farmhand's ulster, accompanied by a uniformed policeman whose mild air rather suggested an attache of a juvenile court. Mrs. Chadwick, getting the address from Stamford Marsden, had come to recover her abducted ward.

But the first sight of the ward seemed to disconcert the policeman. What he had in mind was a truant juvenile. This young woman certainly looked of age. Mrs. Josephine Smith looked like a woman who knew her rights and was prepared to defend them. The net result of the conversation was that Marie Marsh said she was 22 years old, had come with Mrs. Smith of her own free will, had been well treated, and wished to remain there. The somewhat crestfallen policeman could only advise the resolute country woman at his side that in such a case he could do nothing. He suggested somewhat vaguely that Mrs. Chadwick would have to get herself appointed the young lady's guardian. Mrs. Chadwick, defeated in the first encounter, remarked grimly that she would come again.

Mrs. Josephine Smith did not doubt that she would, which gave her something unpleasant to think about. Her capable mind was engaged with it as she and Marie set out on their delayed shopping tour. Mrs. Chadwick would be coming back. Mrs. Smith's situation was already rather delicate, and this square-jawed country woman from Maine introduced another hazard. Fortunately Marie never demanded attention or conversation from her companion, being happy to walk along the streets in bright winter weather, looking at the buildings and the traffic, and peering into shop windows, so Mrs. Smith was able to cogitate undisturbed with only a mechanical attention to their course.

First, they visited Mrs. Bertha Littleton's beauty parlor in the Kingsel Apartment Building, where Mrs. Smith purchased, from the proprietor, a box of face powder and two or three other like articles. She then led Marie over to Fifth avenue, continuing down that thoroughfare and stopping now and then at a shop. For one thing Mrs. Smith bought a handsome traveling bag, directing that it be delivered to her flat on Forty-fifth street that afternoon. But if the most capable detective on the force had shadowed them from beginning to end, he would have seen nothing but just two women out shopping, buying ordinary articles, such as women shoppers are always requiring.

Now when the car containing Phillip Kendall and the two men from Welbasky's staff crossed Lexington avenue in Forth-fifth street, Mrs. Smith and Marie were coming out of the Oak street door. A moment later Kendall recognized them on the sidewalk. But that was all the better, since what he wanted was the flat, not the women, and if the women were out he would be spared the bother of using the convenient search warrant which can always be had at short notice to give legal color to intrusion into a private dwelling. Adept Sergt. O'Rourke had no difficulty in opening both the inner vestibule door and the door to Mrs. Smith's flat. They had the place to themselves, and began searching.

The apartment contained a small sitting room, two smaller bedrooms, a miniature bath, and a kitchenette, all neatly but simply furnished. It occupied the rear half of the third floor of the building. The double doors in the north wall of the sitting-room, now fastened with a stout bolt, evidently communicated with the apartment which occupied the front half of that floor, so that the two flats could be thrown together and used as one. That arrangement aroused Sergt. O'Rourke's curiosity. Listening at the double doors convinced him there was nobody in the front flat. He slipped the bolt; there was no fastening on the other side; the door swung open.

The searchers stepped into a bedroom, quite twice as large as Mrs. Smith's sitting room and different in character. A beautiful silvery blue rug covered the floor. The walls were delicately papered. The canopied bed in the corner would have distinguished the show window of an antique shop. A luxurious and exacting lady might have claimed this room as it stood, only it was badly in need of airing and seemed to have been long unoccupied. The small blue and white bathroom had the same air. One of the stories that Pat Cullen had told about Othman came to Kendall's mind. This might have been its scene; and such stories as that might account for Mrs. Josephine Smith's relations with Othman.

This intrusion into the front room came after they had thoroughly searched Mrs. Smith's apartment proper. They were still searching the front bedroom when Mrs. Smith appeared in the double doorway to her own sitting room. Kendall was aware of her before she spoke, by some change in the light, and looked around. Marie Marsh stood in the sitting-room behind her, round eyed with surprise.

"Looking for something?" Mrs. Smith inquired with mock politeness.

It was then past 1 o'clock. This expert microscopical searching had been going on for more than three hours. They had found nothing. It was about the last throw. Kendall had been thinking a good deal about Mrs. Smith. He thought she was a crook and that one crook will always betray another for a price. And he was desperate, the last strands of precious time slipping through his fingers. He felt in his bones that tomorrow would be too late.

"I'd like to have a talk with you," he said.

Mrs. Smith turned back into the sitting-room. Following her, Kendall pulled the door to behind them. Docile Marie Marsh slipped out of sight.

"Let's go back a little," the reporter began. "Frederic Othman had some valuable jewels. They were a part of the Russian crown jewels that Bolshevist agents carried to London. There was a lot about it in the London newspapers at the time. They were going to subsidize a radical newspaper and so on. But the best part of the game disappeared somehow, according to the newspaper accounts. They were smuggled over here and Othman bought them. A man whom the papers called Karoff was assassinated immediately after leaving Othman's house. That is what an advertisement in the Forum last Saturday meant."

Mrs. Smith was listening without a sign, her intelligent gray-green eyes on the reporter's face. As he paused she observed, with a straight face, "Jewels are always interesting to a woman."

"Last Saturday night Jenks borrowed your typewriter. He carried it to Othman's house from here. I saw him."

"Typewriters are not so exciting," she remarked.

"Late yesterday afternoon he left Othman's house with the typewriter and came here. The jewels were in the typewriter case. That's what he borrowed the typewriter for—something he could carry out of the house without suspicion. You can stick a peck of unset diamonds around the typewriter in one of those cases."

"Jewels again," she murmured.

"Jenks is a thorough crook," the reporter went on. "He shot Othman. He is not going to get out of town; I promise you that. The police have never taken the least stock in this jewel business. They are not looking for jewels or thinking of them. Give me Jenks and I'll forget the jewels, too."

The intelligent gray-green eyes rested steadily upon him for a moment; evidently a brisk activity was going on in the brain behind them. Then a slow, satirical smile spread over Mrs. Smith's sallow, unhandsome face.

"It's a generous offer," she said, "and I accept it. Jenks is yours. Forget the jewels. Forget your name if you want to. Treat Jenks kindly. He's always been used to a good home." She laughed outright.

But Kendall persisted earnestly: "It's the most generous offer you'll get. You know where those jewels are. Jenks came here with them in the typewriter case yesterday afternoon. I saw him take a southbound Madison avenue car. Nobody except you and Jenks knows where they are. Give me Jenks. You can do it. I'll forget the jewels. When he's locked up for the murder of Othman, you can snap your fingers at him."

GOMPERS FLAYS DAVIS'S RECORD

Denies Assertions Made by ex-Secretary of Labor

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

ATLANTIC CITY, Aug. 6.—Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor today again snapped his whip of scorn at his one-time friends, the Democrats. This time he rose from a sickbed to pen a denunciation of John W. Davis that stripped from that candidate every semblance of friendship toward labor unions.

He denounced every act of Davis's that has been cited in the past as friendly toward the wage earners, revealed for the first time that Davis had sought conferences with union leaders to dicker for the union vote, and wound up by again praising La Follette as personally a candidate worthy of union labor's support.

The denunciation came through a letter to William B. Wilson, former Secretary of Labor, once a power in inner union circles, and more recently one of the chieftains of the Democratic National Committee. It was in reply to one from Wilson, received several days ago, urging the federation executive council in session here to defer action on La Follette until after Davis's speech of acceptance on the 11th inst. at Clarksburg, W. Va. Wilson intimated that Davis would say things that would make union labor support him. But the council paid no heed to the request of Wilson, to whom, in the past, they had often deferred.

The reason is simple. It may be paraphrased thus: The wrath of an organization scorned. Gompers and his followers have supported the Democrats since 1906. Now they feel that the New York convention scorned them in refusing every request they made. They are fighting fire with fire and on Davis they will battle to the finish.

The letter from Gompers first denied that Davis deserves any credit for enactment of the Clayton Act which deals with labor injunctions. Recounting the passage of that law, which is considered one of labor's greatest laws, the letter says:

Dealing with the Adamson law, which Mr. Wilson had asserted was held constitutional primarily through the efforts of John W. Davis as solicitor-general, Mr. Gompers recites facts and then says: "It was the machinery of the union labor movement and not the Supreme Court and John W. Davis which prevented the threatened strike" of railroad employees.

TEXT OF WILSON LETTER MADE PUBLIC

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—Writing under date of the 2nd inst., William B. Wilson, former Secretary of Labor in the Cabinet of President Wilson, and for years active in the labor union movement in this country, suggested to Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, that the executive council of the Federation refrain from taking any "definite political action" until after John W. Davis, Democratic candidate for President, delivers his acceptance address at Clarksburg, W. Va., on the 11th inst.

The text of the letter was made public tonight by the Democratic National Committee. In it Mr. Wilson reviewed the labor record of Mr. Davis and praised him for his position in years passed, and announcing that he had accepted an invitation from the Democratic National Committee to assist in the campaign for the election of Mr. Davis.

Speaking of Senator La Follette in his letter, Mr. Wilson said:

"He has done good service for the country in the way that he best is qualified to do it. He has ably called attention to existing wrongs; he has been 'the voice crying in the wilderness.' He has attracted wide attention, but he does not seem to have the facility of consolidating his contentions into concrete legislation for the relief of the people. In addition to that, he has allowed himself to be placed in the position in this campaign where he is being used as the auger to bore the labor organizations of the country from within.

URGE FORD AS SENATE CANDIDATE

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

DETROIT, Aug. 6.—Circulation of petitions here today to place the name of Henry Ford on the ballot as candidate for the Republican nomination for United States Senator, further complicated the approaching race for the Senatorial nomination, proposing the fifth Republican candidate.

The field into which friends are trying to place Mr. Ford is made up of Senator James Couzens, candidate for re-election; Judge Arthur H. Tuttle of the United States District Court of Michigan; Hal H. Smith, Detroit attorney, and Daniel W. Tussing of Lansing.

Although officials at the Ford Motor Company today characterized as "absurd" the idea that Ford is seeking the Senatorial toga, some of those favorable to his candidacy have pointed out that Ford has run for office four times, twice as a Republican and twice as a Democrat in Michigan, and in each case has been placed on the ballot without his formally announcing his candidacy. In no case has he withdrawn his name after it was placed on the ballot of either party.

The estate of the Czar of Russia was about three times the area of England.

CHANCE TO LEARN LINOTYPE TRADE

Linotyping is one of the best-paid trades. It is easily learned by the average man or woman. There is a great scarcity of linotypers throughout the United States. For price of tuition and other information, inquire at 419 Wilson Building or telephone WAshire 8768.

March 28, last, as a drug addict. She later was released. The suit was filed through Attorney Marion T. Betty of Los Angeles.

According to the complaint, Miss Lantry met Cookingham at Lewiston, Idaho, May 15, 1922. He represented himself as a single man and three months later he proposed and she accepted, at a hotel at Soup Lake, Wash., she charged. The next day, she asserts, he plied her with intoxicants and attacked her. He also attacked her on other occasions at Ritzville, Wash., Spokane and Santa Ana, she declares. In May, 1923, she asserts, she learned that he had an undivorced wife with whom he was living.

On several occasions after that, according to the complaint, Cookingham beat her with his fists, twice while she was with him in an automobile and once, in January last, when he broke into her room accompanied by another man. She was living in Anaheim on this occasion, she says.

The complaint declares that Cookingham is worth $250,000.

Cookingham at his office in Huntington Beach,* declined to discuss Miss Lantry's suit. His wife and his daughter Virginia, 15, who live in Santa Ana, also declined to discuss the matter.

Miss Lantry's attorneys said the young woman is in Los Angeles but declined to give her address.

Miss Lantry, prior to her admission to the County Hospital last spring, spent several weeks at the Arch Beach Tavern at Laguna Beach, under the care of a physician, it was learned.

KLAN ISSUE STRADDLING DENOUNCED

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]
NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—The recent conventions of the great political parties were criticised by Rt. Rev. Bernard J. Mahoney, bishop of Sioux Falls, S. D., before the national convention of the Knights of Columbus today.

"The gatherings which should have crystallized the soul of America made a concession to cowardice," he said, "because of the fear that the quest for votes might suffer by an expression of opinion on the movement abroad that would eliminate Catholics from the privileges of citizenship and the emoluments of public life."

Bands of men who "at the foot of the flaming cross are gambling away the seamless garment of our national happiness," were bitterly denounced. "In this land of the free and the home of the brave," he continued, "we are confronted with the spectacle of men who would make war on others with the stealth of a guilty conscience and courage of the underworld."

The membership of the Knights of Columbus on June 30, last, was 770,324. Supreme Secretary William J. McGinley reported. New York leads in membership with 119,535; Illinois is next with 77,000. There are now 2330 councils, an increase of 48 over last year.

Government to Give Away Tons of Explosives

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]
WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—Explosives enough to fill a freight train forty miles long are to be given away by the government to farmers for clearing land and to the State governments for highway construction.

Announcement was made today that 100,000,000 pounds of pyrotol, part of the vast supplies of explosives gathered by the government for the World War, soon would be made available through State agencies and through the Bureau of Public Lands.

No distribution direct to farmers will be made by the government, but in each State where there is sufficient interest in agricultural explosives, some agency, probably the State Agricultural College, will take orders, pool them in carload lots to minimize freight charges, and handle distribution.

STAGE COMPANY WINS ARIZONA INJUNCTION

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]
PHOENIX, Aug. 6.—Represented by T. F. Nealon of Phoenix, the International Auto Stage Company today obtained from Federal Judge F. C. Jacobs in Prescott a temporary injunction directed against the Arizona Corporation Commission, forbidding interference with the plaintiff's traffic across Arizona in giving service between Los Angeles and El Paso. A hearing has been set before a Federal court in equity in Los Angeles for the 8th inst. It is contended that the commission has no right to interfere with interstate traffic, on a showing that no Arizona passengers are handled.

The company lately applied to the commission for a franchise, the hearing being attended by protesting railroad and stage lines. There was denial on the ground that ample travel facilities already are existent. The route was to be through Blythe, Phoenix and Globe, the trip consuming four days. Mexican laborers were to be hauled, almost exclusively, it was asserted.

TYPOTHETAE ORDERS APPEAL WITHDRAWN

AGREEMENT IS REACHED ON RULING OF FEDERAL TRADE BODY

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]
WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—The Typothetae of America has withdrawn from the Federal courts its appeal from the ruling of the Federal Trade Commission, which ordered it to cease and desist from certain alleged practices in the printing trade.

The withdrawal of the appeal had been ordered by the executive council of the Typothetae on the basis of an exchange of correspondence with the commission, which removed the only practical question, which was surrounded by confusion and reduced the remainder to an academic state which neither party desired to litigate.

According to an announcement by the Typothetae, the Federal Trade Commission's order as it now stands only forbids the Typothetae to do certain things "which it never did or has long ceased doing, and had no reason for doing," while the exchange of correspondence brings out that the commission does not intend to forbid the collection and distribution of "productive hour costs" of printing among members of the Typothetae.

BITTER FIGHT ON SALE OF RIO GRANDE ROAD

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]
DENVER, Aug. 6.—A suit presaging a bitter legal controversy over the fixing of the upset price for the Denver and Rio Grande Western Railroad under a foreclosure sale, was filed in the United States District Court here by Harold Palmer, acting for himself and other holders of the first and refunding mortgage bonds of the road. The suit claims there is no basis in justice or equity for reorganization of the road and for the issuance of new securities. Palmer asserts that bondholders who have agreed to the reorganization plan did not have full and proper information on the reorganization plan when they deposited their bonds with the trustees.

Palmer in his suit asks that the court fix the upset price of the railroad at auction at $42,883,875, which is the full value of the first and refunding bonds of the old Denver and Rio Grande Railroad.

The suit further cites that the bonded indebtedness of the road at present is approximately $140,000,000.

GAIN MADE IN CRUDE PETROLEUM FOR YEAR

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]
WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—The total supply of crude petroleum for the United States for 1923 was 814,422,000 barrels, an increase of 129,583,000 barrels over the previous year, according to figures given out today by the Department of the Interior.

Domestic production for 1923 was given as 732,407,000 barrels, and imports 82,015,000 barrels.

Indicated crude petroleum deliveries to domestic consumers were placed at 714,316,000 barrels and exports 17,385,000 barrels.

The number of oil-producing wells in the United States December 31 was approximately 290,100, with an average capacity per well per day of 6.6 barrels.

Waited Till the Cows Came Home
"I am indeed glad to write you this letter. I was a terrible sufferer from gases in the stomach and colic attacks. The specialist, our family doctor sent me to in Philadelphia, gave me no relief, although I took his medicine till the cows came home. He finally said I would have to be operated on. Luckily I heard of Mayr's Wonderful Remedy then, and although it is now three years since I took a course of it, I have never had a symptom of my old trouble since." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. At all druggists. —[Advertisement.]

"101 Years of Brambach Quality"

The Choice of Discriminating Musicians

This wonderful instrument, famous for its glorious tone—since 1823—may be found beloved and cherished, in many of our finest homes

NOTAS TELEGRAFICAS

SACRAMENTO, Agosto 6. — El Gobernador Richardson acaba de regresar de un viaje por todo el Valle de San Joaquin, y dice que los relatos de incendios que han enviado algunas agencias sensacionales de notjcias, han estado exageradísimos, y han hecho que pierdan cientos de miles de dólares las estaciones veraniegas, los hoteles, las líneas de diligencias y los negocios en general.

En declaración que hizo, manifestó lo siguiente el alto funcionario citado: "Recorrí esa región en estos últimos días y encontré a la gente indignada por las exageradas noticias de incendios que ha publicado la prensa "amarilla". Estas noticias han hecho que disminuyan las excursiones al Valle de Yosemite, al Lago Huntington, al Parque Sequoia y al Bosque del General Grant, lo menos en un cincuenta por ciento".

"Los negocios de todas clases han sido dañados por estas falsas historias; los pocos incendios casi nada los han perjudicado; pero sí, y mucho, los fantásticos cuentos que se han propalado desde San Francisco, donde no hay selvas; pero donde ciertas agencias se gozan en hacer aparecer una topera como una montaña".

"Deseo aconsejar a cuantos puedan hacerlo, que visiten este mes las estaciones de montaña de California. Los superintendentes de parques dan parte de que se hallan libres esos lugares de todo peligro, y más agradables de visitarse que nunca, debido al fresco verano que en ellos ha reinado. Es ésta una de las más hermosas estaciones que se han conocido. El Capitán no se ha quemado; los gigantescos árboles de los parques del General Grant, Mariposa y Sequoia siguen en pie, y hasta la Media Bóveda ha estado a prueba de las llamas del periodismo "amarillo". Nunca han estado más majestuosas las montañas de la Sierra Nevada, desde Lassen hasta Whitney".

No Se Teme un Rompimiento con la Gran Bretaña

CIUDAD DE MEJICO, Agosto 6. Como el Gobierno mejicano está haciendo todo esfuerzo por aprehender a los matadores de la señora Rosalie Evans, súbdita británica, declararon hoy los altos funcionarios de gobierno que, ateniéndose al derecho internacional, es remota la probabilidad de un rompimiento entre Méjico y la Gran Bretaña. Todavía no se reciben informes sobre la investigación mandada hacer por el Presidente Obregón.

El Encargado de Negocios alemán visitó hoy al Ministro de Relaciones mejicano para obtener informes auténticos del crimen, pues, como se sabe, es súbdito alemán el administrador de la señora Evans, que fue herido por la descarga que a ella le produjo la muerte.

Aunque no se han divulgado los términos de la nota enviada por la Embajada Americana después de la tragedia, un alto funcionario del gabinete mejicano declaró que se trataba solamente de una petición de informes, y que no era en modo alguno una comunicación enérgica.

Ramón Albarran, presidente del sindicato de agricultores y activo líder en la campaña presidencial en pro de Angel Flores, expresó la indignación que sentía su partido por el atentado. Alabó la actividad del gobierno para buscar a los criminales, y añadió, de modo significativo, que confiaba en que se darían pasos semejantes en el caso del primer mejicano que, en lo venidero, corra suerte semejante.

Fueron Aprehendidos los Asesinos de la Señora Evans

CIUDAD DE MEJICO, Agosto 6. Fueron capturados los asesinos de la señora Rosalie Evans, según informes proporcionados esta tarde en el Ministerio de la Guerra. La noticia la dió el General Roberto Cruz, comandante militar del Estado de Puebla, donde la señora Evans fue muerta el último sábado a balazos cerca de su hacienda.

"Me es grato informar que el General Antonio Gómez Velasco, mi jefe de estado mayor, me comunica desde Texmelucan que han sido capturados los asesinos de la Señora Evans", dice el mensaje enviado por el General Cruz.

"Valente Quintana, jefe del servicio secreto de la ciudad de Méjico, cooperó eficazmente al cumplir con su cometido de echarles el guante a los criminales. Los culpables han sido traídos a la ciudad de Puebla, convenientemente escoltados. Junto con el General Velasco y el señor Quintana, vino el Secretario de la Legación inglesa, quien está bien al tanto de los empeñosos esfuerzos que se han hecho para esclarecer el crimen. Seguiré dando cuenta de lo que ocurra".

"¡Ay, mamá, ya te cortaste el pelo! ¿Para qué la dejaste hacer eso, Mary? ¿Douglas, por qué no lo impediste? ¡Ay, Dios mío! . . . " Tales fueron las lamentaciones acompañadas de lágrimas de Lottie Pickford Forrest cuando bajaron ayer del tren en Pasadena, Mary Pickford, Douglas Fairbanks y "Ma" Pickord. Llegaban por fin a casa después de varios meses en el extranjero, y el único cambio que a primera vista podía apreciarse era el cabello corto de la señora Pickford.

Mary, radiante de felicidad, con sombrerito negro y vestido corto de igual color, empuñaba con una mano docenas de espinosas rosas, y con la otra saludaba entusiásticamente a sus amigos. Douglas, con pantalones de verano, color de helado de leche, iba de un lado para otro, emocionado y mudo. Luego, ambos divisaron a Charlie Chaplin que se abría paso por entre la multitud, y se abalanzaron sobre él. "¡Charlie, cuánto gusto de verte!" gritó Mary. "Nos contaron en París todo lo que te ocurría. ¡Mi enhorabuena! ¿Quién es ahora la agraciada, Charlie?"

Baseball

La detonante explosión que se oyó ayer en las cercanías del parque Washington no procedía de la bodega de alguien cuya cerveza casera estuviera estallando. Se trataba de Lefty Thomas, el zurdo Bengalí, que hizo explosión en el noveno turno del partido Oakland-Vernon.

Poco antes de que ocurriera la explosión, los Bengalíes llevaban 4 a 3; pero cuando se escombraron las ruinas, pudo descubrirse que las Bellotas habían logrado cuatro carreras y ganado el juego por 7 a 4. Es el segundo de la la serie.

Golf

George Von Elm, brillante jugador de golf de Rancho, que ha estado ganando torneos en todos partes, estuvo ayer a su propia altura y venció en la tanda calificativa del torneo de invitación de Wilshire, con anotación, de 70. Este tanteo es uno menos que el par.

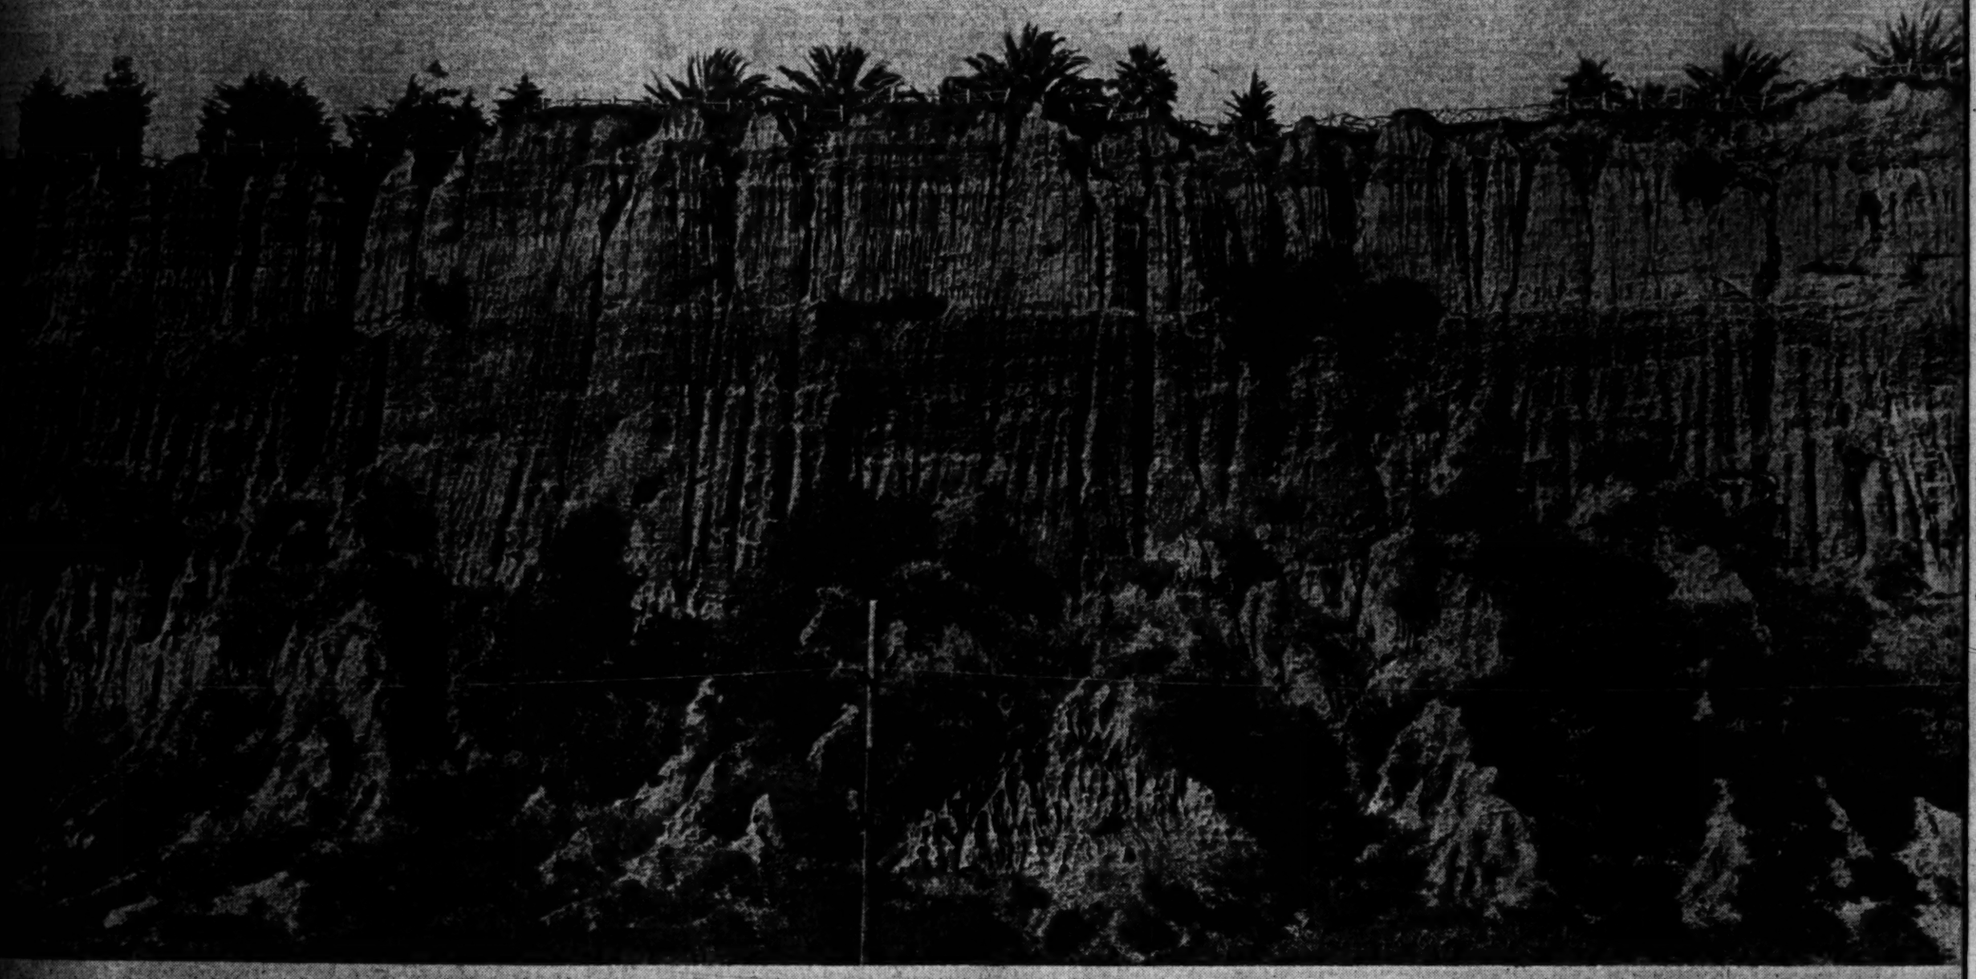
SANTA MONICA

THE PALISADES



City Set on the Palisades—Facing a Pacific Sunset—and a Mountain Coast

There is one place in Southern California you will want to know about more than any other.

It will appear in history, social life, education, religion, world peace, aeronautics, field and water sports, hotel and club life and among the world's great all-year resorts.

This is the end of the road. The choice of things that man can find on the earth are here—and to satisfy his higher yearning there is but one way to go—up.

Santa Monica is already established in history as the base of the first world flight—and the place where the planes for the flight were made.

Its social life began about 1870. It is now entering its renaissance and will come into flower during the next ten years with national fame.

It has already become the center of club life—with new clubs being added rapidly.

A start has been made in hotel development—the momentum of which will increase rapidly as it progresses.

The location has been selected for one college and others will probably come. It would be especially fitting if the international university, now planned, should be located here.

A great Chautauqua is now finishing its second season at Pacific Palisades, where, also, the world-peace temple is to be built.

Pacific Palisades is a Christian community enclosing nearly 2000 acres, which is entirely under control in a way to prevent anything existing within its borders that could be an offense to Christian home life and ideals.

Santa Monica has long been the home of clean sport. Polo and cricket—in the Southwest—were first played here. It was the scene of the Vanderbilt road races—and the home of national tennis champions.

Now the sports are coming back in great force through the athletic, swimming and country clubs.

Flying already has its home at Clover Field, and yachting will come with the building of a breakwater, which must come in the near future.

In the front yard of one of the world's greatest cities—containing its higher and finer life—with mountains, ocean, canyons, palisades, mesas, crescent coast and indescribably beautiful sunsets—with a climate unexcelled in the world—it is a place that everyone should know about—and where many of the finest people in America will want to live.

RAILROADS SET FOR FRUIT HAUL

Transcontinental Lines Are Marshaling Reserves

Fifty-one Thousand Cars All Ready for Service

Building and Municipal Bond Issues Announced

Unless the weather intervenes to prevent regular picking and hauling to the shipping points, the three transcontinental railroads serving Southern California are in a position this season to handle the perishable crops in a more efficient and expeditious manner than in any season in the past. By the expenditure of several million dollars they have increased the supply of refrigerator cars available for the fruit and vegetable movement approximately 24 per cent over last year.

The Pacific Fruit Express, owned jointly by the Southern Pacific and Union Pacific, has purchased 8000 more cars since the finish of the 1923 fruit shipping season, and enters the coming heavy movement with a total supply of 35,000 refrigerator cars. The Santa Fe has added 3000, making its available equipment total 18,000 cars, or a grand total of 54,000 cars for the perishable fruit season.

Anticipating the beginning of the critical period near the end of September, the Pacific Fruit Express has at the moment 6000 cars between Los Angeles and El Paso ready to shunt into the fruit haul when the shipments grow heavier. During the peak period, it is planned to have a surplus of 10,000 cars near the shipping points in addition to those rolling both east and west.

These arrangements, in the opinion of the traffic agents of the three railroads, will materially reduce the congestion and consequent monetary loss to shippers usually occurring during the peak period of the fruit and vegetable movement. Every adjustment possible in running schedules has been made to facilitate rapid transportation, the most notable being the recent cut in the citrus fruit schedule of twenty-four hours, which takes citrus shipments into Chicago in 154 hours.

This elaborate co-operation on the part of the railroads leaves the fruit and vegetable growers and shippers with weather conditions as the only obstacle to rapid transportation. If inclement weather holds up the picking and the hauling of the products to the railroad, allowing an accumulation which will flood the lines later on, the bogey of congestion and shortage of cars will promptly appear. However, it is expected that any such trouble will be comparatively mild unless unusual weather prevails.

Perishable freight now moving includes oranges, plums, lemons, pears, apples, apricots and vegetables. Some of these products will continue for the next few weeks and during the heavy grape season, which begins about September 1. The size of the grape movement is as yet unknown depending on the demand for wine grapes, but usually, this crop affords the railroads considerable concern.

Estimates by traffic experts of the railroads place the probable perishable shipments from California this season at 220,000 cars, which is slightly more than the 214,469 reported by the Department of Agriculture for last year.

BUILDING ISSUE

An issue of $350,000 West Coast Theaters, Inc., Washington street and Vermont avenue, first mortgage, 7 per cent serial gold bonds is announced today by an investment banking syndicate comprising Banks, Huntley & Co. and M. H. Lewis & Co. The price is 100 and interest.

The proceeds will go toward the cost of a Class A and C office, store and theater building. The two-story structure now being built will occupy practically an entire lot that measures approximately 192 feet on Washington street by 210 feet on Vermont and New Hampshire avenues. It will contain thirty offices and fourteen stores and a theater capable of seating over 2000 persons.

The combined value of the property will exceed $700,000. The loan will be secured by a first closed mortgage on the property, the security accordingly exceeding $2000 per $1000 bond. In addition to the physical security, the bonds will be a general obligation of the corporation.

West Coast Theaters, Inc., operates one of the largest chains of motion-picture theaters in the United States. The chain at present consists of seventy-eight houses. They are distributed among thirty of the principal cities of California, and their admissions are estimated to be running at the annual rate of 44,000,000 persons.

MUNICIPAL BONDS

The newly organized Bond Department, Inc., owned by the National City Bank of Los Angeles, is offering as its initial issue $240,000 City of Compton (Cal.) 7 per cent municipal improvement bonds, maturing from one to ten years, at prices to yield 6.50 per cent. The bonds are immune from Federal income taxes and are tax-exempt in California.

The city of Compton is situated approximately midway between Los Angeles and Long Beach, and has an assessed valuation of $3,459,000. The bonded debt is $263,000, leaving a net debt, after the deduction of water bonds, of $139,000. The present bonds are issued for the improvement of streets, the work on which is finished and accepted by the city.

BUSINESS CONDITIONS

Bank Review Finds Evidence of Increasing Stability Backed by Normal Development

Definite evidence of increasing stability of the business structure of the Pacific-Southwest and real progress in the adjustment which has been taking place, following the let-down in the abnormal developments of the past several years, have characterized the economic developments in this territory during July, in spite of the fact that this is normally a quiet period of the year.

This is the statement made in the Monthly Summary of Conditions in the Pacific-Southwest, compiled by the research department of the First National Bank of Los Angeles, the Pacific-Southwest Trust and Savings Bank and the First Securities Company, and released for publication today.

The psychology of the community has definitely improved during the month. This is due to a combination of factors and to a certain extent is a reaction from undue pessimism in earlier months. As crops progress, it is definitely certain that agricultural production in the Pacific-Southwest will be subnormal during 1924, but strengthened prices indicate that the total monetary return to growers will probably equal that of the preceding year. In addition, the smaller crops will provide the means for the elimination of accumulated carry-over so as to promise that 1925 crops will generally enter a clean market. This urges for continuing strong prices for most of the crops of this territory during the present year, and a technically strong position at the opening of the 1925 agricultural season.

Climatic conditions have been moderately favorable to the progress of crops during July. Valencia oranges have been moving to market in large volume, although prices have been sagging. The lack of warm weather in the East has had a bearish effect upon lemon prices. The crops of deciduous fruits promise to be small but prices have been firm and advancing. The grape and raisin situation appears to have improved during the month. The walnut crop, while small, will be larger than anticipated a month ago. The size of the bean crop is still uncertain, due to water conditions, but it will be definitely subnormal with every indication of strong prices.

AGRICULTURE — LIVE-STOCK

The small size of grain and alfalfa crops, coupled with the necessity of purchases of feed for cattle, is making a strong market for these products. The cotton crop probably has the best prospects of any agricultural commodity of this territory, with total output promising to be the largest in the history of the Pacific-Southwest and with prices strong.

The condition of the live-stock industry is becoming increasingly serious, with every indication that there will be an enormous loss in cattle prior to opening of the rainy season and with the market demoralized, due to attempts to market half fat stock in anticipation of serious feed conditions. It is possible that in spite of this situation and the definite losses which must accrue to many cattle producers, present conditions will force a liquidation which in the long run will prove healthy for the business.

The effects of the water and power shortage are being generally discounted and are proving to be less serious than was anticipated earlier in the season. In general, full co-operation is being secured by those in charge of the conservation program and if the same spirit is maintained during the next several months the concern can be generally eliminated. Industrial producers are finding that plant economies will permit a reduction in consumption of power by a full 25 per cent, without decreasing output much in excess of 10 per cent.

There is an increasing agitation for the development of auxiliary steam plants as insurance against recurrence of the present situation. On the other hand, it is pointed out that the present has been the driest year for four decades and that if another forty years elapse before a recurrence of the present situation the uncompounded interest cost alone of such insurance would amount to 300 to 400 per cent of the capital cost of such auxiliary plants. Agriculturists are finding that the better utilization of existing water is materially offsetting the losses which might have been normally anticipated because of the existing shortage.

BUILDING, OIL, ETC.

Building activities, while materially under the 1923 level, are apparently becoming stabilized at a figure materially in excess of that existing at any time prior to 1922 and at a level which will still provide enormous building totals for the Pacific Southwest and support a large industrial development affiliated with the building trades. While real estate continues slow, the demand for improved property, particularly medium-priced homes, indicates that there is still an underlying factor of strength in the market, although speculative activity will probably remain exceedingly light until the excess activity in outlying subdivisions has been thoroughly discounted. The movement in agricultural real estate remains quiet and probably will continue quiet until the adjustment of the agricultural communities to new levels has proceeded somewhat further.

Distribution and production of goods are being maintained upon an exceedingly satisfactory level in view of the normal reduction of activities during the summer months and the general feeling of uncertainty which has prevailed during the last several months. However, there is some evidence that retail distribution is being forced through strong sales drives in excess of those generally found during July, and through more than normal reduction in distributors' profits. In general, industrial output is being maintained at a level better than anticipated in many quarters. Employment is somewhat subnormal, but there is no indication of a serious unemployment situation.

The petroleum industry shows no important developments, the new fields of the Los Angeles Basin continuing to decrease output as they approach a normal pumping situation, and the older fields increasing output slightly as an offset to these decreases.

Changes in the banking and financial situation have been comparatively minor during the month. Some seasonal declines in deposits have been evident. The usual July demand for investment securities has developed and interest rates have remained firm in agricultural districts and have shown a tendency toward becoming increasingly steady in the metropolitan area.

In short, the general improvement in the psychology of the business community, in face of the normal midsummer quiet during July and subnormal crops, is a strong indication of definite progress toward a normal level of business activity and prosperity.

INVESTMENT MARKET

The movement of the national investment markets during July has followed the trend of the two previous months; maintaining a pace and strength which can only be characterized as singularly unusual for the summer months. The direct cause of this extraordinary condition of the market, as has been stated many times before, is the supply of money in financial centers awaiting employment of some kind, either in industrial channels or in investments. The latter, for very good reasons, has been the chosen medium.

During July, the regular semi-annual interest and principal disbursements seeking reinvestment, together with idle funds awaiting investment, caused a demand for high-grade securities far exceeding the supply to an extent unknown in recent years. The average price of forty corporation bonds established a high point for the present year on July 24, reaching a peak at 91.06, which shows a gain of 4.33 points from the low of the year. These forty issues include twenty railroad bonds, ten public utilities and ten industrials, and are considered a reliable barometer of the bond market.

In some circles the opinion is expressed that the present investment activity has reached its peak and that from now on a pronounced recession can be expected, due to the fact that industrial activity is being slowly revived, thereby requiring increased credit facilities for business purposes, and as consequent deviation of current funds from investments, as well as the liquidation of investments to provide needed working capital for industry.

EXCHANGE

A decidedly strong tone pervades the foreign exchange market. The salient feature is the pronounced upward movement in sterling, justification for which may be found in the optimistic outlook as to the result of the conferences on the Dawes plan, to which must be added the movement of funds from this side due to our low-money rates. Furthermore, the recent suggestion of an eminent London banker and economist that special licenses for the exportation of gold be more freely granted would tend to show that no effort is being spared to bring the pound sterling back to parity. The present quotation of around 4.40 shows a rise of about 8 points since our last review.

Francs after fluctuating within moderate limits are slightly lower at about 5.14, evidencing a waiting attitude. Belgian francs are marking time in sympathy and maintain a discount of about 60 points below French francs. Italian lire are still under the cloud of domestic political issues, but remain fairly steady around 4.32. Guilders and Swiss francs both show considerable improvement at about 38.30 and 18.50 respectively, and reveal underlying factors which may be traced to financial operations. All other European exchanges are firm.

Canadian exchange is strong at 3-4 per cent discount and here again is evidence of our cheap money seeking higher returns in Canadian securities. The silver metal market is very firm, in keeping with which all oriental exchanges have accrued in value with the exception of the yen, which, however, keeps quite steady in the face of adverse trade balance.

BANKING

Changes in the banking situation during July have been almost exclusively seasonal. Most agricultural districts have witnessed some decline in deposits following the demand for money with which to prosecute production activity, although in the Imperial Valley and Valencia orange districts some crop money has been coming in to offset this demand. In the depositing centers, particularly in the Los Angeles Basin, the usual increase in funds following the semiannual interest date, has been in evidence.

The credit situation is reacting somewhat to the general effect of the accumulation of funds in the money centers of the country, although there is increasing evidence that industry will soon be making a demand upon these funds for working capital. There is still need for the conservation of credit within the Pacific Southwest to meet the normal requirements of production and distribution, particularly for the crop moving period of the fall months, although, with proper care, the Pacific Southwest will be able to take care of its normal credit requirements during the balance of 1924, as consistently predicted in this report since the beginning of the year.

INSURANCE NEWS

FOR PUBLIC BENEFIT

The following are extracts from the annual address of President Smith of the National Board of Fire Underwriters at its annual meeting:

It has been claimed by those who are uninformed that the companies are not interested in reducing losses. It is a fact known to all familiar with insurance, and of public record, that the stock fire insurance companies are spending immense sums in fire-prevention work in order to reduce fire hazards, although this is attended always by reduced rates.

The national board is not operated solely in the interest of the stock fire insurance companies, as many believe, but very largely for the benefit of the public in compiling data, in distributing suggested regulations for the installation and use of hazardous and protective devices, in spreading the gospel of fire prevention, in trying in every way to suppress arson, in surveying cities and towns free of charge in order that fire departments may be improved and fire hazards reduced, thereby making possible the lowest insurance rates; in all kinds of experimental, technical and laboratory work calculated to safeguard life and property, to promote efficiency and to measure the fire hazards more accurately.

This work is being done constantly as a matter of routine, but apparently without fully developing in the public mind a consciousness of the valuable service rendered—and therein lies the reason for the lack of recognition and appreciation to which such endeavor is entitled.

COMPULSORY INSURANCE

The National Automobile Dealers' Association has gone on record as unalterably opposed to compulsory automobile insurance. In a communication to the motor-vehicle conference committee at New York, C. A. Vane, general manager of the national dealers' association, gives the views of his organization. General Manager Vane states the dealers' association is absolutely opposed to compulsory automobile liability insurance on the ground that it places a financial burden on the motor-owning public out of all proportion to the benefit it proposes to offer; that it is a move toward Socialism in that its proponents are advocating monopolistic State insurance bureaus and that more than 90 per cent of the owners of motor vehicles (the careful drivers) would be required to pay the cost of the damage inflicted by the reckless drivers and the financially irresponsible. Sharp condemnation of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, the national manufacturers' organization, for advocating and publicly distributing copies of a motor-vehicle impounding law is also contained in the communication. Mr. Vane declares in part:

"The last people in the world to advocate a motor-vehicle impounding law should be the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce. The next to the last should be the dealers. I can't imagine how the idea was ever sold to the N.A.C.C. that this was a proper procedure to take to improve safety conditions."

FOREIGN POLICIES

A bulletin of the Insurance Department of Minnesota has the following: "This department has recently received several complaints from citizens of the State alleging that they have been unable to collect for losses under policies in the London Lloyds. London Lloyds is not licensed in this State and we have no knowledge that it is licensed in any other State of the Union. Therefore, we have no jurisdiction over London Lloyds and can be of very little assistance to the insured in case Lloyds refuses to effect a settlement. Why insure in a concern that may necessitate your bringing suit in a London court should you suffer a loss?"

THE LIGHTER SIDE

It is reported that the Mayor of a certain city, vexed at the blundering failure of his pet fire department in handling a fire, ordered a thorough inspection and testing of hydrants, engines and hose and requiring a rigid drill of the firemen three days before each and every fire!

Client: Why haven't you called on me for the premium I owe you?

Agent: I never dun a gentleman.

Client: Well, suppose he doesn't pay?

Agent: After waiting a while I conclude that he is not a gentleman.

A questionnaire was sent to an agency applicant and in answering the question, "Are you a part-time agent?" he said, "I am. I don't work nights nor Sundays."

New Issue: $600,000

Edwards & Wildey Building

(S.W. Corner Sixth and Grand)

First (closed) Mortgage Leasehold 7% Bonds

Investment Features

Security: These Bonds will be secured by a First (closed) Mortgage on the valuable long term leasehold situated at the Southwest corner of Sixth and Grand Avenue, Los Angeles, together with the 13-story, fireproof, class "A", reinforced concrete store and office building now under construction thereon.

Valuation: It is estimated the building will cost $1,150,000, including carrying charges. This Bond Issue of $600,000, therefore, constitutes an indebtedness of approximately 50% of the security without giving any consideration whatever to the valuable leasehold interest.

Earnings: A conservative estimate of earnings, indicates annual Net Income of $175,863, after full deductions for all expense, taxes, depreciation, vacancies, insurance, and ground rent. This is at the rate of over 4 times yearly interest charges and twice largest annual interest and sinking fund requirements.

Safeguards: Proceeds of this Bond issue must be deposited with the Trustee in a Building Fund to be devoted entirely to the construction of the Building. The Company must also deliver to the Trustee a surety bond for $600,000 ensuring completion free from all liens except that of these bonds.

Location: This corner is one of the most valuable store and office building sites within the central business district, being diagonally opposite the new Pacific Mutual Building and within 100 feet of the Union Oil Building, J. W. Robinson Store, Biltmore Hotel, etc.

New Edwards & Wildey Office and Store Building now under construction at S.W. corner Sixth and Grand Ave., Los Angeles.

Increased Income From Your Utility Holdings

WOULD you like to increase the income from your utility holdings with dependable safety and added diversification?

THE VIRGINIAN POWER COMPANY prior Preference Stock, Series "A," priced at $93 per share, to yield over 7.50%, offers you this opportunity.

The company owns and operates an extensive electric power system, supplying electric energy to a number of important cities and towns in West Virginia as well as many large mines and manufacturing plants in that territory.

Based on recent appraisal and subsequent improvements, net assets are equivalent to over $209 for each share of this issue to be outstanding. For the year ended April 30, 1924, the balance available for dividends and reserves amounted to nearly 3½ times total annual requirements on this stock. We believe these shares offer you an unusually attractive 7.50% yield—exempt from normal Federal Income Tax. May we send you further particulars?

BY ROBERT J. PRITCHARD

The Standard Oil Company has discontinued its production test in the Los Angeles Investment Company well No. 2-1, in the Baldwin Hills district, and is drilling ahead at about 3400 feet, according to authoritative reports. The well was pumped for several days, and is said to have produced at the rate of several barrels per day, but production was not deemed sufficient to make a commercial well, and drilling was resumed.

The Standard has resumed operations in its Los Angeles Investment No. 1-1, the original wildcat well, which was allowed to stand idle at about 1050 feet for several months. This well found the showings, on the strength of which the Standard leased the Los Angeles Investment Company holdings, which created the first excitement in this area. The well is now down about 1200 feet. No. 1-2, the second well on this lease, is idle at 1050 feet.

Near Completion

Three new wells are expected to go on production in the Signal Hill field within the next week. All three wells belong to the Shell Company.

These are the Alamitos No. 16, on the original Alamitos lease on the east side of the hill. Coseboom No. 4, on Willow street, near the Shell absorption plant, and the Goddard No. 5, on the Goddard lease, north of the hill and close to the absorption plant.

Alamitos No. 16, it was reported, was shown to approximately 4700 feet and drilling ahead. The Coseboom well is also drilling ahead at 4900 feet, while the Goddard is down to the same approximate depth as the Alamitos No. 16.

Three new wells are to be drilled on the lease held by the W. R. Ramsey interests on Reservoir Hill owned by the city of Long Beach. Work on the three new rigs will start after the completion of Ramsey No. B-4, now drilling. The Tucker & Johnson Drilling Company will drill the proposed trio, it was announced.

The Reservoir Hill lease is now producing approximately 2200 barrels of oil daily from three wells and in addition is making about 5,000,000 cubic feet of gas.

City-Jergins No. 12, the well which blew out last week and scattered oil and mud in liberal quantities about the gravestones of Sunnyside Cemetery, is running tubing. Two other Jerzins on the City lease are drilling.

Wildcat Spudded in

The General Petroleum Corporation has started drilling its wildcat well in the Comanche Point district, and is down about 300 feet, according to field reports. The well was spudded last week, but was shut down after about three days of drilling, because of minor mechanical difficulties

Start Second Well

The Superior Oil Company has started its second well in the Ramsey Canyon district of North Whittier, according to official reports. The well is known as the Andres No. 1, and is about 1500 feet northwest of the Superior's North Whittier No. A-1.

The North Whittier No. A-1 is drilling at around 2400 feet. Formation is reported as conglomerate, which is so hard that a Hughes rock drill is being used to penetrate it.

Drilling Ahead

The Union Oil Company has suspended its production test in the Padelford No. 1 in the southwest Rosecrans area, and is drilling and coring ahead slowly, it is reported.

The Maxwell well of the Superior Oil Company also is feeling its way down carefully, and has passed through almost 100 feet of shale with streaks of oil sand, it is said.

Acquires Control

The Transport Oil Company has acquired stock control of the Elk Hills Development Company, operating southwest of the Elk Hills Naval Reserve No. 1, according to Transport officials.

The Elk Hills Development Company owns a 160-acre lease, on which a well was drilled to 2850 feet. For some days the well pumped about 100 barrels of fluid per day, which contained about 50 per cent oil, and the rest water. The well is shut down at present.

Plenty of Sand

The Pacific Oil Company is drilling at 4550 in its wildcat well in the Maricopa Flats field, and has good oil showings since about 4300 feet, it is reported by operators interested in that district. The Pacific Oil made a production test at 4300 feet, but was unable to solve the water problem, and continued deeper.

Well Shut Down

The Eskridge & Craise Oil Company has discontinued operations in its Monarch No. 1 on the McKittrick-Taft highway, according to officials of the company. The well was drilled to 2500 feet when work was stopped. Good showings were reported at about 1300 feet, and a production test at that point was made, but the oil was declared too heavy to produce satisfactorily.

Official Report

Oil-field operations reported to State Oil and Gas Supervisor R. D. Bush during the week ending the 2pd inst., show twenty-four new wells started, as compared with two during the previous week. Of the twenty-four notices to drill filed this week, nine were for wells in the Torrance field, two in the Long Beach field, 1 each in Brea-Olinda, Dominguez and Santa Fe Springs fields, three in Los Angeles county, and seven in the fields of Kern county. The total new wells this year is 927, as compared with 885 at the same date last year.

Tests of water shut-off this week numbered forty-six, as compared with thirty-five during the previous week. Yearly total to date 1040; total to same date last year 1196.

Deepening or redrilling jobs this week numbered seventeen, as compared with twenty-seven during the previous week. Total to date this year 487; total to same date last year 401.

EARLY ADVANCES IN COTTON DISAPPEAR

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—Early trading on the local cotton exchange today saw an advance of 24 to 40 points from the opening level, which was 7 to 27 points above the previous close, under a renewal of local bullish activity. Later the list was reactionary upon receipt of favorable crop and weather news and the ensuing decline of 55 to 75 points more than erased the advance. Some nervousness among shorts, owing to the continued critical position of the crop, brought them out of their commitments and final prices were steady, 1 to 6 points net lower.

Spot cotton, $1.25 cents, unchanged.

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE, OFFICE OF THE SECRETARY, Washington, D. C., July 31, 1924. Notice No. 285: Notice is hereby given that the Secretary of Agriculture has, under authority conferred by law, issued amendment 21 to B. A. I. Order 297, to prevent the spread of foot-and-mouth disease in sheep, other ruminants, and swine. The effect of this amendment is to quarantine, effective July 31, 1924, the Stanislaus National Forest in the State of California, and to prohibit the interstate and foreign movement therefrom of cattle, sheep, other ruminants, and swine, and to prohibit the interstate and foreign movement from said area of the carcasses of calves, sheep, and other ruminants, and the hides, skins, wool, or hair of such animals and of cattle, or similar fodder, and of hay, straw, or similar fodder, and of manure, except under certain conditions for its release from quarantine. Effective August 1, 1924, portions of the counties of Fresno, Los Angeles, Madera, and Tulare, in the State of California, are released from quarantine. Copies of this amendment may be obtained from the Chief of the Bureau of Animal Industry, Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C. Henry C. Wallace, Secretary of Agriculture.

LOS ANGELES

CATTLE—Active demand developed for the moderate receipts of cattle, estimated at 600 head, and a good clearance was effected early. Values were unevenly higher, mostly 25@50c up. Two loads medium 1080-pound Northern California ogha-fed steers topped at 7.75. The bulk of steers were common and medium 900 to 1050-pound grassers at 5.50@7.00. Fat cows ruled uneven, mainly 25c lower. Strictly good kinds sold to 6.00, the best here being medium 1081-pound 30ahos at 5.35, with the bulk downward to 4.00. Canners and cutters gained about 25 cents, most going over from 1.75@2.00. Bulls were comparatively scarce and held about steady, most bolognas clearing from 3.00@3.50.

CALVES—A good active demand at steady to 50 cents higher prices developed for vealers. The advance was shared by the good and choice milk-fed vealers, while range calves, generally comprising the bulk of receipts, held steady. 117 head of choice 153 to 166-pound vealers topped at 9.50. Medium to good handy weights and less desirable light weights cleared largely from 6.75@8.00. Slaughter calves, averaging upward to 420 pounds, turned mainly from 4.50@6.00.

HOGS—Slow, packers resisting advance, most buyers holding back; however, a few concerns bought sparingly. Approximately 75 per cent of offerings were unsold at a late hour. Prices were unevenly higher, mostly 50 cents up. One load desirable weight butchers topped at 11.25. Mixed offerings and less desirable kinds sold downward to 10.00.

SHEEP—The larger share of the lambs were late in arriving, however, they met ready outlet and full offerings were cleaned up early at steady to strong prices. Four decks good 61-pound spot-skins cashed for 10.00, sorted 100 out at 9.90, while three decks medium to good 78-pound lambs went over for 9.75, sorted 50 heavies out averaging 94 pounds at 8.00 and 60 culls at 6.50.

Outside Markets

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

CHICAGO, Aug. 6.—Hogs, receipts 19,000; slow; uneven; mostly 10@15c lower than Tuesday's average; light lights and slaughter pigs 15@25c off; shipping orders limited; few sales to yard traders 10.50; extreme top; bulk desirable 160 to 240-pound weight 10.00@10.25; good and choice 250 to 350-pound butchers 9.75@10.00; better 140 to 150-pound averages 9.50@9.75; packing sows 8.50@8.85; strong weight killing pigs 9.00@9.35; heavy weights 9.40@10.30; medium weights 10.00@10.50; light weights 9.40@10.40; light lights 8.75@10.10; packing hogs smooth 8.55@9.00; packing hogs rough 8.10@8.55; slaughter pigs 8.25@9.25.

Cattle, receipts 13,000; largely steer run; market practically at standstill; fat offerings predominating; run includes several sprinklings good and choice handy and weighty long-fed bullocks, few sales 25 cents lower; numerous bids 25@50c off; best matured steers early 10.75; some held above 11.50; several strings choice yearlings held around 11.00; bids, however, considerably below that mark in most instances, shipping demand narrow in sympathy with sluggish dressed beef market especially on Atlantic seaboard; fat cows and heifers scarce, firm; bulls fully steady; best weighty sausage bulls 4.75@7.00 mostly; few 5.10@5.50; vealers scarce; fairly active to packers at 10.50; mostly for choice kind, little doing in stockers and feeders.

Sheep, receipts 18,000; slow; early sales fat native lambs around steady; bulk 12.75@13.25; sorting moderate; westerns late in arriving; no early action; looks around steady; wool 60cents considered; sheep steady; odd lots fat ewes 5.00@6.50; feeding lambs unchanged; few early sales 13.75.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 6.—Hogs, steady, several concerns bidding 10.25@10.50 for 150 to 250-pound butchers of medium quality. Four loads good grain-fed 180-pound Californias 11.00 with 225-pound butchers at 10.50. Eastern wires generally lower.

Cattle, liberal offerings, mostly medium and common grades, hundreds turned away, market exceedingly weak. Good steers, steady, considerable inquiry; other grades practically no interest. Ten cars Nevadas 1050 pounds on commission estimated around 7.50@7.75. Four cars 1000-pound Nevadas 7.25. Good cows steady, few 1100 pounds 5.00@5.25; others semi-demoralized. Two canner cows 2.25.

Calves, good and choice steady, quotable up to 8.10; bulk others mostly common or heavy calves, some on commission, others from packers' ranches.

Sheep, good and choice lambs steady, 7 cars good 68-pound mountain lambs 10.00, quality improved. Six decks good northern Californias 58-pounds 9.75; ewes steady.

KANSAS CITY (Mo.) Aug. 6.—Cattle, receipts 11,000; calves 3000; very slow; few early sales grain-fed steers 9.00@10.50; 10@15c lower; most bids on beef steers and yearlings 15@25c off; she stock dull; weak to lower; calves mostly steady; practical top veals 8.00; few up to 8.50; mediums and heavies 2.00@5.75; stockers and feeders slow, weak to lower; fleshy feeders off most, early bulls 5.00@7.00.

Hogs, receipts 7500; shipper market 15@25c lower; mostly 25 cents lower; top 10.10; bulk of sales 9.15@10.00; bulk desirable 180 to 250 pounds 9.80@10.00; packers bidding 25 cents lower; 9.25 bid on choice strong weight butchers. Light lights around steady; mostly 9.25@9.80; stock pigs steady 8.25@9.00.

Sheep, receipts 2500; early sales native lambs around 25 cents higher; early top 13.25; better grades mostly 12.50 and above; sheep steady; fed Texas wethers 8.35.

PORTLAND (Or.) Aug. 6.—Cattle and calves slow, no receipts. Bulls, good, beef yearlings excluded, 3.75@4.75; common to medium, canner and bologna 2.75@3.75.

Hogs, nominally steady; no receipts. Feeder-and stocker pigs 70 to 150 pounds, common, medium, good and choice 8.50@9.00.

Sheep and lambs strong; receipts 255. Lambs light and handy weight 30. Asbou 10.00@10.85. Yearlers scarce; fairly active to packers at 10.50; mostly for choice kind, little doing in stockers and feeders.

OMAHA (Neb.) Aug. 6.—Hogs, receipts 14,000; slow, uneven, mostly 25 cents lower; bulk 180 to 250-pound butchers 9.25@9.50; top 9.70; 250-300 pound butchers and up 8.75@9.25; odd lots 160 to 180-pound averages 8.75@9.40; bulk packing sows 7.75@8.00; roughs on down to 7.50; bulk of all sales 7.75@9.50; average cost yesterday 8.70; weight 262.

Cattle, receipts 5300; beef steers and yearlings slow, 15@25c lower; bulk 8.25@10.50; top 1529-pound steers 10.75; late sales Tuesday Panhandle steers 9.00; grain-fed and letter grades mainly she stock steady; others unsalable early; all other classes generally steady; practical veal top 8.50; few up to 9.00; native bologna bulls 2.75@4.00; westerns down to 2.00; stockers and feeders 5.25@7.40; top fleshy feeders 7.00.

Sheep, receipts 13,000; slow; native lambs strong to 25 cents higher, 12.00@13.25; clipped lambs around 10 cents higher; early sales 12.50; western range lambs weak; early sales 13.00; sheep steady; ewes upward to 7.00; feeding lambs strong, 12.50 bid.

BANKRUPTCY PETITION

Creditors filed a petition in bankruptcy with the United States District Court yesterday against Dr. Nicholas Cvetkovich, alone doing business at Long Beach. Debts of the company were asserted to be $17,000.

Voluntary petitions were filed as follows:

J. H. Whitehead, Pasadena; debts, $37,418; assets, $5400.

VITAL GLANDS SAVE LIFE

That the important glands of the human body are necessary to maintain life is a well-established scientific fact. It is stated by Dr. Serge Voronoff, who has devoted years of study and experiment to organotherapy, that every organ of the human body depends upon the glands for proper functioning. Glands that function perfectly are responsible for desired qualities which should exist in every normal man or woman.

Dr. Arnold Lorand says in his book, "Old Age Deferred," in speaking of the glands: "We must insist upon the reinforcement of their functions, if changed by age or disease, by means of extracts obtained from the similar organs of healthy young animals."

The new scientific discovery—Glandogen — provides a simple method of taking gland treatment. Glandogen is prepared in convenient tablet form, and the formula combines actual gland substance with other efficacious ingredients. It is prepared in two forms, one for men and one for women.

Glandogen is procurable at Chambers Drug Co., 1st and Broadway; Henderson-Chambers Drug Co., 3d and Main; Blaney-Chambers Drug Co., 7th and San Pedro and 5th and Los Angeles; in Long Beach at Oakford Drug Co., 211 Pine Ave.; in San Pedro, Wilmington and Torrance at Beacon Drug stores.

High Blood Pressure and these symptoms

1. Cold hands and feet.
2. Slight momentary dizziness.
3. Sleep unrefreshing.
4. Sleep disturbed by dreams.
5. Feeling of fullness in the head.
6. Gastric disturbances after meals.
7. Constipation.
8. Weakness and lowered vitality.
9. Nervousness.
10. Headache.

—go hand in hand

These are the symptoms which Dr. Faught, an authority on high blood pressure, offers as Nature's danger signals. They are definite and positive. When they exist in a persistent form you have high blood pressure. And one out of every three persons whose blood is above normal dies within a year.

This is not a pleasant thought. But it is nevertheless a fact—taken from Fisher's mortality tables. Refusing to think about it does not make it any less true. The person with high blood pressure is walking on the edge of a precipice. Sooner or later the crash is bound to come.

How much safer it is to begin the Witter Water treatment as soon as the symptoms appear. At least get full information about it. An investigation does not cost one cent. Mail the coupon right now.

CHICAGO LAWYER DEFEATS THE SUN IN OPEN CONTEST

Barney Lenit,
Attorney-at-Law,
137 South La Salle St.,
Chicago, Ill.,
March 27, 1924.

Gentlemen: For many years during the hot summer months, when going bathing, fishing, rowing or participating in any outdoor sports, it was necessary for me to keep my body covered so that no part of it was exposed to the sun. This was necessitated, because of the fact that my skin was very delicate, and when the sun beat down upon my arms and shoulders they not only became burned but blistered. In two instances, while on my vacation, I was so badly blistered that I was confined to my bed for a period of approximately a week in each instance. When going bathing it was absolutely necessary for me to wear a white shirt with long sleeves.

Upon recommendation of a friend of mine, I sent for your "Noburn" preparation, although at that time I was very skeptical about its results. After using your preparation I can say, without reservation of any kind, that I no longer fear the sun and that as long as I have "Noburn" as my companion I will never again be troubled with blistering. In preparation of my "necessary for vacation" list your article heads the list and should head the list of every person who is troubled with the sun.

Knowing the pain and suffering that I have gone through because of the sun, I have often wished that I could apprise each and every person of the exact nature of your preparation and the wonders it can perform.

Vacation time is drawing near and before long you may expect to receive communication from me requesting that you deliver the magic "Noburn" to me.

Yours truly,
BARNEY LENIT.

Just one application of "Noburn" applied before each exposure and your are sunburn proof. You get the tan, but not the burn. An invisible, odorless, harmless liquid, quickly applied, easily washed off.

Made and guaranteed by Strong Cobb Co. of Cleveland, who have been in business for ninety years. "Noburn" sold at all good drug stores.—[Advertisement.

WHAT IS A MAUSOLEUM?

Beautifully Illustrated Booklets Issued by California Mausoleum Company Answer This Question. They Are Free.

Although many people know in a general way what a Mausoleum is, we find that the greater number have no clear idea of what remarkable developments have taken place in Mausoleum construction, design and practice—nor any conception at all of the stately beauty of our superb buildings at Hollywood and Inglewood cemeteries. Still less is known of the cost to purchasers of crypts, and cost of niches in our Columbarium in our Hollywood Mausoleum and their relative expense when compared with the ordinary, and increasingly undesirable, ground burial.

So we have prepared two fully illustrated booklets, for free distribution, telling in word and picture just what a Mausoleum is, showing our buildings and their surroundings, interior arrangements, construction details, etc. Either or both may be had upon request—and there is also a special Booklet on the Columbarium, for the permanent disposition of ashes, where cremation is preferred.

Telephone California Mausoleum Co., MAin 1534, or call at our Offices, 206 Harris Bldg., 110 West 11th St.—[Advertisement.

ADGE BANDIT NAMED IN TEN NEW COUNTS

On the second batch of indictments found against him, Harry Dunlap, badge bandit, was arraigned yesterday before Judge ... and pleading was set for today. There are ten counts, eight for robbery, one of assault with intent to commit murder and one of theft that now covers the mountain. But with us it is a question of reforestation so much as rehabilitation. We must plant to keep the flood waters back of our reservoirs as well as back of the valley."

DEPENDS ON WATER

Dr. George P. Clements, head of the agricultural department of the Chamber of Commerce, declared that agriculture "is totally dependent on water," and industry largely dependent, especially because of the use of electric power derived from water.

"We boast of the size of California," he said, "but with us it is but 41 per cent of the State to be 3 or 4 per cent of the State productive. Reforestation will increase our productive areas. Why, the reservoirs we spend so much on

THWART PORT TAR PARTY

Police Warned of Mob Threats Against Couple for Chaining Boy in Dog Kennel and Beating Him

Threats of mob violence against the step-mother and father of 10-year-old John Yakasovich, who is asserted to have been beaten into a state of dementia and chained in a dog kennel at the home of his parents in Los Angeles Harbor yesterday caused the police to take a hand in the situation.

Prompt action in removing the boy from the home and in assuring the malignant neighbors that the guilty persons will be punished is believed to have averted a tar-and-feather party planned for last night in which the parents of the boy were to have been the victims.

The boy is said to have been found at the harbor for several days on account of complaints by persons living in the neighborhood of the Yakasovich home at 746 Fifteenth street.

Several persons told the police the boy had been beaten daily by his step-mother and his 9-year-old half-sister. The boy, the informants declared, was chained in a dog kennel, and was fed on scraps of food only.

Investigating, Policewoman Mrs. Marguerite Curley reported she found the little boy cowering in a corner of the yard, shaking with fear and suffering from dementia, caused, it is believed, by the asserted inhuman treatment. He was not chained at the time, Mrs. Curley said, but neighbors declared he had been a short time before. Numerous welts were found on the boy's body, Mrs. Curley said, verifying the stories of cruelty.

Reassuring the little boy that she would not harm him, Mrs. Curley said she questioned his stepmother. Mrs. Yakasovich is declared to have calmly admitted beating the boy.

"I don't want to be bothered with him," she is said to have explained to the policewoman.

Although evidence was declared by Mrs. Curley to have been found bearing out the stories of cruelty, Mrs. Yakasovich was not taken into custody, she having recently become a mother. The father was questioned and was ordered to appear before Juvenile Court here Monday.

The asserted victim was taken in charge by Mrs. Curley and will be turned over to the juvenile authorities.

Several months ago, according to Mrs. Curley, the boy was taken from his home and spent a short time in the Sunny Crest Home in Culver City. Mistreatment by his stepmother, Mrs. Curley said, caused the boy's removal on that occasion. The boy was later returned to his home when Mrs. Yakasovich promised not to harm him.

WOMEN HUNTED IN BIGAMY QUIZ

Long Beach Police Think Trio Can Aid in Jordan Case

Asserted Mystery in Death of Three Wives Studied

Suspect Repeats Story That Fall Killed Last Mate

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

LONG BEACH, Aug. 6.—Police today were seeking three women who, they believe, can shed light on the marriage ventures of John Aaron Jordan, laundry wagon driver now in the City Jail here for investigation for bigamy. The authorities have records of six women with whom Jordan says he has been involved, according to Detective Sergeant Smith, one-time friend of Jordan. In addition, Smith said today, three of Jordan's supposed wives died under mysterious circumstances.

The last one was Sadie Kessler Jordan, who was killed in a fall from a cliff at Rainier National Park, July 25, last, according to Jordan.

Detective Sergeants Smith and Lebarron continued today their investigation into the manner in which this wife, whom Jordan married here last February, met her death. Jordan reported that his wife fell from a cliff to the rocks 120 feet below while she was hiking with him on the Vantrump Trail at Rainier National Park, Wash.

Park authorities and forest rangers held Jordan for three days following the tragedy to question him and finally released him to attend his wife's funeral here Monday.

Questioned today regarding his wife's death, Jordan was emphatic in his assertions that he was several hundred feet in advance of her when she fell.

A search of local police records here revealed that Jordan has been arrested in Long Beach on three separate occasions. On a fourth occasion he was questioned at police headquarters in connection with the robbery of a safe in a local laundry. He was arrested first in September, 1923, the records show, on a charge of intoxication and was fined $100 in the Police Court. Last October he was taken into custody on a bench warrant and brought into court where he was fined $5 for a traffic violation. In April of this year he made his third appearance in court and was fined $5 for violation of a city ordinance.

TELLS OF TERM

In addition to the year he served in Leavenworth penitentiary for bigamy, Jordan told police today that he served six months in a prison at Mountain Home, Idaho, the sentence growing out of his connection with a woman. Whether or not this woman was one of the wives, of whom the police have a record, Jordan would not say.

Efforts to question Jordan as to the disposal of the property of three of his wives who died brought no result, the police said. A trunk belonging to his last wife is at a local warehouse and is being held up by the police as a result, they said, of Jordan's efforts to have it taken to his apartment for opening alone. The police announced that efforts of the dead wife's relatives to have the trunk opened in their presence have met with strenuous opposition from Jordan.

"MAN IN THE MOON" AS HOSPITAL BENEFIT

The performance is by Maud Meserve Falconer, head of the school. It will be for the benefit of the hospital.

SEWER LINK TO OUTFALL CONSIDERED

South Bay Sanitation Area Directors Given Report; Election May Follow

Recommendations that the joint sewer system, proposed for manhattan Beach, Hermosa Beach, Redondo Beach and a portion of the Palos Verde district, connect with the Los Angeles outfall sewer at Hyperion was made in the report submitted to the South Bay Cities Sanitation District directors yesterday by Chief Engineer Rockhold and Assistant Engineer Warren. The report was made to the directors at a meeting in the conference room of the County Board of Supervisors.

That the directors approve of the recomendations is believed to be indicated by the fact that they decided by a vote of 3 to 1 to receive the report at a public hearing at 8 p.m. on the 27th inst. at the Redondo Beach Union High School. At that time the directors will vote on the plans. If the plans are accepted the next step will be to set the date for a bond election to finance the system. The system proposed will cost approximately $462,800, it was stated.

Tuesday, the Hermosa Trustees voted to hold an election for $200,000 bonds to build a sewage disposal plant, subject to the action of the sanitary district.

The district has obtained from the City Council of Los Angeles an agreement to terms of a contract under which the city will permit the district to connect its system with the screening plant and outfall sewer being built by the city.

FIVE FINED FOR TOTING DEER MEAT

Highway Patrol is Now at Work to Stop Hunters Bringing Ventura Kill

The highway patrol, to prevent deer hunters from transporting venison from an open district into Los Angeles county, part of the Fourth District, where the season now is closed, has been inaugurated for the present year and resulted in the arrest and conviction of five men yesterday.

A. W. Hanson, D. L. Theetge and J. A. Roache, all of Los Angeles, were arrested, charged with transporting deer meat from an open into a closed district, when they sought to enter Los Angeles county at Castiac. They were taken before Justice Miller at Newhall, pleaded guilty and were assessed fines of $50, $65 and $160 respectively.

Leslie L. McClenahan of Seventh and Olive street, Los Angeles, and W. H. Streahlein of 740 West Broadway, Glendale, each paid fines of $50.

The meat was confiscated.

The season does not open in Los Angeles county until midnight, September 15.

GAIN SHOWN BY SCHOOLS OF COUNTY

State to Grant $1,209,460 More Here on Account of Increase in Pupils

The average daily attendance at the elementary schools in Los Angeles county during the year recently closed was 24 per cent greater than during the preceding year, according to figures made public yesterday by A. R. Heron, Assistant State Superintendent of Public Instruction at Sacramento. The attendance at high schools was 20 per cent greater.

The daily average attendance at all the elementary schools in the State increased nearly 10 per cent to 535,309, and at all the high schools 12 per cent to more than 140,000.

As a consequence of the increases in Los Angeles county the State will distribute $984,030 more this year for the support of the elementary schools here than last year and $225,430 more for the support of the high schools.

The apportionment for the support of all the elementary and high schools in the State shows an increase of $1,870,470 to a total of $20,277,840.

NEW EDISON RATE HEARING

State Body Orders Session on Power Rate After Two Commissioners Dissent on Boost

The State Railroad Commission yesterday ordered a rehearing, to be conducted here the 13th inst., on the application of the Southern California Edison Company for an increase in existing rates, news dispatches from San Francisco stated. The rehearing was ordered after dissenting opinion was filed by two of the five commissioners and after three petitions were filed in Los Angeles protesting against the increase and demanding a rehearing of the application.

On the 1st inst. the commission, meeting in San Francisco with Commissioner Brundige presiding, decided in favor of an increase of 10 per cent over and above present rates for the Edison company. The decision was reached by a majority vote, Commissioners Seavey and Shore opposing the increase and basing their stand on five points of objection. The commission, however, ruled in favor of the increase and set September 1 as the date on which it would be effective.

The decision met with protests by consumers. Attorney W. J. Carr, representing twenty-six Southern California cities using Edison power and light, was authorized to file a petition demanding that a rehearing be given. Carr's petition was filed yesterday as were the petitions of the Board of Public Service Commissioners, the Yucaipa Water Company and the South Mesa Water Company, the latter two filing a joint petition.

Carr's petition for the twenty-six cities, including Los Angeles, asserts that the company presented no evidence at the recent hearing to justify an increase, that the surplus earnings of former and future years should have been given strong consideration by the commission.

The water companies' petition cites that it was not shown by the company that its financial structure would be undermined by continuing its present rates and also points out that the present curtailment of power has been brought about by the policy of the company in relation to its power program.

The Board of Public Service Commissioners' petition declares that due to the fact that it is one of the largest consumers of Edison power and light it will have a hardship imposed by the increase.

The increase was granted by the commission because, it was said, rate increases were found to be necessary by reason of the great expense to the company in production of power resulting from the water shortage in Southern California.

The Edison company stated to the commission that it would suffer a loss of nearly $6,000,000 due to the abnormal cost of power production during the 1924 water shortage and asked the commission to increase the rates so that an additional revenue of $3,000,000 would be forthcoming. An increase of 20 per cent in the rates for a nine-month period was asked. The increase of 10 per cent granted was made effective September 1, and for the following eight months.

One of the chief arguments of Commissioners Shore and Seavey was that it would not be fair to increase rates in view of the fact that the company is able to pay an 8 per cent dividend on its common stock.

PAL OF KINGS' CONFESSES HOAX TO WIN ART ENTREE

BY CHARLES SLOAN

"Dr. Sir Robert Walter Douglas," president of the Los Angeles Opera Club, erstwhile self-styled operatic bon vivant and crony of Europe's crowned and uncrowned royalty, yesterday confessed to City Prosecutor Friedlander that his pretensions to world fame as a musician and his numerous titles and decorations were a hoax perpetrated to give him prestige in Los Angeles art circles. The confession followed an investigation of several days on the part of the prosecutor, who told Douglas that the official inquiry was not closed by the admission of the fraud.

Rivaling the visionary tales of Munchausen have been the self-told stories of this pseudo-impresario's "career," according to his admissions; that in the main they have been well told is evidenced by his reception in Los Angeles, Hollywood, Pasadena, Long Beach and elsewhere in social circles.

"Sir" Robert, in fact, was so successful that he has been enabled in the past two years to maintain himself and his menage with very little personal effort.

EFFORTS NEAR SUCCESS

His various organizations, which, in addition to the Los Angeles Opera Club, included the conception of a massive art center under the title of "the American Academy of Master Arts," have been brought through his fabricative efforts almost to the point of civic recognition.

Through the similarity of the name of his club to that of the Los Angeles Opera Association, the latter a genuine organization sponsored by civic leaders and headed by Federal Judge Bledsoe, he has attracted many investing members. In addition to this, according to the evidence in the hands of the prosecutor, he sought through a free but unauthorized use of the names of Mrs. Hancock Banning, Mrs. Joseph Sartori, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Doheny and others prominent in society, to inveigle into the club such persons of prominence as he thought would be little likely to investigate his assertions.

These claims of Douglas were many. From his visiting cards, his correspondence, his prospecti and other printed matter, from his own statements and from testimony of those whom he had taken into his confidence, the prosecutor found that his asserted activities ran from the practice of medicine in Boston to diplomatic work in Austria.

WHAT HE PRETENDED

Among these assertions, all of which have been admitted by Douglas to be either untrue or grossly exaggerated, are the following:

That he had been decorated for his musical achievements by every crowned head in Europe.

That he was a recipient of the Order of the Golden Fleece from Emperor Franz Josef of Austria-Hungary as a token of diplomatic triumphs achieved through the fact that he spoke twenty-two languages.

That he was a graduate of the Harvard Medical School of Boston; that he had graduated from the Johns Hopkins Medical School at Baltimore; that he had practiced medicine in Boston for two years.

That the organization of the Los Angeles Opera Club was the direct result of plans conceived by Douglas, the late President Roosevelt and the late Mme. Lillian Nordica, distinguished singer, at a conference at the White House during Roosevelt's administration.

That the British and Italian governments had asked Douglas

'ART' PONZI HAD VISIONS OF MANSION

Negotiated for Glengarry Castle as Headquarters for His Projects

That "Dr." Robert Walter Douglas, "Ponzi of Art," sought to house his various projects and those of some of his friends, in Glengarry Castle, palatial Hollywood home formerly owned by Sessue Hayakawa, was discovered yesterday by the city prosecutor's investigators.

Douglas, introduced into the firm of Gibbons, Heston & Co., of Hollywood, agents for the property, by the Princess Margurita Orlova, carried on negotiations over a period of several weeks, it was said. They ended when he failed to produce the first payment on what was to have been a long-term lease.

In the correspondence of the pseudo-impresario investigators found a list of some of the concerns Douglas had hoped to quarter in the "castle." They included the non-alcoholic winery of "His Royal Highness Prince John Rex Wettin Joshua David Edward George Patrick Andrew de Windsor de Guelph," self-dubbed offspring of the British royal family of local and international notoriety; the headquarters of "The House of David and St. John," of which little is known; the main offices of "The Los Angeles Opera Club" and the "American Academy of Master Arts" and the headquarters of a film company which was to herald the first plunge of Douglas into motion pictures.

Stammer Rites to Be Conducted by City Firemen

Members of the City Fire Department will have charge of the funeral services tomorrow afternoon for Lieut. Adolph C. Stammer, for twenty-four years a member of the department, who died at his home, 7919 Moneta avenue, Tuesday evening, following a four weeks' illness. The services will be conducted at 2 p.m. at the Trinity Lutheran Church, Eighteenth and Cherry streets. Burial will be at Inglewood Park Mausoleum.

Lieut. Stammer was born in Berlin, Germany, fifty-four years ago. He entered the Los Angeles Fire Department in 1900 and retired on a pension June 1, last. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Amelia Stammer, a son Walter, who lived with his father, and a daughter, Mrs. Rose Sturges, 904 West Thirty-fifth street.

The body is in charge of the Lawson F. Utter Undertaking Company.

CLUB'S HISTORY UNCOVERED

Many Aims Set Forth in Two Declarations of Opera Organization; Trustees Given Salary

Two separate declarations of trust for the formation of the Los Angeles Opera Club were found on record at the County Clerk's office yesterday in connection with the investigation that resulted in a confession of Robert Walter Douglas that he had been hoaxing the public.

Both documents are similar in wording; the first is under date of August 15, 1923, and the second under date of May 26, last.

The purposes of the organization, it seems, were to be many. They were "to develop, promote and build the American Academy of Master Arts; to construct a Temple of Music as the permanent home of grand opera, high-class dramatic productions, concerts and the like; to organize a permanent grand opera company; to produce grand operas, concerts, high-class dramatic productions, pageants and the like; to develop and train actors, artists, singers and musicians for the American concert, dramatic and operatic stage;" to develop in Los Angeles a need for such an institution and a desire for its products; "to buy, build, sell, erect, construct, rent, lease, equip and mortgage, by purchase and otherwise and to conduct" all types of amusement enterprises; "to promote poetry, literature and belle letters, sculpture and music and scientific research."

They were authorized to acquire property for the use of the club or for investment; to borrow money, issue notes, bonds or other securities and many other things.

The agreement calls for five trustees, any one of whom may be removed on the vote of the other four; the trustees otherwise holding office for life.

One phrase of significance as to financial operation was included in the agreement:

"Neither the members of the club nor the subscribers to its funds shall have any legal right to the trust property, nor to any title therein, nor the right to call for a partition or division of the same, nor a dissolution of the trust."

The trustees, according to the agreement, were to be paid "not less than $5000 a year." The members of the club, under the by-laws, could elect officers, but the trustees held sole power in administration of the affairs of the organization.

And, in a prominent position at the end of each trust agreement, is the name of Dr. Robert W. Douglas.

Those listed as trustees in the first agreement were, in addition to Douglas, the Princess Margurita Orlova, John B. Bushnell, Milton A. Stone and George Meiklejohn.

In the second agreement all but Douglas and Meiklejohn had resigned, their names being filled by Ezri Alfred Bertrand, who has since resigned, G. J. Oden, and K. R. Douglas, also resigned.

OPERATIC PRETENTIONS

That he had been a member of the Metropolitan and Chicago Grand Opera companies; that he had been a member of Royal or Imperial Opera companies at London, Petrograd, Moscow, Stockholm, Christiania, The Hague, Budapest, Athens, Paris, Monte Carlo, Nice, Genoa, Florence, Naples, Constantinople, Cairo, Vienna, Berlin, Saxony, Wurtemburg and many other cities.

That he had appeared either as a member of an imperial or royal opera company as a concert artist in every country in the world but Japan.

That he was a secret diplomatic agent in Germany for Woodrow Wilson during the war.

That persons with financial backing of $100,000,000 were actively interested in the furtherance of the club and its ultimate aim, the Academy of Master Arts.

BARRED FROM CLUB

During the course of his questioning by Prosecutor Friedlander, Douglas further admitted that while he had been proposed as a member of the Gamut Club, an investigation resulted in his not being elected.

In accounts of his birth as gathered from press clippings and from stories told by associates, Douglas repeatedly had asserted that he was born a member of the royal house of Scotland and that he is the reigning head of the Clan Douglas of that country. Actually, it appears, he was born in a small town in Maine, where the majority of his relatives now live.

Instead of receiving his early education from private tutors, he attended public schools in Manchester, Hallowell and other villages, graduating finally from the Hallowell High School.

As to his university education, if any both Douglas and the records are silent. Douglas has admitted that his assertions of graduation from the Harvard Medical School are false, but he failed to supply the deficiency in that respect.

MUSICAL EDUCATION

He asserts a musical education from a dozen noted teachers, among whom is included Oscar Saenger of New York. In all the cases mentioned, investigation set in motion by telegraph so far has resulted in information that "Dr." Douglas is unknown to the persons named.

But somewhere Douglas did receive teaching in both voice and piano. In later years he is listed as "the well known Maine baritone," and, as the days progress, he is successively manager of numerous concerts, private music teacher on piano and voice, operator of several unsuccessful schools for instruction in grand opera, and occupant of studios in various cities.

And, as these accounts progress, it was also found that his pretensions to fame grew steadily—and especially those to international fame, despite the fact that his record already traced has shown him to have resided in the United States by far the great majority of his life.

SILENT ON START

Just when the idea of broadcasting false achievements and honors received in an attempt to place him on the ladder of fame as—he advertises it in much of his printed matter—"America's most famous baritone," was not elicited in the prosecutor's examination.

But that he was broad for a small space of time in the year of 1915 is a matter of record—it is the only record which he has or says he is able to produce that he ever left the continent of North America.

Two years ago, Douglas admitted to the prosecutor yesterday, he came to Los Angeles, unknown, unhonored and unsung. According to his story he is suffering from a loss of voice. He variously assigns it to "double pneumonia" and "tuberculosus."

He sought first to gain a living teaching, but he found it hard even with his undoubted achievements as a persuader, to be admitted into the best of art circles. And he was not content, he admits, to struggle under his true status.

FINDS EASY PREY

But, bit by bit, he became acquainted with numerous business men whose weary grind of commercialism had made them easy prey to the "doctor's" fantasies. One by one he enlisted them in support of his scheme to build a gigantic art center in Los Angeles. He was so plausible, so ingenuous, in his stories that no one thought to investigate him, or the tales he told.

His visiting card boldly carried lists of honors achieved by him; he was able to exhibit, through the results of clever press-agentry in previous years, what were apparently guarantees of his assertions.

But even as he built the structure by which he hoped to obtain wealth and fame in Southern California, there were doubters. Real musicians, who insisted that he play and sing, found themselves unable to believe that he was what he said he was.

Yet, late in 1923, he was surrounded by a group and was organizing a trust for the formation of the Los Angeles Opera Club. This trust, according to his story yesterday, lasted but a few months, and broke up on his volition when he "found several of the trustees undesirable."

STORY IS DENIED

According to one reputable business man, whose story is in possession of the prosecutor, this was far from fact. The real breaking of this trust, this man's story says, came after the Gamut Club's investigation and after Dr. Douglas, faced with the results of that investigation, failed to supply proof of his achievements and contradict assertions of officials of the Metropolitan and Chicago Grand Opera companies that he was unknown in their records.

The breaking of the trust did not discourage Dr. Douglas, he said. He readily found new backers. And in May, last, another trust agreement was filed at the County Clerk's office. In this latter agreement Ezri Alfred Bertrand, a tenor with a real reputation, and K. R. Douglas, who is no relation to the "doctor" are listed as trustees.

Yesterday "Dr." Douglas admitted that both these gentlemen had resigned. Their statements, now in the hands of the prosecutor, are that they resigned very shortly after the formation of the trust when they discovered that "Dr." Douglas was not all he said he was.

NEVER HEARD OF HIM

For the past several days the inquiry into the affairs of Douglas rapidly has been coming to a head. Scores of cablegrams were dispatched to European points; they resulted in searches of scores more of mouldy documents. In Vienna the records of the Hapsburg family and of the old Imperial Opera were unearthed as far as fifty years back—and the cabled reply said that Douglas had never been heard of.

From London came a message that there is no office of court singer in Britain; from Berlin denials from a dozen authorities—including officials of the Imperial Opera there—that Douglas had ever appeared in operatic work in that capital. And as cable after cable came back, all giving the same information, and as several hundred messages were received from various points in the United States and from various well-known musicians denying knowledge of Douglas or his activities, the prosecutor prepared to act.

Yesterday J. R. Poland, chief investigator at the City Prosecutor's office, found Douglas at room 506, 321 West Third street. Twenty minutes later Douglas was in the Prosecutor's office.

ADMITS HIS HOAX

There, in a four-hour statement, he admitted the perpetration of his hoax; he checked over long lists of names and segregated the real members of his organization from those whose names he had used to promote it; he told of activities of other persons in Los Angeles and elsewhere whose pretensions to fame are doubted; he showed his financial transactions in detail, and he concluded with a statement that he had freely and voluntarily offered the information and that he was glad that the true story finally would be printed.

Douglas, up to his departure from the prosecutor's office, resided at 436 East Avenue 28. He had no permanent office, but transacted much of his business at the West Third street address. Such meetings of the Opera Club as have been held were convened either in the Hollywood Library Hall or in the asserted Russian Studios at Fifth street and Western avenue.

Memberships in the club were sold at rates varying from $25 to $1000. This, Douglas asserts, has recently been reduced to from $1 to $5.

The next meeting of the club was scheduled at the Library Hall for the 11th inst. It is understood that it will be postponed.

VETERAN OF CITY POLICE FORCE DEAD

Thomas H. Ziegler Passes Away from Paralysis at Glendale Sanatorium

Detective Lieutenant Thomas H. Ziegler, oldest in point of service of any member on the city police force, and an officer who never killed a man despite his many scrapes with desperate crooks, died at 9 o'clock last night at the Glendale Sanitorium from the effects of a paralytic stroke he suffered Tuesday afternoon.

At his bedside when death came was his partner of the last six years, Detective Lieutenant Wallace.

At headquarters, at the stations in the outlying districts that Ziegler knew as farmlands when he joined the force and at the police reporters' room, the news of the veteran's passing was the chief topic of conversation. Many there were who remember this valiant episode or that one in which Ziegler played the lead.

Ziegler's services with the Los Angeles police force began in 1897, twenty-seven years ago. At that time Los Angeles boasted 100 policeman. Today there are 2000. He could have retired on a pension seven years ago, but he chose to continue in the service. In 1906, Ziegler was made a detective and put in plain clothes. He had been a plainclothes man ever since.

In his time he has handled some of the most important cases coming before the police department. He did very effective work in helping run down the dynamiters of The Times Building. In this work he was aided by Detective Lieutenants James McNamara, James Hosick and George Home, now chief of detectives. He was one of the first detectives assigned to the William Desmond Taylor murder case.

In his many years of active work as a detective, Ziegler had plenty of narrow escapes. There was the case of Thomas Maxey. Ziegler arrested him on an arson charge at Fifth street and Maple avenue on July 4, 1908. Maxey pulled a gun and began shooting. A bullet creased Ziegler across the chest but without resorting to shooting he overpowered Maxey, took his gun away from him and brought him in.

Thomas Ziegler was 61 years of age, having been born February 3, 1863, at Carlisle, Pa. He lived at 415 North Hill street. Plans were being made last night to hold a funeral befitting the oldest man on the Los Angeles police force.

FATHER WHO HALTS CUPID IS BATTERED

Five Youths Charged With Beating Man After Girl is Sent to Juvenile Hall

Five youths, who are asserted to have administered a severe beating to L. J. Middleton of 343 Mooney Drive, Monterey Park, because he objected to one of them keeping company with his daughter, and had placed her in Juvenile Hall, were accused of assault with intent to commit bodily harm in a complaint issued yesterday by Dep. Dist.-Atty. Kemp.

Those charged in the complaint were Beryl Autler, Charles Autler, Alex Frickle and two others named as John Doe. The youth who is accused of instigating the beating is known as "Oscar."

According to the complaint, the youths went to Middleton's home Monday night and asked him to step outside. When he complied they are declared to have assaulted him with blackjacks. Middleton was reported to have been beaten severely about the head, and may lose the sight of one eye.

Middleton is said to have obtained permission of authorities to place his daughter in Juvenile Hall after repeated warnings against the attentions of "Oscar."

A search was being made late yesterday by the Sheriff's office for the youths.

Funeral Rites Conducted for Joseph Bohon

Funeral services for Joseph H. Bohon, pioneer Los Angeles real estate man, were conducted at St. John's Episcopal Church yesterday afternoon. Rev. George Davidson, rector of the church, officiated.

Intimate friends and associates of Mr. Bohon acted as pallbearers. Active pallbearers were B. L. Vickry, Sumner Hunt, Frank Hudson, Charles Barrington, Samuel Haskins, Luther Bradford and Irwin Herron. Honorary pallbearers were E. S. Rowley, Allen Balch, I. B. Newton, Alexander Barrett, Walter Leeds, Charles Benbrooke and Gilbert Lee.

Death came last Monday evening at the family residence, 1245 West Adams street, where he had resided for the past twenty years, following a heart attack. He was 70 years of age.

He was born in Kentucky and came to Los Angeles thirty years ago.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Eleanor Page Bohon, and three daughters, Mrs. Eleanor Bohon Heintz, Mrs. Mary Bohon Meade and Miss Henryetta Bohon.

Arrangements for the funeral were in charge of Bresse Brothers, undertakers.

SUNSET BOULEVARD LIGHT PROTESTS FAIL

The City Council yesterday denied protests against the installation of ornamental lighting posts on Sunset Boulevard from Hollywood Boulevard at Vista street, a distance of three and one-half miles. The protestants declared that they desired the Council to postpone action on the installation plan until a petition had been presented for the widening of the Boulevard, declaring that when the widening is accomplished it would be necessary to remove the lighting posts to the new street line. The Council declined to delay action in view of the property owners' petition asking for them.

VALENTINE NAMED TO BENCH

Governor Appoints Episcopal Church Chancellor to Succeed Judge Hewitt in Superior Court

Appointment of Frederick C. Valentine, chancellor of the Episcopal Church in Southern California, to the Superior Court to succeed Judge Leslie R. Hewitt, whose resignation was presented to Gov. Richardson on the 1st inst., was announced yesterday. News that the appointment had been made and the official commission placed in the mail was received by Attorney Valentine in a telegram from the Governor.

While the appointment is only until the November election, it is considered virtually certain the appointee will serve until the expiration of Judge Hewitt's term in 1927. This is due to the fact that the time has expired for the filing of petitions of candidacy for the primary elections and almost insurmountable legal difficulties will face any candidate who seeks to have his name placed on the ballot. For that reason it is believed that only Attorney Valentine's name will appear on the ballot as candidate for the unexpired term of Judge Hewitt.

Frederick C. Valentine

Attorney Valentine was a law partner of the late Henry T. Lee and has specialized in ecclesiastical and probate law in recent years. He was born in New York and received his preliminary education in that State, being graduated from Union College of Albany. He came to Los Angeles in 1903 and has practiced law here since.

The new appointee is a member of the State and county bar associations, University Club, Diocesan Club, Chamber of Commerce, Automobile Club and the Masonic fraternity.

Judge Hewitt, who is retiring from the bench, will re-enter the private practice of law. He was appointed to the Superior Court in 1913 and has held office since.

REGISTERING IS REQUISITE IN CAR TITLE

Supreme Court Upholds Superior Tribunal and Reverses Appeal Ruling

Automobile registration certificates issued under provisions of the Motor Vehicle Act are prerequisites to the passing or title in an automobile and are not merely to be regarded for the purposes of registering motor cars, the State Supreme Court ruled yesterday in a decision reversing the recent findings of the District Court of Appeal.

The decision was made in the case of H. M. Park and A. J. Browne for the possession of an automobile from F. G. Franciscus. The matter is an appeal from Superior Court where a judgment was returned in favor of Franciscus after the court found that Park and Browne had failed to obtain the necessary registration certificates and were therefore not entitled to recover possession of the car.

The car in question, according to the evidence, was held in Park and Browne's possession, while it was being sold on a conditional sales contract. The agreement had not been fulfilled when Franciscus obtained title to the car in what he thought a legal manner. Franciscus registered the car in his name.

The ruling of the high tribunal upheld Superior Court's findings in that Park and Browne could not recover possession of the automobile as they did not obtain the proper registration certificates which Franciscus acquired.

It was the opinion of the District Court of Appeal where the case was taken following the decision of the Superior Court that the provisions of the Motor Vehicle Act are intended only for the purpose of registering automobiles and cannot establish title.

Lieut. M'Clary to Be Night Head of Central Division

Chief Heath yesterday ordered the transfer of Lieut. L. L. McClary from Hollywood division to Central division, where he will have charge at night. The division is in command of his brother, Capt. George S. McClary. It was stated that Central division has had no permanent commander at night, the lieutenant in charge being changed monthly, and that it was believed the new arrangement would increase efficiency.

PLEA MADE FOR STATE FORESTS

on would have been unnecessary if we had protected the forests."

Dr. Clements pleaded for "individual responsibility" in the matter of preventing forest fires. He said that since 85 per cent of the fires are due to human agencies, that proportion of them can be prevented. Henry W. O'Melveny said that in his opinion the reservation restrictions were not stringent enough; that at this time all traffic should be kept from the mountains.

LICENSE OF DOCTOR IN DOPE CASE UNDER FIRE

The hearing of Dr. George H. Wyman on a charge of making misrepresentations in his application to practice medicine was begun yesterday before Justice Ballard and will continue today. At the hearing, Special Agent Albert Carter of the State Board of Medical Examiners, served Wyman with a citation to appear on October 21 before the board and show cause why his license to practice should not be revoked. Wyman is out on $3000 bond on a narcotic charge.

Federal Trade Commission's Hearing at End

Famous Players-Lasky Sales Methods Are Told

Theater Ownership Legality is Undecided

The evidence has been introduced before the Federal Trade Commission hearing to show that the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation has used the block-booking method of distributing its photoplays to theaters in the district comprising Southern California and Arizona, U. S. Alvord, examiner for the commission, ruled yesterday.

The ruling was made when counsel for the Famous Players-Lasky corporation began the introduction of evidence in refutation of charges that the corporation has followed a divide-and-none policy of distributing pictures in an asserted effort to stifle competition.

LAST EVIDENCE HEARD

The last evidence relative to local phases of the case, brought more than a year ago to force the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation to cease alleged unfair competitive practices, was introduced before Examiner Alvord yesterday at the Federal Building. This final local hearing began a week ago last Monday. Examiner Alvord left Tuesday for San Francisco in company with Gaylord R. Hawkins, counsel for the Federal Trade Commission, and Bruce Bromley and Allen Robb of New York, counsel for the motion-picture corporation. The action of the Federal Trade Commission against the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation was brought to investigate charges that an effort to monopolize the motion-picture industry figured in the merger of the Famous Players Film Company, the Lasky Feature Play Company and Bosworth, Inc., and the acquisition by the new corporation of the Paramount Pictures Corporation, a distributing agency managed by W. W. Hodkinson, and theaters throughout the United States. The first testimony in the case was taken in New York City in April, 1923. The first evidence to the local situation was introduced in Los Angeles last December.

Examiner Alvord, heard the last of the government's testimony at that time. Since then he has been hearing testimony for the respondent in various cities. Two hearings have been necessary in each case because the respondent corporation refused to introduce evidence until the government had rested. It is expected by Examiner Alvord that he will be able to submit his findings to the commission not later than November 1.

NORMAL COMPETITION

Managers of motion-picture distributing organizations in Los Angeles testified during the hearing that closed that competition in this district has been normal. Attorney Bromley introduced reports to show that pictures shown in the 666 motion-picture theaters in this territory since 1920 have included only a fair proportion of those made by the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation. He introduced evidence also to show that in no instance has an exhibitor in this district contracted for a complete block of pictures released by the Lasky organization.

Among the witnesses were Joseph Schenck, Louis B. Mayer, Cecil De Mille and Frank A. Garbutt. Mr. De Mille testified the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation requires its present large organization in order to produce the thirty or ninety first-class features it releases each year. This testimony was to show that the size of the organization does not indicate an intention to monopolize the business. Mr. Garbutt, former head of Bosworth, Inc., testified that the formation of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation grew out of a merger of noncompeting companies engaged in making different kinds of pictures.

THEATER DEAL FIGURES

According to Attorney Bromley, a local question before the commission, in view of the ruling that evidence does not show efforts to force exhibitors to take Paramount pictures in blocks, is simply one as to whether the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation legally can retain possession of the Metropolitan theater, the Million Dollar Theater and the Rialto Theater, recently purchased from Sid Grauman. According to the theory of the prosecution, he said, the function of producing motion pictures must be separate from the function of exhibiting pictures.

Much hearing before Examiner Alvord relates to the situation in the Los Angeles district involved. Other cities where hearings have been held are Philadelphia, Washington, Atlanta, New Orleans, Dallas, Cleveland, Jacksonville, St. Louis and Kansas City.

Hearing Set for Ex-Detective on Robbery Charge

Clifford A. McCormack, former private detective with the Pyles detective agency, was arraigned yesterday before Municipal Judge Summerfield on two counts of robbery before Judge Russell, who fixed bail at $5000 and set the hearing for the 16th inst. McCormack was returned to the City Jail. It was said he had so many enemies in the County Jail that he might be in serious danger if locked up there.

McCormack was the principal witness against Godfrey Cowdrey, convicted of the murder of Joseph Dwyer, theater treasurer, and sentenced to life imprisonment. Dist.-Atty. Orme continued yesterday his investigation of the possibility that the charge against Cowdrey was framed and interviewed three witnesses, A. J. Selby, W. F. Davis and Mrs. A. Selby, who were near by when Dwyer was shot. He is seeking a woman said to have been an eyewitness of the murder, and the jury may decide whether Cowdrey will go to San Quentin or go free.

THE BEST SIDE

If there are always two sides to a story try to get the inside.

ON VACATION

QUITE A TRICK

BURDEN BEARERS

TOSSING THE BULL

An American humorist was tossed by the bull while playing a toreador in Spain. He might be able to throw the bull in this country, but in Spain it worked the other way. It is safer to play with Irish bulls.

THE RUNNING MATE

Senator Wheeler's trial under the indictment charging him with misuse of his office on behalf of a client has been set for hearing in October, which will be in the midst of the Presidential campaign. This will make no difference with his Socialist support, however. Eugene Debs, who is now supporting Wheeler, ran his campaign for the Presidency four years ago from behind the walls of the Atlanta prison.

A PIN PRICK

At an autopsy held recently at Kansas City a pin was found in the heart of a man who, while apparently in perfect health, had dropped dead in the lobby of a hotel. Nobody knows how the pin reached its destination, from what part of the body it started or what route it traveled or how many days, months or possibly years were consumed on the voyage. Many stories of search, quest and adventure that have found thousands of interested readers would be commonplace beside the mysterious and secret sabotage of the pin that, tracing the maze of the intricately convoluted human anatomy, never rested till its tiny point stopped the mainspring of the machinery.

PURLOINING OF SPOONS

No matter how insistent the disclaimers voiced by the 500 members of the American Advertising Club, the statement has been given world-wide publicity that forty-seven of them "borrowed" gold teaspoons from the table of their host at Elysees Palace in Paris. It brings the blush to the American cheek to believe it, and it behooves the champions of publicity to show that it is untrue or suffer the just contempt of their countrymen. This sort of petty theft used to be considered in the light of a joke by many persons, though it was none the less reprehensible merely because the spoons were less valuable. Ben Butler is said to have performed an act of the same kind on a larger scale and went to his grave with the malediction of "Spoons" attached to his name, yet he did not rob a friendly and gracious host. We feel confident that no California representative so disgraced himself as a guest.

WORKING WIVES

It is alleged that there are now more than 2,000,000 married women in this country who are filling positions outside of the home. Lots of them take the place of heads of families and many others have jobs that are needed by single women. It would be wrong to say that no married woman should be denied employment, but there is some justice in the contention that they should not be preferred above widows or spinsters. To reserve the wife for the home is better for the domestic life of the nation. If, through the ill health or incompetency of the husband, the woman becomes the better bread-winner there is full warrant for her employment, but when both husband and wife have prosperous and gainful occupation, while capable "singles" suffer for employment, conditions are not for the best. There will always be an old-fashioned feeling that wives and mothers are needed most in the home and can there best find the outlet for their capacities.

SEARCH AND SEIZURE

According to the Indiana Supreme Court, a man's automobile is a part of the family castle. At least the court holds that the practice of stopping motor cars on the highway and searching them for liquor is illegal. Of course, the original purpose of the bill of rights was to guarantee the citizen against arbitrary search or arrest. This is why a warrant is considered essential before the law can invade the home, and the court in protecting the individual declines to create a superficial distinction between the home and the vehicle that is transporting him thither. The decision is likely to embarrass prohibition enforcement—in Indiana at least—but the conclusion of the court is that all constitutional provisions should be construed in kindred terms. If a man's home may not be entered abruptly upon suspicion of felony his auto may not be searched on the mere chance of finding contraband liquor within. If a warrant is required in the one case it should be furnished in the other. Such, at least, is the interpretation of the Hoosier jurists.

OUR SILENT DIPLOMAT

Secretary Hughes is safely on board an American vessel homeward bound from his trip to Europe without having committed the traditional indiscretion of public officials who travel in foreign lands. He has not talked too much.

Few are the officials who are able to receive the attention that has been paid to Mr. Hughes without permitting the emotions of the moment to coerce them into saying things that had much better been unsaid. To speak on controversial questions requires knowledge and discretion; but still greater wisdom is required to keep silent opportunely.

Mr. Hughes visited Europe at a time when the continent was visibly concerned about the London conference. There were differences of opinion as to the proper method to put the Dawes report into effect. That report was the natural topic of discussion at all the functions the Secretary attended. He expressed his opinions in regard to it, but so discreetly that he avoided being drawn into any controversies.

His visit to Germany was viewed by some with trepidation. It was a delicate mission for a high official of one of the so-called Allied governments. Mr. Hughes traveled as a private citizen and insisted upon being treated as such. He was making simply a visit of observation. But the heads of the German republic hunted him up and insisted on receiving him, unofficially, of course.

According to the press dispatches, they tried to give to him the German point of view on the international questions that continue to divide Europe. And, according to the Berlin newspapermen, he proved to be an excellent listener.

It will be a surprise to many that one who said so little could command such great esteem; for the German press comment was all highly complimentary. The Germans were impressed by his "keenly intellectual face" and by the manifest fairness of his brief comments. The newspapermen agreed that, while he might not be an ardent friend of the German people, "he is not our enemy, and wishes us well."

There was some editorial discussion as to how differently the history of the last eight years would have been written if Mr. Hughes had been elected in 1916. Of course, such speculation is futile. But it is not likely that, had the Germans persisted in the submarine attacks on American merchant vessels, Mr. Hughes would have been any more lenient with them than was President Wilson.

What the European press and public think of Secretary Hughes has been repeated in the columns of The Times. But what Mr. Hughes thinks of European conditions is still known only to himself. The President and the other members of the Cabinet will probably know soon after he returns, but it is taken for granted in advance that he will talk little for publication.

Mr. Hughes has been discreet without being taciturn. He knew how to avoid discussion of subjects that would awaken dissension. It is not probable that aught which he said abroad will rise up to confront him on his return. His visit has been a model of propriety. The information which he has gained through this close-up of Europe will be of great value to the administration; and he has said nothing and done nothing to embarrass either the President or his party.

The Secretary devoted his short summer vacation to preparing himself better to solve the problems that will come to him after his return home.

TRIFLING WITH JUSTICE

The Chicago murder case no longer is extraordinary for the audacity of the crime; for the tender age and the education of the defendants; for their own silly and at once ghastly views on life. It is now worthy of national note for the testimony of the alienists.

That two youths are accused of murdering a boy is in itself of importance. But it is still more important that the accused seem to be so interested in the new school of thought dignified by the title philosophy, which seems to be the same school to which these alienists belong and which now is being weighed as evidence by a court of law.

Has our modern theory of insanity as a defense brought us to this? Insanity is a relative thing. Heretofore it was necessary to prove a person extremely insane to make a defense on that score. Now any quirk of the mind, quirks which in a harmless way we all possess, is offered as evidence of irresponsibility.

If the theory of insanity as a defense has brought us to this it is high time to return to the Mosaic law of an eye for an eye and make punishment merely punishment. It may be less just in the modern conception of justice, but it is safer for society, and that, after all, is the whole theory of the courts of justice.

The question is not whether these youths are guilty or not guilty, but whether, if guilty, they shall escape punishment. That matters little to society as a whole. But it does matter that this sort of evidence is even considered at the bar of justice; this childish interpretation of the psychoanalytical school; this hocus-pocus method of defining motives and responsibilities. It is a blow at all decent society, for it admits of a monster that may destroy society, a monster that is half sentimentality and half devil.

This philosophical monster will destroy all virtue, for, without a sense of personal responsibility, there can be no virtue. If we are governed by tyrannical "complexes" and not by our own volition, how can there be any self-control; how can there be any reasonable responsibility at all?

The two accused youths were followers of this modern school of thinking; their minds were addled by Freudian idiocies. They studied psychoanaylsis; they experimented in laboratories when they should have been playing baseball. Theirs was the moral rot that menaces the youth of the nation.

They may be victims, yes, of their own philosophy. But that admitted, where does the responsibility lie? Is it not with those spreaders of this same mad philosophy of life, which appeals to the studious youth so woefully? Or are these disciples of immorality themselves irresponsible because they, too, suffer from some supercomplexes over which they have no control?

SEEING AND BELIEVING

One proverb announces that seeing is believing, while another sets forth that the eye is easy to deceive. You may see a man whom you find it impossible to believe. If we may not accept the verdict of the eyes it is well to have faith, which is the evidence of things not seen.

A CIVIC CRISIS

It is self-evident that in a crisis such as is at present faced by the city of Los Angeles figureheads in office should be eliminated and their places filled by men of large caliber. The Harbor Board and the Board of Public Works should be headed by engineers of wide experience, of whom we have many. Who can forget the value of the late Gen. Adna R. Chaffee as a member of the latter board during the construction of the Los Angeles Aqueduct? But such men cannot be expected to put aside a life competence and serve the city for the price of a truck driver.

As for the nontechnical places we must get away from the chronic office-seeker, look to the great body of citizenry and find men who, by upright living and modest success in life, have shown their worth. Past experience has shown that sometimes such a man will break away from his home life at the demand of his neighbors who know him best and for a time perform a public duty, but as a rule he has found the sacrifice too great. Honesty and straightforwardness have too often met with misrepresentation and abuse that have caused him to gladly return to the quiet of his own business. It is time for the citizenry to change this, and we believe they will.

The notably successful business man at the head of any great enterprise, the man of the hour for the place at the head of civic development, while he may be named in connection with important civic movements, has other demands upon his time so great that he must of necessity be but nominally active, and he cannot be induced to accept public office. Eminently successful professional men—lawyers, physicians, educators—all by reason of attainments and mental attitude so well qualified to serve the best interests of the community, find neither time nor inclination to take upon themselves the burdens and vexations now attached to public office.

MEXICAN COFFEE

While some persons—who probably have coffee to sell—are warning us that the revolutionary troubles in Brazil are going to make coffee scarce and high in this country, it is comforting to be reminded that there are such quantities of coffee in Mexico—that a great deal of it isn't even harvested, ordinarily, because the foreign markets were already pretty well supplied. Mexico has been harvesting enough to supply its local demands and a few thousand bags annually to ship to houses in the States, which blend it with the Brazilian product to give the latter a little of the really thrilling flavor which is uniquely the possession of Mexican coffee.

Before the recent revolutions—the series beginning in 1912, that is—Mexican coffee was rapidly finding its way into the world markets. Because Mexicans generally scorch their coffee, as the French do, it has been misjudged by many Americans who have tasted it only in Mexican cafes. But when roasted American style it makes any American coffee-lover want to ride the cow that jumps over the moon. That is proven by the fact that noted American coffee blenders import Mexican coffee solely for the flavor it gives that which they import from other countries. It also was demonstrated a few years ago by two young Americans in Tampico, "the most American city in the world outside the United States," who started roasting coffee American style in a cubbyhole back of a cigar stand—coffee which grew wild—because they were "broke." And soon were rolling in luxury as a result of the enthusiastic patronage of the 10,000 Americans and English there.

The 1912 revolution in Mexico put its coffee trade out of the running and the 1924 revolt in Brazil may bring it back. There still is plenty of coffee in the world, no matter what the speculators tell us.

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

Romans Hiss "Glory of Sevilla"

Roman spectators have hissed and jeered one of Spain's famous matadors out of the arena. The incident occurred recently when a bull fight was given in the Eternal City and after the matador had seriously wounded the bull several times without dispatching him with the deft stroke, considered the acme of the cult. When he finally landed the coup de grace it was an animal destitute of any fight or action that he killed. He waved his hat graciously, but the Romans hissed him. Bull fights are not popular in Rome.

Name of a Dog!

Extreme radicals in the French Parliament will utilize the Chamber as a "tribunal of propaganda" and will disavow its legislative functions, they have declared. One way to distinguish themselves, adopted by these gentlemen, is by the affectation of odd and grotesque costumes. Andre Marty, who finally was elected after many trials during previous elections, has discarded his handsome frock coat for a real lowbrow cap, khaki shirt without collar and mackinaw trousers. He spends his time out of session walking in front of the Palais Bourbon and takes delight in the fact that official guides point him out as a curiosity to visiting tourists. Cadic, Deputy from Brittany, wears an embroidered blouse, beribboned hat and the colorful sash of his native soil. During the recent warm weather he was the envy of other deputies, who generally dress in stiff frock coats.

Lonesome in a Crowd

Three Fiji chiefs have been in London to thank King George for fifty years of British rule over certain of their islands. They told the King that things were going right with them, that cannibalism did not exist any more and that civilization and many modern innovations had found a place in the islands. One of the chiefs, now togged out in frock coat, high silk hat and golden spectacles, Sukuma by name, told his Britannic Majesty that he had been a cannibal and had often participated in native feasts where human flesh was consumed. The chiefs did not feel at home in London. Whenever they had to go up to a higher floor in one of the government buildings or at their hotel they felt their "hearts go into their mouths" when entering the elevator, and therefore preferred climbing the stairs during the latter part of their visit.

RIPPLING RHYMES

SORROW AT HOME

There is sorrow all around me, there is want in every street, and the wailing beggars hound me for some things to wear and eat. There are orphans in the alley, there are widows in the parks, and I trust the gods keep tally while I hand them German marks. There are cripples sadly dragging shriveled limbs about the town, suffering a grief unflagging, and I cannot turn them down. There are men by fortune beaten, and they tell, while drifting by, of the weeks since they have eaten, of their longing for a pie. Oh, the busted ones are screeching for a doughnut or a coat, and my hand is always reaching for a kopeck or a groat. Oft I hear of starving races, yearning for a can of peas, in the distant jump-off places far beyond the rolling seas. Oftentimes my good Aunt Dinah asks me for a round doubloon; there is want in Cochin China, there is grief in the Gaboon. All along the Congo River people suffer, day and night, and she asks me to deliver some poor native from his plight. There are weeping gents and ladies in the town of Timbuctoo, in the lower wards of Cadiz many people have the flu. But her pleas for my assistance leave me cold as frozen Nome; why hunt trouble in the distance when we've loads of it at home? Since I cannot help the wailing from Spitzbergen to Johore, I will take a kippered grayling to the man who wails next door.

LETTERS TO The Times

The Roaring Tide

LOS ANGELES, July 31.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Several times in the last few weeks I have seen persons just escape being dashed to the pavement by passing automobiles as they were boarding cars. The traffic ordinance which states that automobiles must stop ten feet to the rear of all stopping cars seems not to exist for most drivers. Let's help the traffic bureau bring this section to their notice.

I am a student at the Southern Branch, where I hear a lot of complaint about this. As I boarded a car this morning on Rampart I owed my safety to the agility of some distant ancestor.

"All together now," everybody carry a notebook and pencil, let's make number-taking the great outdoor sport of the summer. In other words, let's fix it so we won't need a swimming instructor along to say "one, two, three, dive!" whenever we want to catch a car. If you need a coach for this activity I am open for the position.

IRENE W. BROWN.

"How Does It Sound?"

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 4.—[To the Editor of The Times:] J. A. Graves, a banker, says in The Times of August 1:

"If we are to have an income tax it should be levied at the same rate upon all incomes, without any exemption. . . . Under a 1-percent tax he whose earnings are $1000 a year would pay a $10 tax; $2000 a year, a $20 tax; $100,000 a year a $1000 tax."

Very well. Let's carry this illuminating thought a little farther.

If we are to pay interest on money borrowed at the bank, it should be at the same rate, regardless of the amount.

Thus, if the man who borrows $1000 pays 7 per cent, the man who borrows $100,000 should pay the same rate.

So, if the man who borrows $100,000 pays only 5 per cent, he who borrows $1000 should pay no more.

CHARLES V. BARTON.

The Third Party

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 3.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Sir, will you kindly allow me space in your valuable columns to show my regrets for voting for a "Third party" in 1912. The writer, along with 4,000,000 others, voted for the so-called "Progressive party," with the result that a Democratic minority was ruling the nation 1912-1916.

The first act of this Democratic administration was to pass a near free-trade bill, throwing 5,000,000 of our people out of employment in its first year's operation.

Baldwin's Locomotive Works in Philadelphia, Pa., employed 17,834 in December, 1913, and in December, 1914, employed 4420 only. The sugar industry of Louisiana in 1914 was practically destroyed, throwing 100,000 people out of employment. And every State in the American Union was affected more or less through the so-called Democratic tariff reform.

Mr. Editor, I am not writing these lines for personal gain or perquisites of any kind, but for the benefit of the laboring man, to do his own thinking and not be led by the nose by any labor leader or demagogue.

The Unharnessed Ocean

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 2.—[To the Editor of The Times:] The suggestion of a Times correspondent that the ocean might be drawn upon for industrial and domestic use is not a wholly Quixotic one.

In this era of globe-girdling airplanes and radio broadcasting "impossible" has been expunged from the inventor's lexicon. A visitor from Mars would doubtless marvel at Los Angeles's dependence upon water brought through 250 miles of aqueducts from the snowy Sierras while the mightiest of the seven seas laves its threshold.

Last evening the [illegible] at Long Beach broke against the retaining wall opposite the [illegible] stand with a fury and force that smothered the fortissimo [illegible] of the orchestra. Think of the potential power in even a mile of the onrushing surf—and all going to waste!

This is in common with thousands [illegible] given this up. I am now [illegible] to procure all my goods in the Cities or do without. Often I have been tempted to visit Los Angeles to dine and attend the theater, but when I reflect on the misery of driving through the [illegible] of that city I prefer to remain home. The "traffic fares" on one of the reasons why the Los Angeles bank clearances show considerable decrease compared San Francisco or even the [illegible] cities. Certain it is that [illegible] is losing millions in money in addition to gaining nothing in popularity by its farcical traffic regulations.

If the chief of the traffic department could observe the speed in New York, Philadelphia or [illegible] he would learn much. [illegible] stood for an hour and watched the solitary traffic officer at the corner of Piccadilly and the Strand [illegible] don he would be astonished at the quiet efficiency. In these cities officials regulate traffic. In Los Angeles they obstruct it. By the multitude of regulations they create confusion more confounded.

Advertising Preachers

BY THE CHURCH EDITOR

With a few exceptions the preachers of Los Angeles—and of all other cities, so far as the Church Editor knows—are modest, unassuming and usually Christian gentlemen of whom society, as a whole, is often unappreciative. These servants of humanity, like the doctors, are too often the subjects of scorn or jest and their worth to a community is seldom realized excepting by individuals in cases of emergency.

However, the writer cannot think so highly of the apparent ideals of the average preacher's secretary nor of the chairman of the average church's publicity bureau. Most of them may be all right in their way, but many of them are evidently not in their right places. Instead of "doing" publicity for their respective churches they should be press agents for popular moving-picture vampires. Some of them could make a Ringling Brothers' advance agent look like a Chinese fish peddler.

I refuse to believe that the average minister of the gospel is half as sensational and self-seeking as the church publicity man (or woman) would have the world believe. I do not know the exact methods used by clergymen in announcing their programs to the publicity departments of their churches, but I cannot believe that they approve of the methods of the publicity men who furnish the newspapers with information concerning the churches and their pastors.

Recently the Church Editor received a score of letters from the press agents of various churches, in which the bids for the people's attendance at the respective temples of worship rivaled the competitive advertisements of our best and worst moving-picture houses. Not that there is anything wrong about trying to persuade sinners to come to a church and "get saved" nor in asking luke-warm Christians to attend services in order to become more devout; but the character of the appeal often is doubtless for a worthy purpose sometimes little short of [illegible] ing.

"Rev. Blank, who will preach —— Church tomorrow, is the pastor of the —— Church [illegible] millionaire community of Chumpville," wrote one press agent, "the millionaire community" in capital letters.

"Dr. So-and-so, who will preach tomorrow, is one of America's most brilliant [illegible]," wrote another. "His [illegible] a revival at ——, at which thousands of persons were turned away nightly, unable to secure seats. The church seats only 3000, so get there early if you want to hear this remarkable divine."

"Dr. —— was one of the [illegible] overseas workers during the World War," begins another announcement. "After he returned to [illegible] ed the great church at [illegible] to be the most costly church that denomination in the United States. He will preach next Sunday on 'The Ku Klux Klan and Democracy.'"

Now, for goodness sake, Church Publicity Man, [illegible] money, war records, [illegible] intellects, fashions, [illegible] ty, politics, civil [illegible] 1000 other such matters which use in your appeals to people to "go to church Sunday" but [illegible] with honest-to-goodness [illegible] and with spirituality. [illegible] the churches, including [illegible] press agents, know their [illegible] and far be it from The [illegible] Church Editor to criticise.

Well, is the Church Editor right?

VENICE, Aug. 3.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Nothing pleased me more in perusing my Sunday Times than the able article on the Los Angeles "Traffic Farce" from the exasperated pen of Mr. Rupert Hughes. There are additional phases of this muddle which he did not refer to or, in his compassion for the benighted minds which created the traffic regulations, preferred to overlook.

With few exceptions, the Los Angeles traffic officers have not the remotest idea about the work of regulating traffic. Their hand signals to stop and proceed are vague and indefinite. Indeed, it is difficult to know whether they are conducting an imaginary jazz orchestra or merely waving their hands to keep the flies off. Some swing their arms like a drum major and others twiddle their thumbs or fore fingers. One would need to be a mind-reader to interpret their mysterious signals.

Questions and Answers

Frederic J. Haskin wishes to inform the public that the pamphlet on the care and treatment of hardwood floors, distributed through the Los Angeles Times, was compiled by the Department of Agriculture and not by the Department of Commerce, as stated in a recent Answer to Questions. Those requiring a copy of this pamphlet should inclose a 2-cent stamp for postage. Address Frederic J. Haskin, Los Angeles Times Information Bureau, Washington, D. C.

to attend services in order to become more devout; but the character of the appeal often is doubtless for a worthy purpose, sometimes little short of disgusting.

"Rev. Blank, who will preach at —— Church tomorrow morning, is pastor of the —— Church in the millionaire community of Chicago," wrote one press agent, putting the Ilonafre community" in capital letters.

"Dr. So-and-so, who will be the preacher tomorrow, is one of America's most brilliant pulpiteers," wrote another. "He has just closed a revival at ——, at which thousands of persons were turned away nightly, unable to secure seats. One church seats only 3000, so come early if you want to hear this remarkable divine."

"Dr. —— was one of the great overseas workers during the World War," begins another announcement. "After he returned he started the great church at ——, said to be the most costly church of that denomination in the United States. He will preach tomorrow on 'The Ku Klux Klan and Democracy.'"

Now, for goodness sake, this Church Publicity Man, tell us what money, war records, architecture, intellects, fashions, social position, ty, politics, civil governments and 1000 other such matters which are use in your appeals to people to "go to church Sunday" have to do with honest-to-goodness goodness and with spirituality. Of course, the churches, including those press agents, know their business and far be it from The Times Church Editor to criticise. But, right? J. WARNACK.

The bloom of the century poppy seems to be the sweetest thing on earth, judging from its attraction for humming birds and bees. But it takes longer to develop than any other flower.

Brass Quartet, Violinist and Soprano Are Hailed

Pilgrimage Play Program is Matinee Triumph

BY CLAIRE FORBES CRANE

There is probably no greater art in the interpretative world than that of program making. No matter what artist is placed on an evening's entertainment the "power behind the throne" is the person who, knowing the psychology of human nature, has so arranged the pieces to be used as to cause the right reaction from the audience.

This was demonstrated to the full last evening. The occasion was the fourth of the Platt Music Company series of de luxe recitals from KHJ studio. The program as usual was under the direction of Edwin Lester who surpassed his former efforts.

The artists included the Philharmonic Brass Quartet, Benjamin Klatskin, first trumpet; Frederick Pierno, second trumpet; Alfred Brain, French horn and Leon Sinsheimer, trombone. Duci de Kerekjarto, violinist. Ingrid Arneson, dramatic lyric soprano, with Mrs. Guy Bush and Edwin Lester, accompanists.

The combination of four brass instruments is very rare but as every member of the quartet is a superlative soloist on his instrument, the ensemble produced some of the loveliest tones we have ever heard from the brass section of the orchestra. The quartet gave transcriptions of the sextet from Lucia and "The Rosary" and played a Mendelssohn Rondo and "Hunting Song" from Die Freischutz.

SECOND CONCERT

Last night was Duci de Kerekjarto's second concert under the auspices of the Platt Music Co. On his first appearance his playing created a veritable furore and last evening he strengthened this initial impression. He gave Sammartini's "Love Song" as only a Hungarian could play. His own composition entitled "Child's Dream" was most attractive. Sarasate's "Nightingale" and Wieniawski's "Souvenir de Moscow" enabled Kerekjarto to exhibit the ease of the finished artist. But his lovely playing of "Carry Me Back to Old Virginny," unaccompanied, probably drew most favor.

Ingrid Arneson is a song bird from Norway, and her blonde prettiness and lovely voice have proved a great addition to the community since her arrival two seasons ago. Last night she gave a group of Nordic songs. "Solvejg's Song" by Grieg and two Swedish folk songs. One of the high lights of the evening was Miss Arneson's singing of Gounod's "Ave Maria," accompanied by Mr. Klatskin on the cornet. Miss Arneson's voice is a true dramatic soprano of exceptional power and perfect placement, with low tones remarkable for their richness.

As a fitting finale, all the artists joined in an exquisite rendition of "Annie Laurie" which glorified the simple tune to the proportions of an operatic aria.

BAUMGARDT HAILED

Radioland welcomed Dr. Mars Baumgardt home again with open arms as he presented last evening his first lecture since returning from his vacation. He spoke on the planet Mars.

Charlie Crawford proved to be genuinely humorous in a group of readings entitled "My Old Home Town Stories."

The Filipino orchestra playing through the courtesy of the Blue Bird Cafeteria offered a chance to dance to smooth, evenly rhythmed jazz.

It has been many a day since such a beautiful matinee program has been heard over KHJ. The entire time was given over to the Pilgrimage Play, the Life of Christ, now in its fifth season in the open-air theater in the Hollywood Hills. The program was arranged by Ruth Helen Davis, playwright and actress, and included the following artists: Gertrude Ross, composer-pianist, who has written the music used in the Pilgrimage Play; the Pilgrimage Play Quartet, composed of Jessie M. Patterson, soprano; Margaret Fisher Monson, contralto; Max Alexander, tenor, and Fred Macpherson, baritone; and members from the Pilgrimage Play Orchestra; Julius Bierlich, violinist; Bern Bierlich, second violin; Dwight Defty, 'cellist; Aren Hoffman, oboe and English horn; Carl Kuehse, clarinet, and William Howe, tympani and drums. To all who have seen the beauty of the Pilgrimage Play, the program brought the same sense of reverence and joy in the loveliness which the knowledge of truth gives.

FACTS OF PLAY

Ruth Helen Davis gave some interesting facts regarding the play. She read two poems of Ella Wheeler Wilcox, "Thinking of Christ" and "The Faith We Need." Miss Davis, who is an actress of rare ability and distinction, sent her beautiful message straight into the waiting hearts of many lonesome members of the family who hunger for the faith of which she seemed so sure. All of the music of the afternoon was relative to the Pilgrimage Play. The members of the orchestra gave examples of the music which Gertrude Ross has composed as an atmospheric setting. Miss Ross always has an unfailing instinct for the setting of a dramatic situation. She has a spiritualistic quality which is the possession of few composers, and in the beautiful lines of the Pilgrimage Play Miss Ross seems to have found an inspiration for some of her finest work.

The quartet which sings every evening at the Hollywood performances was a great joy to Radioland. Each of the artists has a rarely beautiful voice and there was not one jarring note to mar the smoothness and limpidity of their interpretations.

The noon program was arranged through the courtesy of C. O. "Jack" Bartlett and Sarah Bartlett of Long Beach, assisted by the Five Virginians and Bert Pederson, violinist. It was the introduction of all these artists to Radioland from KHJ and from the instantaneous success which they achieved they will surely be in demand wherever clever music is appreciated.

"Had Columbus Landed in the West" was a clever song for all easterners who have made California their home. The Five Virginians's personnel is: Terese Newton, piano and accordion; Rex Kirkhart, trombone, saxophone and clarinet; Paul Hacking, saxophone and clarinet; Walter Beeman, banjo, and Lord Chase, drums. They formed a lively combination and their music was very successful from a radio standpoint.

PLAYS OWN WORK

The Children's Hour brought Ruby Wilson, a pianist and composer deprived of her sight, but gifted threefold in playing and composing. She played a piano solo entitled "Musical Clock," two pianologues, "Goblin Joe" and "On the Shelf," and sang a song entitled "Partners in Love." All of these were Miss Wilson's compositions and Radioland found her and her work a delight.

Charles Metz, 11-year-old violinist, pupil of Lorna Usher, played several solos in a manner which showed careful and painstaking schooling. The hour also brought Baby Muriel MacCormac, screen juvenile.

This was the weekly appearance of Dick Winslow, the screen juvenile, known to Radioland as the youngest reporter in captivity. He talked about Margaret Sidney, author of "Five Little Peppers" and Palmer Cox, author of "The Brownies."

MULHOLLAND ALLAYS FEAR

Tells Club All Owens Valley Land Needed Acquired; Rancher Charges Speaker With Veiled Insult.

Almost all the water-bearing lands needed by the city in Owens Valley to fill the Los Angeles Aqueduct to capacity have been acquired within the past eighteen months, William Mulholland, chief engineer of the Aqueduct, told members and luncheon guests of the City Club yesterday.

Consequently, he continued, there is no ground for fear on the part of any one that the Public Service Board contemplates a policy of ruthlessness which would result in desiccating ranch lands farther north, above the city's holdings, in the neighborhood of Bishop. Maneuvers intended to induce the city to buy out the whole valley he characterized as the efforts of "friends who want to sell us imaginary water that we've already got—bought and paid for."

At the close of Mulholland's talk, Volney H. Craig, a San Fernando Valley rancher and attorney, arose from his seat and charged the speaker with having insulted him without "daring" to name him. Craig referred to Mulholland's allusions to "taxpayers who file suit with little cause."

PAID HIGH FOR LAND

In all the city holds, Mulholland said, about $4,000,000 worth of land, for which it has paid on an average four times the assessed valuation, and among all who have sold there is not one, he asserted, who would take his land back at a quarter what he received for it from the Public Service Board.

When the original plans and estimates for the Aqueduct were made it was the intention, he said, to take in about 80 per cent of the water which the valley was capable of yielding. The remainder would be applied to such land as was susceptible to profitable cultivation. A large proportion thus diverted for irrigation, the city would recover, he and his engineering associates believed, at lower levels.

"And now it comes around to this date," he resumed, "and after minute and painstaking examination we find we made an exceedingly close guess when we built the Aqueduct to carry 400 second feet of water.

ASKS CONFIRMATION

"I have been strongly of that mind fron. the very beginning but I am going to ask confirmation from two gentlemen here today, Mr. Hill and Mr. Sonderegger, recently retained by the Chamber of Commerce to check our estimates of past years. Without attempting to anticipate their report, I would ask Mr. Hill here what he thinks of our original figures."

Louis C. Hill, one of the consulting engineers now making a survey of the Owens Valley water situation, rose. "A very good guess," he said briefly.

Arthur L. Sonderegger, also a member of the consulting board, gave almost an identical reply. "A very close estimate," he said. Applause broke out as the two engineers took their seats. The club made it plain that it is strongly behind Mulholland, even when he asserted bluntly that Mayor Cryer had been hoodwinked on his recent hurried trip to the valley. There was laughter and applause again when, reading from a letter in which the writer said the people of the valley asked only to be let alone, he added: "Now I want to dwell on that for that is precisely our intention."

COMMITTEES FOOLED

Much of what Mulholland presented to his audience has been published in newspapers of recent date. He told of the series of special articles published in a San Francisco newspaper last spring, not long before dynamiting the Aqueduct, and how the same theme was taken up with variations by an afternoon newspaper ...ere; how committees from various chambers of commerce were piloted through the valley and shown ditches running brim full with water which, Mulholland said, had been bought and paid for by the city but appropriated higher up the valley and exhibited to visitors as a lure.

"And the only committee of the lot," he said, "that showed even a glimmering of sense was the committee of the Municipal League; they asked where the water came from. Why even the Mayor was taken up there, and he was fooled, too."

Lands bought by the city, Mulholland asserted, were for the most part of doubtful agricultural value. Owners who sold out had been more than glad to get the prices paid. In fact, if the city had made an error, he said, it was in dealing so generously that the cupidity of others had been aroused. He promised that all who wished to remain on their homesteads, either as owners in fee simple or as tenants of the city, could be assured of protection in their rights and all the water they needed.

Wash Away Eczema!

From the foothills of the Sierra Nevada Mountains comes a natural mineral solution that has produced amazing results in some of the most stubborn cases of eczema. Sufferers who have been able to get any permanent relief from other forms of treatment report that this remarkable solution, known as Ki-La-Co, quickly removed every trace of eczema from their bodies. Itching and scaling almost instantly ceased, scaly patches disappeared and the diseased skin soon took on the natural glow of health under the healing influence of this marvelous liquid.

If you are bothered with eczema or any skin eruption, don't endure the misery another day. Just apply Ki-La-Co with a clean sponge and watch results. There's nothing like it in all the world. It is a blessing from Nature's own laboratory. Price $1 at Owl Drug Stores and other leading druggists. The Ki-La-Co Company, Sacramento, Cal.—Advertisement.

How Gas on the Stomach Affects Heart

Any physician will tell you that abnormal gas in the stomach is frequently the cause of sharp pains about the heart, sinking spells, difficult breathing or other symptoms which may lead the sufferer to believe he has organic heart trouble. In most cases these distress often results from the heart being forced out of place by gas pressure and hindering the function of that organ.

You can soon get rid of all discomfort due to gas by taking Kopa Gas Tablets before and after meals. These pleasant tasting tablets contain no injurious drugs of any kind. They offer prompt and apparently perfect relief obtainable. Kopa, the original Gas Tablet, formula of leading doctors have prescribed them for years. Price $1.

The Woman and Her Job

By Valerie Hoffman

LET'S NOT TALK SHOP

Bits of their conversation had floated back to me; the voices of youth, high and clear, and they were quite absorbed in their own affairs. I gathered that one had succeeded the other in the office of a lawyer, for they gossiped a lot about a widow whose estate he handled.

"He certainly isn't sitting very pretty these days. He's been using a lot of her money to build his house and pretending to her that he hasn't been able to collect it. Now, her brother is here, who has an interest in the estate, and he's asking for an accounting."

"That's an old game of his. He was doing that with another client when I was in the office and—" The passing of a street car drowned the voice of the former secretary. When it had gone they lowered their voices, but their exchange of confidences continued.

I wondered if those girls realized what they were charging that lawyer with.

Those two girls were at least 20 years old; they spoke with assurance, and I am convinced that they were capable and efficient. They were lightly branding the man as a thief, for if he were guilty of misusing his clients' money he should be disbarred if not charged with embezzlement.

So often I hear girls talking "shop" in the restaurants, or street cars. Many times it is the harmless chatter of "believe me, I told her," or "and then he said." Sometimes it is a spending of wrath on some luckless chief clerk, or minor executive.

Men talk shop, too; much of it of vain-glorious nature. They tell of the sales they've made and how they made them. But if they discuss the devious ways of their employers they at least lower their voices, or choose other than public places.

There is no objection to the harmless gossiping of the girls except that it is dangerous. It is so easy for a girl to talk about something that seems of no consequence to her, yet which gives valuable information to a competitor. You never can tell who is sitting at your table. That person may know you, and the man you work for, yet be unknown to you.

Business magazines of all kinds are constantly warning the girls and boys who are making a start in the world to leave the business of the office where it belongs—within its walls. It's a good habit to form. In the Middle Ages they used to say: "Speak well of the king—he has long ears." That holds good today.

The business girl should turn her thoughts to something else when she leaves the office. Thinking along in the same groove tends to make us one-sided. We become like the flounders; they stay down in the mud so long both eyes work round to the top side.

Certainly we do not talk about anything unless we think about it. Thinking about the petty round of office vexations, and the problems and triumphs of the day is a poor way to spend one's leisure. If you have a real problem to solve, dismiss it from your mind until you are ready to sit down alone and think it through.

ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS

Dear Edith: There is more ability required to turn out a flaky cake, perfectly iced, a delicately browned leg of lamb, or preside at the head of a correctly laid table, than to sit down in an office and follow the routine that falls to the lot of the average secretary. Keeping house isn't stupid, nor does it follow that the housekeeper is dull, as you say. Your husband is quite right in objecting to your going to work when he is able to provide for you.

Dear Mrs. G.: Filing or operating a billing machine is the shortest route to a salary since you do not wish to do store work. You can take a course in any business college.

BURIAL FIGHT PRESSED

Mother Seeks Order for Opening Supposed Grave of Son

Mrs. Pauline Korsch, who recently lost her court fight to reopen the grave in which the body of her infant son is supposed to be buried, yesterday filed a petition for a writ of mandamus asking that the Jewish Reburial Association be compelled to open the grave so that she may remove the body of her son to Evergreen Cemetery. The body is interred in Mt. Zion Cemetery, according to her petition.

Several weeks ago Mrs. Korsch petitioned the court for an order to open the grave on the ground she believed the body of another person had been buried under the name of her son. This petition was denied by the court for lack of an affirmative showing.

SOCIETY

BY JUANA NEAL LEVY

Leaving here the latter part of June, Mr. and Mrs. Hoyt H. Mitchell (Adelaide Pellisster) of Serrano avenue, covered more than 6100 miles, touring through Idaho, Montana, Washington, Oregon and California, as well as the Canadian Pacific Northwest, including Canada and British Columbia. During all this extensive motoring they experienced neither tire nor engine trouble, and their trip of five and a half weeks was one of continuous enjoyment. They went first as far as Portland, then on to the Yellowstone National Park, and Glacier Park on to Banff and Lake Louise, back to Spokane and Seattle before going over to Vancouver and Victoria. Taking the peninsula trip, they visited Lake Crescent and the Olympic Mountains, including Tacoma and Mt. Rainier, thus touring through four national parks. They came home by way of San Francisco and Santa Barbara, and are so delighted with the trip that they are already making plans to take it again some time in the near future. While making the trip they met at every point numbers of Californians who were enjoying their vacations touring through the same districts. Monday afternoon Mrs. Mitchell and her sister, Mrs. Marie Louise de Roulet, are entertaining with a luncheon in honor of Mrs. George Thalman of New York City, who, with Mr. Thalman, banker of Gotham, is visiting Southern California and are guests at the Ambassador. Covers will be arranged for twelve guests.

In honor of Mrs. William Kemmler of New York City, who is the guest of her parents, Col. and Mrs. Charles Rivers Drake, at the Virginia, Long Beach, Mrs. Irving M. Walker (Evangeline Duque) of Kenmore avenue, entertained yesterday afternoon with a luncheon at the California Club. The table held as centerpiece a large basket filled with exquisite summer flowers and ferns. Irish Elegance roses and dahlias predominating, with sprays of maidenhair fern and gypsophila. Mah jongg was the feature of the afternoon's entertainment. Mrs. Kemmler (who will be remembered as Miss Marguerite Drake) with her small daughter Astrea is passing the summer in Southern California and is the motif for numerous charmingly arranged affairs here, her many old-time friends entertaining in her honor.

Expecting Visitors

Dr. and Mrs. Hugh Berkley of 1002 South Union avenue are expecting as house guests this week Mrs. Berkley's sister, Mrs. William Miller and Miss Effie Daniel of Atlanta, Ga. Dr. and Mrs. Berkley have just returned from a month's motor trip through Northern California and Oregon.

Visiting Here

Miss Jane Hanrahan of San Francisco and Palo Alto arrived Sunday to make a short stay in Los Angeles and is the house guest of Miss Helen Thompson at her home in Glendale.

At Catalina

Mr. and Mrs. William Henry Cline of 678 Wilshire Place have been enjoying a delightful weekend sojourn at the St. Catherine's, Catalina. They are planning to leave on the 11th inst., for a week's motor trip to Hotel del Coronado.

Twilight Wedding

The picturesque Church of Our Savior in San Gabriel was the scene of one of the prettiest weddings of the season last evening when at twilight Miss Marcia Bailey plighted her troth to Mechial Voyne of San Francisco, Rev. Dr. Albert Atwill officiating. The church was transformed into a bower of loveliness, gladioli, dahlias and roses being effectively combined with ferns and foliage. Myriads of lighten tapers shed a soft rosy glow over the scene. The bride was given in marriage by her mother, Mrs. Mary R. Bailey, and wore an exquisite gown of white chiffon velvet beaded in pearls. The veil of lace and tulle was arranged after the motif of a Spanish mantilla, and was caught by sprays of orange blossoms and she carried an arm shower of gardenias, orchids and lilies of the valley. Miss Margaret Martin, daughter of the James R. Martins of Arden Boulevard, was her only attendant. Her gown was of rose-colored chiffon, with trimmings of rose clipped ostrich. A hat of rose color in poke bonnet effect with border of the ostrich around the brim completed the stunning costume, and she carried an arm sheaf of roses to match the costume. George Barr of San Francisco served Mr. Voyne as best man. Following the ceremony a wedding supper was served at the Valley Hunt Country Club, Mrs. Frank Badgley, aunt of the charming bride, being hostess, members of the bridal party and out-of-town guests only being invited. Mr. and Mrs. Voyne left for the north and will take their wedding trip through the Canadian Northwest, including Lake Louise and Banff. The bride, who is the daughter of the late Fergus Bailey of Pasadena, recently completed her third year at Mills College. Among the out-of-town guests were Mrs. Joseph Ware and daughter, Miss Virginia Ware, the former a sister of the Arthur Hazards of Montecito, who also came down for the ceremony.

Vale-Fishburn

The marriage of Miss Frances Vale, daughter of Mrs. Frank M. Vale of Eleventh avenue, to John E. Fishburn was solemnized last evening, the cermony taking place at the family home, Rev. George A. Davidson of St. John's officiating. Summer flowers in profusion were combined with ferns and foliage, dahlias, vinnias and roses predominating. The bride was given in marriage by her uncle, Charles Collins Teague, and wore a gown of white georgette and lace, the veil of lace and tulle being caught coronet shape into a crown of orange blossoms, and she carried lilies of the valley, orchids and roses. Mrs. Reginald Olds (Marion Vale,) one of the season's brides, assisted her sister as matron of honor, wearing a Boue Souers gown over peach satin slip, and carried an arm shower of roses. Miss Dora Fishburn, sister of the bridegroom, was maid of honor, while Miss Dorothy Miller and Miss Evelyn Ross were the bridesmaids. Miss Fishburn wore green crepe de chine embroidered in silver, Miss Miller was in yellow and Miss Ross wore orchid tones. Their frocks were trimmed with clipped ostrich to correspond, and they carried arm showers of roses in orange and apricot tones, with sprays of maidenhair ferns and tulle. Theodore Off was best man and the ushers were Shannon Crandall, Gilbert Wheat and Reginald Olds. The bride was graduated from University of Southern California and is a Pi Beta Phi Sorority member, while Mr. Fishburn, son of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Fishburn, holds his alma mater in Stanford and is a member of the Delta Kappa Epsilon Fraternity. After a wedding trip, which will include Honolulu in its itinerary, Mr. and Mrs. Fishburn will make their home in Los Angeles.

At Lake Arrowhead

Among the many Angelenos who are enjoying a vacation outing at Arlington Lodge, Lake Arrowhead, are Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Hennessey, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Sinks, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Cowan, Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Hibbs, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Black, Mrs. J. M. Black, Mrs. R. J. Gaffney, Miss Marian Gaffney, J. W. Gaffney, Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Kerr, Mr. and Mrs. Earl O. Stice, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Peterson, Dr. and Mrs. Lyle C. MacNelle, Dr. and Mrs. C. H. Montgomery, Dr. and Mrs. Robert T. Knoll and daughter, Dr. and Mrs. H. S. Shepherd, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar F. Engstrum, Mr. and Mrs. Fred E. Engstrum, Gerald Engstrum, Mrs. Hugh W. Bryson, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Browder, Miss Rosie Browder and Miss Fanny Browder.

Marriage Announced

Announcement is made of the marriage of Mrs. Phoebe Parlette, widow of the late Orion Leroy Zittle of Denver, Colo., to George William Jepsen of this city. The ceremony took place in the Immanuel Presbyterian Church Tuesday morning and was followed by an elaborate breakfast at the Los Angeles Country Club. Mr. and Mrs. Jepsen will leave shortly on an extended motor trip through the Yellowstone National Park and the Pacific Northwest.

To Arrive Soon

Dr. and Mrs. Rhodes S. Baker of Dallas, Tex., accompanied by their two daughters, Miss Dorothy Baker and Miss Winnifred Baker, and son Rhodes, Jr., are expected in a week to make an extended visit with the doctor's sister, Mrs. Grantland Seaton Long, at her home on Vermont avenue. Mrs. Long, however, is planning a trip to Mexico, leaving here the latter part of the month. Miss Dorothy Baker, who was Mrs. Long's house guest for several months two years ago, has a host of friends who are planning many delightful affairs in her honor. The two young visitors have just returned from summer school at Madison, Wis.

THE LAST WORD. BY ALMA WHITAKER

BEING ORGANIZED

Organization is a wonderful thing and unity is strength and all that. "Getting together" and "cooperation" are frightfully important. They must be, everybody says so.

Men used to like it better than women did—they always were dabs at it. In fact, I can remember when it was an accepted moan that women couldn't organize, couldn't co-operate, poor things, and so could never get anywhere.

Something seems to have happened to us since then. Never a day passes but what somebody wants to organize me into something. And, being a newspaper person and therefore regarded as an "influence," when I can't be voluntarily organized, they just go and make me a complimentary member any way.

So, although I haven't joined a thing, never pay dues to any sort of a club or association, behold me an honorary member of thirty-seven clubs or organizations or committees. I always wriggle and squirm, but I have jolly well got to be organized, so there.

Somebody considers that the community can be elevated by singing. Well, that's all right. I make all sorts of jolly noises when I am working round the house. But, oh, dear no, that won't do. I must join something and sing selected tunes with a group and sing what every one else sings, under the guidance of a strenuous gentleman, who conducts the singing, and stops us in the middle to make wise cracks. Solo singing in privacy, like making the beds to "Oh, Dry Those Tears" or "Every Morn I Bring Thee Violets" or sweeping to "What Are The Wild Waves Saying?" or recklessly independent things, like that, isn't enough. One must be organized and sing when and what everybody else sings to be a good co-operating citizen.

Everybody organizes for everything in our town. And when there isn't anything else to organize for we just organize to "get together." And we are very suspicious about any cat that wants to walk by its wild lone. If we are really nice chummy cats with a proper passion for organization, we wear buttons, ribbons, pins, and all sorts of labels telling the world what a lot of things we have been organized into.

Maybe if they would always let me be president of the thing I wouldn't be so reluctant about it. But there is always some masterful organizer who has that all fixed. My job is just to be organized and obey rules and attend meetings and wear buttons and cooperate in the programme and chip in my donations and make a speech if I am asked to upon a subject and express views that all the rest of the organized darlings can amiably subscribe to. If my speeches aren't appropriately "organized," too, if I say something reckless that I wasn't exactly organized to say, I am a suspicious character, altogether too dashed independent.

Every possible branch of every trade or profession is organized in our city. Even mine, twice over, a league of newspaper women and a club. But a few cats who wanted to walk by their wild lone don't belong. We used to meet for lunch once a week and waive all our wild, unorganized independence. No programs, no lectures, no dues—and we could all talk at once if we wanted to and no one need listen. It was so jolly. Then a new newspaper girl breezed into town. She was simply shocked to discover that we weren't organized—with a fine nucleus like that to a brand new organization.

So I have just received a letter. She has constituted herself organizer and the next meeting is to discuss procedure of organization . . . and select officers and a name and fix dues and programs. Oh, I don't want to play anymore. I am so tired of that game. I will be a cat that walks by its wild lone, so there.

I won't be organized, I won't, I won't.

Eh, what's that? They will let me be the first president at that first meeting? Oh, very well, maybe I will just go to that first meeting.

NOVELTIES, IDEAS AND PRACTICAL SUGGESTIONS

By Olive Gray

To-Be-Dated!

A new scarf fad is that of fastening one end of this accessory underneath the flower worn upon the lapel of the tailored coat. The remainder of the scarf passes around the neck and emerges like any normal scarf, its flowing ends falling to the waistline or below. However you anchor the garment to which they are allied, scarves may be filmy and frivolous. The latest are more than likely to be shaded, rainbow fashion but adhering to two colors which harmonize, as from tan to beige, orange to maize. Striking contrasts, also, are chosen—red and black, black and blue, pink and white.

Pearly

The worth of pearls, genuine or it is declared to be on the inase. Pearls in jewelry, pearls in ches, pearls in strands or long,

GRAPE CONSERVE

Place five pounds of stemmed and washed grapes in a kettle, mash with a wooden potato masher, heat slowly and simmer half an hour; rub through a sieve to remove the seeds and skins into a clean saucepan; peel three oranges, place the peel in a saucepan, cover with water, bring to a boil and boil until tender, chop fine and add to the grape pulp with five pounds of sugar, one round of raisins and the strained juice of the oranges. Bring to a boil and simmer until thick, add one pound of broken walnut meats and seal in clean glass jars.

SHRIMP-ASPARAGUS SALAD

Rub a cold bowl with a crushed clove of garlic and mix in it two cups of cold cooked asparagus tips, two cups of cooked and peeled shrimps, one tablespoon of capers, one tablespoon of chopped green peppers, one tablespoon of chopped pimiento, one tablespoonful of chopped ripe olives, and two-thirds of a cup of French dressing. Let stand thirty minutes on the ice, drain and mound on six lettuce covered plates, cover with mayonnaise dressing and sprinkle with chopped hard boiled egg and parsley.

ORANGE BISCUITS

Cream three tablespoons of butter with six tablespoons of flour and beat into them three tablespoons of orange juice and four tablespoons of grated orange rind. Stir and cook over a slow fire until creamy and thick, remove from the fire and cool. Sift three cups of sifted flour with six level teaspoons of baking powder and one and one-half teaspoons of salt; rub into these six tablespoons of butter and when like coarse meal work to a smooth dough with one and a quarter cups of milk. Place on a floured board, pat out half an inch in thickness, spread with the orange mixture, roll up like jelly roll, cut in half-inch slices, flatten in a nice round shape, place cut side down in a buttered baking pan, brush with melted butter and bake in a moderate oven.

FRUIT SOUP

Place in a saucepan four cups of water, six whole cloves, a three-inch stick of cinhamon, the sliced peel of one orange, the sliced peel of one lemon, and six blanched almonds, let stand one hour, bring to a boil and boil fifteen minutes; strain into a clean saucepan, add two cups of water, one-third of a cup of quick-cooling tapioca and cook until clear. Add five tablespoons of sugar, half a teaspoon of salt and two cups of cherry, strawberry, blackberry, currant or grape juice. Pour into hot cups and serve.

CHEESE DRESSING

Beat three-quarters of a cup of cottage cheese with three-quarters of a cup of lemon, French dressing, two tablespoons of chopped pimiento, two tablespoons of chopped green pepper, two tablespoons of finely chopped celery, one teaspoon of salt, and one teaspoon of tarragon vinegar. Set on the ice for one hour and pour over hearts of lettuce.

Diet and Health

By Lulu Hunt Peters, M.D.

ANSWERRS TO CORRESPONDENTS

S. P.: We had an article recently called "Down by Jumps." In it I spoke of the stopping places, where the diet which formerly one reduced on, goes on a strike and reduces no longer. It is best in these cases to do as you did when you began your reducing diet —to go on a liquid diet, not totaling over 500 to 600 C a day, for one day in the week. In that way you lose one-half to one pound on that day.

Mrs. C.: A glass of unskimmed sour milk could contain the same number of calories as whole milk. That would be 160 C to eight ounces of milk. You need not count soda or baking powder. They have no caloric value because their chemical reaction generates mostly gas and water. Bran has food value. Don't you know we fatten pigs on bran? One-half cupful of ordinary fine bran is about 100 C., and one-half cupful of the ordinary cereal bran would be probably less than 50 C.

For flabby, fat arms, hold your hands at your sides loosely and then twist them in and out as far as you can. Do this twenty-five times, four times a day. I had a report from one of our followers who said that her arm measurements went down nearly two inches in six weeks from this four-times-a-day-twenty-five-movement practice. For those who need it I think it would have the same effect on fat ankles and legs. Sit as far back in the chair as possible and turn the feet in and out as much as possible.

You have to work out your maintenance diet by watching your weight. Thanks very much, Mrs. C., for the beautiful pressed flowers.

Mrs. P.: Shingles (herpes zoster) is an acute eruption of the skin, along certain nerves, usually on one side only. It is characterized by little vesicles seated on the top of red bases. These little vesicles (blebs or blisters) are first filled with a clear serum which may afterward become cloudy. There may be only a few vesicles or a larger number of them, and their size varies. The eruption is usually at its height in a week. The vesicles dry up, forming a crust and these fall off leaving red marks. The disease lasts from ten days to three or four weeks. In most cases the patient experiences neuralgic pains on the nerve where the eruption appears. There may be some fever before the outbreak.

Most cases of herpes zoster occur upon the trunk, but other parts of the body may be affected. The disease occurs more often in children than in adults, and it seems to occur more frequently in the cold, damp weather of the spring and autumn. Some regard the condition as infectious because it seems to have an epidemic character at times. Others think that it arises from some irritation of the nerves in the skin, probably from an autointexication. Herpes zoster on the lips and around the mouth we know as cold sores.

Jackson considers Ichthyol, 30 to 50 per cent in water one of the best methods of treatment. The spots should be covered with the ichthyol and then with a bandage. Dusting powers such as oxide of zinc, bismuth, or painting with flexible collodion are also advised.

Most cases of herpes zoster get well of themselves. In old and debilitated people they are hard to get rid of. There is an old superstition that if a person has shingles both sides at once and they meet in the front, the patient will die. Jackson says that there is no foundation to this theory, and that death never has occurred from such an occurrence. The patient's diet, rest, exercises and other hygienic measures are important also.

My dear Followers: When sending for material which we offer you, please remember to inclose a stamped envelope bearing your full name and address. The pamphlet on reducing and gaining is the only one for which you must inclose 4 cents in stamps extra. Address your letters to me in care of this paper. Make them as brief as possible, not over 500 words, and type or write them legibly with ink. Please sign your name as evidence of good faith—we will not use it in any way. Remember it is impossible for me to diagnose for you or to answer you personally. I appreciate very much the beautiful letters you send me and regret it is impossible to give you individual advice. The questions you ask will be answered in the column as soon as possible. If they are of general interest. Don't forget the s.a.s.e. if you expect me to send you the information I have offered.

APPLICATION FOR BUS LINE PERMIT IS FILED

SERVICE FOR VENICE TO WASHINGTON CAR IS PROPOSED

An application of the Community Bus Line of Culver City was filed with the State Railroad Commission yesterday for a certificate to operate auto-stage service between the end of the Washington-street car line and Venice. The application is signed by A. M. King, A. G. Walsworth and DeWitt Brady.

According to the application the proposed route is now served only by the Pacific Electric, which does not give sufficient service for the territory. The bus line proposes to operate on a twenty-minute schedule and to charge a round-trip fare of 40 cents.

A complaint was recently filed with the commission by the Pacific Electric against King, Brady and others, who were charged with operating, under the name of the Twin City Realty Company, a bus service over the route free of charge. It was the contention of the railway company that the realty company should be required to obtain a certificate from the commission to operate the bus or be compelled to discontinue the voluntary service.

ENFORCING OF VACANT LOT CLEAN-UP URGED

Enforcement of the city ordinance which requires property owners to clean vacant lots was urged by the Public Safety Committee of the City Council yesterday. The committee recommended that a revolving fund be created to bear the expense of cleaning up the property of those who refuse to do so. After the work is done, it was stated, the cost will be assessed against the individual property owners. The matter was brought to the committee's notice by police and fire-prevention authorities.

Great Grandma Told Not to Cuss in Girl's Hearing

If John Oropallo's grandmother, with whom he lives, uses one profane word in the presence of John's 3-year-old daughter, the father loses forever his right to have custody of the child every Sunday for four hours.

So ruled Judge Jamison yesterday in granting John's wife, Mrs. Rose Oropallo, custody of the child. The Oropallos aired their domestic difficulties in court yesterday when the wife sued for custody of the child and charged that her husband was cruel to her. A lively debate ensued in court when the wife charged that the great-grandmother of the child "cusses" more often and with greater emphasis than does the child's grandmother.

According to the story told the Judge, the Oropallos have been separated and John went to live with his grandmother, while his wife went to live with her mother, the grandmother of the child. The child, it was said, was first at one home and then the other.

Mrs. Oropallo told the court that John's grandmother was not a fit person to bring the child up. John denied it and said his grandmother is a "perfect lady."

"Remember," said the judge in passing judgment, "not swearing in the presence of the child."

JUDGE COLLIER TO SPEAK

Superior Judge Frank C. Collier, who is a candidate to succeed himself, will address Lankershim Kiwanians today and the Eastgate Masons' lodge tonight on "The Problem of Crime and Criminals." Tomorrow he will speak to veterans at Sawtelle Soldiers' Home and to colored Spanish War veterans at Odd Fellows Hall.

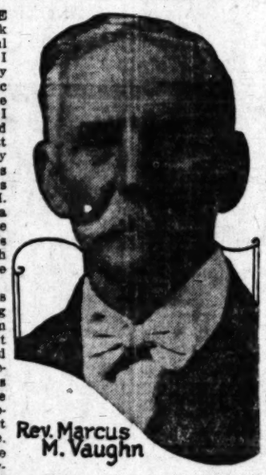
Noted Churchman Praises Karnak

Health Restored by Celebrated Medicine—Rev. Marcus M. Vaughn Gives Facts in Case to Public in Remarkable Statement



Rev. Marcus M. Vaughn

"A MEDICINE like Karnak is a wonderful blessing and I consider it a duty to let the public know about the amazing results I have obtained from it so that others, too, may benefit from its use," declares Rev. Marcus M. Vaughn in a statement to the public relating his experience with the remarkable new medicine.

Dr. Vaughn's statement, coming as it does from one of the most widely known and universally respected ministers in Texas, will be read with profound interest everywhere. Forced to retire from the Presbyterian ministry four years ago because of poor health, his thousands of friends will rejoice with him in his restoration.

"I had suffered for fifteen years with a chronic form of stomach trouble," continued Dr. Vaughn's statement, "and my nerves were in such bad condition I could not even write a letter for four years. My digestive organs seemed to have quit functioning and sleep was almost impossible because of my suffering and nervousness. Of mornings I was completely exhausted and frequently had to remain in bed throughout the day from sheer weakness. The best treatments and medicines failed to help me and the future seemed to hold out nothing but pain and suffering.

"Karnak was accomplishing so much for others I, too, began taking it and the way it took hold of my troubles was nothing short of astonishing. Even on the third day I was able to eat with relish and get a good night's restful sleep. I have taken two bottles now and my digestion, appetite, nerves and strength seem completely restored. In fact, I feel like my old time self in every way. If anyone wants to know personally about my experience with Karnak I shall be glad to tell them. It is a wonderful medicine."

GOLDWYN LEAVING

BY KENNETH TAYLOR

A business trip to New York, to be extended into a European visit in search of novels and plays suitable for photoplay production, is contemplated by Samuel Goldwyn, who expects to leave Hollywood sometime this month.

Goldwyn will leave for New York late in August with the finished productions of "Tarnish," which George Fitzmaurice has just completed from the New York stage success, and "In Hollywood With Potash and Perlmutter," the adaptation of the Montague Glass comedy, which Alfred E. Green directed. These two pictures will be turned over to First National for fall release. These details completed, the producer will sail for Europe to carry on negotiations for new material. He expects to return in November.

Plans of the organization he heads will not be affected by Goldwyn's absence, however. Mr. Fitzmaurice is to start work very soon on a story, as yet untitled, to follow "Tarnish." And upon Mr. Goldwyn's return work will commence on "Stella Dallas."

Actress Recovers

Completely recovered from her recent breakdown, Helene Chadwick has the permission of her physician to return to work.

Following a month of hard work in the Sierras, where The Border Legion," in which she appears with Tony Moreno, is being made, the actress suffered a breakdown and was ordered to bed. A few days' complete rest, without the interruption of visitors or phone calls, and she is again her normal self. She will return to work tomorrow.

"The Snob" at Last

Monta Bell and Harry Rapf have finally found a young actor willing to take a chance with the title role of "The Snob." He is John Gilbert, remembered for his "Monte Cristo" and "Cameo Kirby" portrayals.

The character of the snob is an unsympathetic one, and for that reason many leading men refused to accept it. But Gilbert saw the opportunity it offers for real characterization and took it with pleasure.

The role is that of a handsome, superficially clever young climber, a snob to his wife and family, and a sycophant to those of wealth and position.

Norma Shearer has the role of the wife, and Conrad Nagel plays an important part. Production is scheduled to begin immediately.

Seena Owen Ill

According to telegraphic reports from New York last night Seena Owen, cinema star, was taken to St. Bartholomew's Hospital yesterday afternoon, suffering from a nervous breakdown. The actress collapsed after attending a premiere last Tuesday night. Her condition is not serious and complete recovery is expected within a week, according to Dr. Paul Hawkins, her physician.

Selecting Photographs

Philip E. Rosen, Warner Brothers director, and George E. Holl, in charge of the Grauman Theater art department, have been appointed on the committee of judges to pick the most artistic camera studies in a contest just launched by Frank Heron, secretary of the Hollywood Cemetery Association. Terms of the contest require that the pictures be made of beauty spots within the memorial park. A prize of $50 has been offered for the one chosen by Rosen, Holl, and a third associate judge.

Kind To His Dog

To prove to the world-at-large and organizations determined to stamp out inhumane treatment of animals in particular, James P. Hogan hired an official of the Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals to remain with his staff throughout the filming of "Black Lightning," in which Tillo, a sweepstakes champion shepherd dog, plays the title role.

Hogan also wished to prove that the dog can act without the aid of gum, tin hands, wires, clubs, or other devices commonly used to secure animal acting.

Lubitsch-Negri at Work

The Ernst Lubitsch-Pola Negri combination is at it again. "Forbidden Paradise," the first picture in which these two artists have combined their talents since coming to America, went into production yesterday at the Paramount studio.

The professional reunion of these two follows a demand from both critic and public which has been heard ever since their efforts produced one of Europe's most memorable productions, "Passion."

"Forbidden Paradise" was adapted from the stage play, "The Czarina," by Agnes Christine Johnston and Hans Kraly. Rod La Roque and Adolphe Menjou are featured in support of the star.

This is Final

From "Mother O'Day" to "Cafe of Fallen Angels" to "A Drama of the Night" to "The City That Never Sleeps" is the story told in titles of James Cruze's latest production, recently completed. Leroy Scott wrote the original story under the "Mother O'Day" heading. The picture is now undergoing final cutting and titling.

Miss Pearson Home

Virginia Pearson arrived yesterday from New York after an extended visit spent in working and resting. She expects to resume work in pictures immediately.

Breaks Arm, Sprains Ankle

It cost John Bowers 5 cents to break his arm recently. Several weeks ago he decided on a vacation, so packed his bag and with a party of friends started on a long motor trip. While waiting for dinner in a small-town restaurant the first day Bowers tested his punch on a nickle-in-the-slot punching machine. The machine was out of order—so was Bowers, with a broken arm.

Busy Night and Day

Producing one picture and preparing for the presentation of another are keeping Reginald Barker out of mischief these days. Barker spends the daylight hours working on "The Great Divide," which he is filming at the M-G-M studios, and his nights are spent in conference with H. B. Wright, managing director of Loew's, arranging for the presentation of "Broken Barriers," which opens at that theater a week from Saturday.

McKee at Work

Raymond McKee this week started work in "The Tenth Woman," in which he plays another leading role for Warner Brothers. McKee has previously appeared in two other Warner productions this year, "Babbitt," and Ernst Lubitsch's "Three Women," to be released in the fall.

Roberts Returns to Fold

Cast in his first picture since his serious illness several months ago, Theodore Roberts has been chosen as a member of the cast to be seen with Viola Dana and Raymond Griffith in "Lord Chumley," to be co-directed by Frank Urson and Paul Iribe. The story is a comedy-drama written by David Belasco and Henry C. De Mille, and adapted to the screen by Bertram Millhouser.

Featuring Three Amusement Bills

Douglas MacLean

Pauline Frederick Alice Gentle

Present and Future

Doug MacLean's "Never Say Die" is, and will continue to be, the California Theater feature. Pauline Frederick returns to the Playhouse next week in "Spring Cleaning," and Alice Gentle will sing at the Metropolitan beginning Saturday.

Phil Rosen Has Fine Staff for New Production

Phil Rosen, on his third Warner Brothers classic, titled "This Woman," will have the able assistance of one of the best staffs in Hollywood.

His cameraman, Lyman Broening, photographer of fifty-five Famous Players features and many others, including Rockett Brothers' "Abraham Lincoln," which was directed by Rosen, is now shooting his fifth picture with this director.

The assistant director's position is filled by George Reehm, whose experience in the motion-picture field dates from the old Biograph days, when he was a director.

"TESS" TO REVIVE OLD CONTROVERSY

The Marshall Neilan screen production of Thomas Hardy's "Tess of the D'Urbervilles," a Metro-Goldwyn picture, which comes to Loew's State Saturday, has revived a controversy that stirred the literary world when the novel was first published in 1891. Hardy called his novel the story of "a pure woman, faithfully presented." The good ladies of the days of Queen Victoria took violent exception to the phrase. Tess, they asserted, was wicked and sinful, deservedly an outcast. Hardy's supporters replied that Tess was an unwilling victim of a tragic fate; that she was in a spiritual sense thoroughly pure. And once again the question is raised, with people who see the picture being divided into opposing camps, on the question of Tess' purity.

In the screen production of "Tess," which is presented by Louis B. Mayer, the heroine is played by Blanche Sweet, supported by a cast including Conrad Nagel, George Fawcett, Stuart Holmes, Joseph Dowling and Courtenay Foote.

ADVERTISING MAN WEDS

Joseph F. Kennedy, an executive of the Amusement Advertising Company, has joined the ranks of benedicts. His marriage to Mrs. Louise Klein of St. Louis has just been announced. She is a trained nurse, having graduated from Bellevue Hospital, New York, in 1904. Kennedy has been connected with the outdoor advertising departments of Los Angeles theaters for the past twenty years.

ANOTHER SCENIC

Because of many requests from patrons after seeing "Snowbound in Yosemite," a scenic in natural colors, the management of the Mission Theater announces another scenic feature by the same company entitled "Heart of the Sierras," as a special attraction during the showing of "The Fire Patrol."

Mary Minter 'Doesn't Know' What's Next

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CHICAGO, Aug. 6.—Mary Miles Minter, who retired from the screen two years ago, after the mysterious murder of William Desmond Taylor, her director, arrived in Chicago today en route for "somewhere."

Miss Minter gravely assured reporters she did not know whether she was going to return to the screen or stage; that she did not know whether she was going abroad to marry Dr. Raymond B. Mixsell, a Pasadena physician; in fact, she "didn't know" that she was going on to New York—she might stay on in Chicago.

Miss Minter has grown more than reasonably plump, but the arch lips still smiled and the white teeth glistened as she refused to "talk."

"Nothing to say!" said the girl who's trying to be once more just plain Juliet Shelby.

"I'm tired of publicity, and I don't care what anyone says—there have been so many things said already! I've had so many raw deals that I don't expect anything fair or square from anyone!" And her blue eyes flashed with a fire that was real.

"EMPTY HANDS" IS STRONG LOVE STORY

The romantic delicacy of "Empty Hands," featuring Jack Holt with Norma Shearer in support, and the dramatic personality and voice of Alice Gentle, form a program of double brilliance for the Metropolitan, beginning Saturday.

"Empty Hands" is the story of an outdoor man of staunch moral principles and a modern luxury-loving girl of the flighty, carefree, careless type, trapped together in an impassable wilderness in the North woods. The situation is said to have been intriguingly but delicately handled.

Alice Gentle has won the plaudits of Los Angeles' press and public by her recent appearances at the Hollywood Bowl.

For the remainder of this week at the Metropolitan, the attractions are Adolphe Menjou, Viola Dana and others in "Open All Night," Ben Turpin in "Yukon Jake" and Hazel Kennedy and other kiddies in a stage act.

"NEVER SAY DIE" TO SHOW ANOTHER WEEK

Because of the crowds which have been in attendance at every performance of Douglas MacLean's latest screen farce, "Never Say Die," Managing Director Charles Wuers of the California Theater has decided to hold the picture for a second week's run.

MacLean has always been a favorite with California audiences. His "The Yankee Consul," which had its western premiere at the California, ran for two weeks, but according to box-office reports, "Never Say Die" is proving to be a bigger drawing card.

The "Spat Family" comedy, "The Hard-boiled Tenderfoot," is also proving to be popular as an added attraction, as is Carli Elinor's musical score for the pictures and his concert program, which is replete with tuneful entertainment.

GRAVEURE TO BE BOWL SOLOIST NEXT WEEK

Vieing in public interest with the Alice Gentle concert tomorrow night is the concert to be offered in the Hollywood Bowl next Tuesday night by Louis Graveure, one of the world's foremost baritones and probably the most popular singer of his type who has ever appeared in Los Angeles. Alfred Hertz, conductor, announced last night that Graveure had agreed to sing to Bowl patrons, and while 20,000 are expected to hear Miss Gentle tomorrow, fully as many are looked for at the Graveure appearance.

Graveure will sing two of the most popular arias from grand opera, the Toreador song from "Carmen" and Wagner's song to the evening star from "Lohengrin."

CROWDS STILL SEE "NERVOUS WRECK"

Los Angeles theatergoers have evidently not yet had their fill of Owen Davis's laughable comedy, "The Nervous Wreck," for the Majestic Theater continues to be crowded at each performance.

The play is one of the real comedy hits of the season and, with Edward Everett Horton in the leading role, is doubly attractive to those seeking to be amused. The play is now in its sixth week.

The return of Horton to the Majestic has proved an unqualified success and the announcement is made that his engagement has been continued indefinitely.

MORAN IN LIGHT OPERA FOR YEARS

William Moran, who has been associated with the Pilgrimage Play, "Life of the Christ," for several seasons and has enacted different roles in the play, is cast this year in the character of Thaddeus.

Mr. Moran won his initial honors on the stage with Lottie Kendall and Ed Seamon in the Gilbert and Sullivan operas. He has played in musical comedies, dramas, stock and pictures, devoting his talents mainly to character parts and heavies.

BELMORE WILL MAKE APPEARANCE TONIGHT

Lionel Belmore, prominent player in Frank Lloyd's production of Rafael Sabatini's "The Sea Hawk" now playing the fifth week at the Criterion Theater, will personally grace the Criterion stage at the 7:30 and 9:30 o'clock performances this evening.

TO READ THREE-ACT FARCE

At the regular weekly meeting of the Playcrafters tomorrow evening in Rowland Hall, 313 West Third street, "Firdel," a three-act farce comedy by Herman Sisk, will be read. Visitors are welcome.

Salesmen and Solicitors

SALESMEN—

LET'S DO A LITTLE REASONING. WE'RE ALL IN THE GAME TO MAKE "DOUGH." WE WANT TO MAKE IT IN THE SHORTEST POSSIBLE TIME IN A STABLE CONSISTENT WAY. WE HAVE BUSINESS PRINCIPLES. LIKEWISE THROUGH THE PATH OF LEAST RESISTANCE. WE DON'T ARGUE. NO ARGUMENT POSSIBLE HERE. ALL RIGHT!

What's doing in town?
Nothing to speak of. Why?
Oil in all branches—SHOT.
Industrials in all branches—SHOT.
Automobile securities—SHOT.
Mining in all branches—SHOT.
Real estate subdivisions—SHOT.
Real estate, syndicates—SHOT.
NO ARGUMENT POSSIBLE HERE. IF YOU DON'T BELIEVE ME, TRY ONE OF THEM OUT AND GET THE EXPERIENCE.

These things being true (AND THE REASONING CAN'T BE QUESTIONED), then what is there for you to work at that will produce the dough?

I'LL TELL YOU!

BUYING SELLING DEALING IN MONEY

CAN YOU SELL MONEY? (MEANING FINANCE)

NO FOOLING.

WE'VE GOT IT.

NOTHING ELSE "WILL GO" IN THE MARKET. I know men. I've tested out.

THIS DEAL IS GOING

GOING LIKE A HOUSE AFIRE.

If you qualify, it will ask me at the hundred-odd men on the list, and you ten minutes to get the drop on them. There's no man making $1000. Call at once. 9 BLDG. 8 to 11 a.m. and 1 to 4 p.m.

Get up here any morning and let the deal close. It'll give you quick action. Come as near nine-thirty as possible, and I can give it to you collectively or individually. Don't wait a minute. Don't let $100 per week and up. 9 BLDG. 8 to 11 a.m. and 1 to 4 p.m.

CADILLAC
DON LEE
1218 S. MAIN
ATlantic 9984

July was the biggest month ever known in the history of the Don Lee Used Car Department.

110 cars were sold for a total of $143,467.50.

It takes value cars to make volume business, like that. If you will look over the Don Lee stock you will realize why our sales are reaching such enormous figures.

DORRIS THREATS TO MEYER TOLD

Former Janitor of "Murder" Apartment on Stand

Says Accused Man Had Used Pistol Menacingly

Relates Stormy Scenes Over Business Affairs

The life of Henry Dietrick Meyer, wealthy Pasadena department-store owner, was threatened on several occasions by Charles W. Dorris, Long Beach realty man, according to testimony introduced late yesterday afternoon at Dorris's trial in Superior Judge Crail's court.

The testimony relative to the death threats was offered by Gerald Walters, formerly a janitor at the Long Beach Elleanor Apartments, owned by Dorris and the scene of the tragedy that culminated in the fatal shooting of Meyer and Mrs. Theresa Dorris, for which Dorris is on trial on two counts of first-degree murder.

TELLS OF THREAT

Walters was witness to two quarrels between Dorris and Meyer, the former janitor testified. In the midst of one of these scenes, he declared, Dorris drew a revolver from his hip pocket and threatened to kill Meyer. On other occasions, the witness stated, Dorris threatened that he would "put Meyer out of the way" if he ever got the opportunity to do so.

Mrs. Dorris and Meyer were killed in Dorris's apartment on the morning of June 30, last. Three persons were in the apartment at the time. Four shots were fired and Dorris was the only person to leave the apartment alive. He explained to the police that in a quarrel over a $25,000 note Meyer slew Mrs. Dorris and then, in the ensuing struggle, shot himself twice.

The testimony of Walters, the janitor, at the afternoon court session yesterday provided the only feature that elevated the Dorris trial from a tiresome siege of dry technical testimony to a sensational session, at least for an hour.

"Did you ever see a gun in the possession of Dorris?" Chief Dep. Dist.-Atty. Fricke asked Walters.

"I have," the witness replied. "It was in October, 1923. I was on the first floor, when Mr. Meyer arrived. I accompanied him up to Mr. Dorris's apartment and Mr. Dorris asked me to remain and be a witness to the conversation. It was about some new deal.

"Mr. Dorris asked Mr. Meyer if he had changed his mind about signing some sort of a lease. Mr. Meyer said he had not. Mr. Dorris got very mad. He jumped up and threatened to fight. He reached his hand to his hip pocket. I grabbed his hand. He had a gun in his pocket, a dark one."

TOLD TO "FORGET"

Later, Walters testified, Dorris met him in the basement. He patted the janitor on the shoulder and told him to forget the incident.

"We were in the trunk room," Walters said. "He told me that if anything ever turned up concerning the scene that I was not get scared and run off. He said he would back me up."

On another occasion, Walters said, he was a witness to a lively meeting between Dorris and Meyer. At the time the entire Meyer family was present. Dorris asked Meyer to sign a paper, Walters testified, and Meyer refused.

"They both wanted to scrap," the witness said.

"Did you ever hear Dorris make any threats concerning Meyer?" the witness was asked.

"Yes, one time Dorris told Meyer it would be better for the Meyer family if Meyer was dead and out of the way. And another time Mr. Dorris told me that if he ever got the chance he would get Henry out of the way, that it would be better for Henry's family, as he was always disagreeing on business matters. I can't remember whether he said he would do it by killing him or not."

Walters was cross-examined by Chief Defense Counsel W. I. Gilbert.

"No," said Walters, "I left."

"Didn't you represent to an old lady in the Elleanor Apartments that if she would loan you $300 you could purchase an automobile agency for her? Didn't you obtain the $300 from her and spend it on an automobile for your own use? Didn't Dorris tell you you had to pay the money back to the old lady? And isn't it true that the only way the old lady could get some of her money back was accomplished by Dorris taking it out of your pay?"

"No. She loaned me money."

Walters testified he paid $175 to Dorris to pay the tenant. Attorney Gilbert contended that Walters still owed Dorris $240, and exhibited a note, purported to have been signed by Walters for that amount. Walters denied the authorship of the signature on the note.

"Didn't you threaten, in the presence of witnesses, that if Dorris ever made you pay that money back you would get even with him?" Attorney Gilbert asked.

"No," said Walters.

DAUGHTER ON STAND

Eleanor Meyer, 12 years of age and youngest daughter of the deceased capitalist, was the prosecution's principal witness at the morning session. Eleanor told of being present when her father dressed on the morning he was killed. She did not see him place a gun in his pocket.

"Daddy drove the car to Long Beach," she testified, "and stopped only once for gas. At the Elleanor Apartments Mr. and Mrs. Dorris were there to meet us. Mr. Dorris took brother and me to get some ice cream. He told us to play in the street when we got through. Mr. Dorris seemed to be excited a little bit."

On cross-examination the child said she had always liked Mr. Dorris until "this thing came up."

"How was Mr. Dorris excited?" she was asked.

"Well, he was more hurried than I ever saw him before. He usually brought us the sweets on other trips, instead of taking us out after them."

Mrs. Meyer, the widow, heavily shrouded in mourning, testified to witnessing one quarrel between her husband and Dorris.

"Mrs. Dorris and I were in the car. Mr. Dorris and Mr. Meyer were engaged in conversation a short distance away. As they approached the car Mr. Dorris swore at my husband.

"'Hear this man abuse me,' Mr. Meyer said."

On another occasion, at the Elleanor Apartments, Mrs. Meyer testified, Dorris accused Meyer of being "crooked."

On cross-examination Attorney Gilbert brought out the information that George Meyer, a son of the dead man, had been arrested for speeding.

"Don't you remember that it was that incident that brought on the trouble between your husband and Mr. Dorris?" she was asked.

"I don't think so," she replied.

"Don't you remember that Mr. Meyer was very angry at Mr. Dorris for taking the boy out of jail?"

"No. Mr. Meyer was exasperated with the boy for getting in jail."

"You do know that Mr. Meyer was exasperated because Mr. Dorris took the boy's part, don't you?"

"Yes," Mrs. Meyer replied.

"That's all," said the attorney.

MEYER'S SON CALLED

George Meyer, a son of the dead capitalist, told of the telephone call that summoned Mr. Meyer to Long Beach. Dorris had telephoned to Meyer two days before the latter returned from the East.

"What do you want to see him about?" the boy said he asked Dorris.

"That's a long story," Dorris was quoted as having replied, "I'll tell you some other time."

Dr. Frank Sweet, Long Beach surgeon, who first examined the bodies, told of his findings.

Miss Ethel Gillaspie, stenographer employed at the Long Beach Police Department, submitted her shorthand notes on Dorris's first statement to the officers.

CAMP AUXILIARY PLANNED

Organization of a women's auxiliary to Capt. E. L. Baker Camp No. 71, U.S.W.V. (colored,) will be perfected at a meeting tomorrow night at Odd Fellows Hall, Eighth and Wall streets. Speakers will include Col. H. R. Richmond, U.S.A.; Col. E. E. Kirk of Roosevelt Camp No. 9, U.S.W.V., and Commander Henry N. James of Roosevelt Camp. Dennis G. Mathews, commander of Baker Camp, will preside.

SUBWAY EXTENSION URGED

Councilman Favors Terminal of Hollywood Tunnel at Pershing Square; Company Is Willing

The City Council yesterday received the letter of the Pacific Electric Railway Company expressing its willingness, if the company can raise $1,500,000 additional capital, to extend its Hollywood-Glendale tunnel now under construction to an underground station under part of Pershing Square and Olive street, and the communication was referred to the Council's Public Utilities Committee of which Councilman Allan is chairman.

The Councilman said that he, personally, was in favor of the Council's granting the company permission, including the necessary franchise, to extend the tunnel and to provide an underground station instead of the new-planned terminal at grade on the west side of Hill street between Fourth and Fifth streets.

"Properly safeguarded," said Councilman Allan, "the Council should, in my opinion, permit the underground station to be built as a substitute for the terminal at grade on Hill street, for the subway depot could become a station on the subway when it is extended, whereas, as pointed out by Engineer R. F. Kelker, who is now making the transportation survey, the tunnel with a stub-end station at grade on Hill street cannot be tied in as a part of a subway system. The people have already, by direct vote, authorized the use of space under Pershing Square for subway purposes, and therefore the Council would have ample authority for granting the Pacific Electric authority to change its Hollywood-Glendale tunnel plans in accordance."

The Public Utilities Committee will hold its first hearing on the Pacific Electric communication next Monday afternoon.

The Business Men's Association in resolutions made public yesterday by Managing Director George M. Babcock opposed the proposed permission to the Pacific Electric to change its plans for the Hollywood-Glendale tunnel.

MISS LUTHER'S STORY ASSAILED

Cross-Examined on Alleged Broken Contract

Actress Smiles in Face of Verbal Barrage

Counsel for White Quizzes Her on Marriages

An attempt to impeach the testimony of Ann Luther, actress, as to the terms of an asserted motion-picture starring contract between her and J. F. White, mining man, was begun yesterday by Paul Schenck, counsel for White, as Miss Luther took the stand for cross-examination.

This asserted contract is the basis of Miss Luther's $100,000 suit against White, whom she charges failed to carry out his promise to star her in motion pictures.

The calling of the actress to be cross-examined came as a surprise yesterday, as it had been believed her direct testimony would consume all of the afternoon and the forenoon today. Admission collectively, of a large number of publicity photographs and clippings, concerning Miss Luther's work in motion pictures, enabled the cross-examination to be reached yesterday.

QUIZZED ON CONTRACT

Attorney Schenck immediately laid down a barrage of questions about the place where the asserted contract was consummated, and its terms. The actress smiled under the attack, however, and answered with occasional heat.

"To whom were you first married?" she was asked.

She replied, "Samuel E. Dribben," and said she lived with Dribben eleven months. It was during the first year after her marriage she entered motion pictures, she said.

Ed Gallagher of the stage team of Gallagher and Shean, was her next husband, Miss Luther testified. She said she married him in December of 1923 after receiving her final divorce decree from Dribben in September of the same year.

"And how long did you live with Mr. Gallagher?" Schenck asked her.

"You mean since our marriage? Three months." She replied. She left Gallagher when she came to California previous to the trial of this suit, Miss Luther said.

ATTACKS TESTIMONY

Schenck then started his attack upon her testimony about the asserted contract. He was told there were two periods of negotiation, one at Miss Luther's home at Great Neck, Long Island, where the actress says White told her he would put up $100,000 and offered her a drawing account of from $1000 to $1500 a week; and a second on the train, where, she says, he told her the pictures would be a fifty-fifty proposition as to possible profits.

"Was there anything said before you left New York about when he would put up the $100,000?" Schenck asked.

"No," said Walters.

Miss Luther replied no, but that it was understood when she left California on her return to New York, that production on her first picture would begin not later than September 1.

That she never had any written contract with White was admitted by Miss Luther.

The actress declared toward the conclusion of her direct testimony that White had apologized to her for his asserted jealousy of a Los Angeles broker, as she was ready to leave Los Angeles, and that they both shed tears over the parting.

Upon her return to New York, Miss Luther said she was convinced finally that White did not intend to star her, so she secured other employment through an actors' agent. This consisted of several engagements for which she said she received approximately $3300.

MRS. BIRDWELL TESTIFIES

Yesterday morning the reading of the deposition of Mrs. Mabel Condon Birdwell, who formerly conducted an actors' agency in Hollywood, was begun. Mrs. Birdwell entered into negotiations with White and Miss Luther about the proposed motion-picture production in Los Angeles.

She had also secured parts for Miss Luther on numerous other occasions, she testified.

While the reputation of Miss Luther was being discussed, the following question was put to Mrs. Birdwell by Attorney Ray Howard:

Question: I will ask you whether or not Miss Luther's value or availability as a screen actress in 1922 would have been materially affected if it had become known that she had been engaged to the young Los Angeles broker, or had it been known by friends of the parties that they were intimate?

Answer: No, I don't think that would have had any bearing.

This bears upon the second line of argument which the defense has indicated it will follow; that if the court construes anything White said or did to be in the nature of a contract, it would not have been possible for it to have been fulfilled because of Miss Luther's asserted reputation in the film colony and before the public.

USES NAME OF ARBUCKLE

In connection with the effect of certain kinds of publicity upon the box-office value of actors and actresses Mrs. Birdwell was asked to express her professional opinion as to whether she would have been able to place Roscoe Arbuckle, Mabel Norman, Juanita Hansen, Mae Busch, Fay Tincher and Patricia Palmer.

With the exception of Arbuckle she said she believed she could. She said the box-office value of Juanita Hansen would be mainly in a picture on the order of "Human Wreckage," in which Mrs. Wallace Reid appeared, attacking the drug evil.

That she had been approached by Charles Jones, former Los Angeles Chief of Police, who said he was acting for White or his interests, and who charged Miss Luther with contemplating a plot against White, was declared by Mrs. Birdwell.

This happened after the negotiations between herself and White and Miss Luther had fallen through and Miss Luther had returned to New York, she said.

TOLD OF SUIT

Jones told her Ann Luther was suing White about the proposed venture, she said. He also asked her if she didn't know Ann Luther wouldn't be of any box-office value because of her reputation, Mrs. Birdwell declared.

She told him she knew nothing against Miss Luther's reputation and would give him no information, she declared. After this she said she wrote Miss Luther of the visit and had an answer from the actress.

Mrs. Condon's testimony dealt mainly with her negotiations to secure a story and studio for Miss Luther to make her picture. She said she first met White at Miss Luther's room at the Ambassador.

"It took us about fifteen minutes to get down to business," she said. "This was because Mr. White seemed as much personally interested in Miss Luther as he was in a business way. He kissed her when he came in and told her she had been a naughty little girl for quarreling with him on the night before."

White told Miss Luther, in her presence, that a friend had told him of the engagement with the young broker here, Mrs. Birdwell declared. She said Miss Luther answered: "Now, isn't it proven I did right in telling you all about it on the train?" She said White replied in the affirmative.

TELLS OF ROADSTER GIFT

The actress showed her a picture of a Cunningham automobile with White sitting in it, she said, and told her: "Mr. White has given me this $10,000 roadster for a present. Isn't it a beauty?" She said White was present and did not deny it.

Mrs. Birdwell declared White authorized her to get story and studio and said he intended to back Miss Luther in motion pictures. She said she got a story from Robertson-Cole studio and made an appointment for White with the studio executives, but he returned the story. He told her he thought it was not good enough for Miss Luthern and spoke of getting a New York play or book, she said.

She said she had known Ann Luther eight years at the time of the negotiations and that Miss Luther had a reputation for being a capable actress for the kind of parts suitable for her; that she was also considered a hard worker and a good dresser, and that she was prompt and easy to direct.

She denied making any extensive investigations into the past of Miss Luther or any of her other clients.

The most dramatic day of the trial is expected today, when Attorney Schenck continues his cross-examination of Miss Luther. He will be assisted by Attorneys Leonard J. Meyberg and John W. Maltman. Ray Howard and Claire Woolwine are counsel for Miss Luther.

The defense counsel yesterday stated they will have several witnesses to follow Miss Luther on the stand.

Judge Valentine is sitting on the bench. The trial is in Department Eleven of the Superior Court.

Yesterday United States Senator King of Utah was a guest at the trial. Senator King formerly was a judge of the Supreme Court of Utah.

RESERVE PILOTS MOBILIZED

Rockwell Field Scene of Greatest Muster of Flyers Since War; Maneuvers to Last Ten Days

The greatest mobilization of Army Air Service flyers since the war is now in progress at Rockwell Field, San Diego, where for the next two weeks a series of maneuvers will be the daily order.

Reserve military pilots from the entire Ninth Corps Area, together with some forty airplanes, have been mobilized at the field for an intensive two-week course of training and practice. For purposes of operation the officers and men have been divided into squadrons, according to their homes. These squadrons are known as the Los Angeles, San Francisco and San Diego, Seattle and Salt Lake groups. The Los Angeles group is a pursuit squadron; the others are observation squadrons and photo sections.

PLANE MODEL IS PRIZE

Capt. Michael Davis, in charge of the reserve-officer flight activities, has stimulated the best efforts of the various groups by offering a perfect model of a De Haviland plane to the outfit showing the greatest efficiency during the mobilization. The trophy has aluminum wings, a nickel-plated exhaust pipe, mahogany fuselage and other details in proportion. The winning squadron will receive it for permanent possession at the end of the encampment.

In addition to flying operations, which will be conducted on a major scale until the 16th inst., there will also be an intensive course in the Rockwell Field shops, rated as one of the most complete airplane shops in the entire army list. In fact, the whole encampment will be in the nature of a general refreshening process designed to enable reserve officers to keep in trim for active duty should the occasion arise.

TO BE ANNUAL EVENT

The present maneuvers are expected to be the forerunner of annual mobilizations of the same nature.

The Los Angeles officers and men, known as the Four Hundred and Seventy-eighth Pursuit Squadron, comprise the following reservists:

EX-FIREMAN STOPS PANIC IN THEATER

Explosion of Film Causes Frightened Audience to Rush for Exits

Prompt and cool-headed action by an ex-fireman in assuring the audience there was no immediate danger averted a panic at the Columbia Theater, 238 South Spring street, yesterday afternoon when a film exploded and caught fire.

Louis Norton of 1216 West Fifty-ninth Place, is the man who played the role of hero. A showing of "Way Down East" was in progress when the film broke. Immediately the film, heated by the arc in the projecting machine, caught fire and exploded.

Smoke began to pour out into the house from the loopholes in the projecting room at the rear of the house. Persons in the audience became frightened, leaped to their feet and a general exodus began. Norton, who was seated at the rear of the house, leaped to his feet and shouted to the frightened audience that there was no danger and to keep cool.

By the time the fire department arrived Joe Selaya, operator of the projecting machine, had put out the fire.

AUTO-THIEF SUSPECT HELD

Joe Nunez was lodged in the City Jail last night after being arrested by Patrolmen Webb and Bartlett on suspicion of grand larceny. According to the officers, Nunes had in his possession a motor car belonging to Mrs. Homer C. Gordon of 342 West Eightieth street.

Home Builders Sue Beach Pair Over Contract

In the suit filed yesterday in Superior Court, the Economy Home Builders asked $192,000 damages of Thomas Berry and Florence O. Berry of Long Beach for asserted breach of contract for sale of a tract of land near Hawthorne and Redondo Boulevards.

An official of the company was declared to have entered an agreement February 19, last, with the defendants for the purchase by the company of the land for real estate subdivision purposes. Acting on the agreement, according to the complaint, the company proceeded to buy up other tracts of land, improve the property and sell lots on the contract basis.

Recently the defendants were asserted to have gone to the trust company where the deal was in escrow and to have demanded and received return of the deed to the property. In the meantime, it was said, several purchasers of lots in the tract had built homes on the property. The land is said to be in the center of a district in which oil recently was discovered.

HUNDRED AND TENTH ATLANTIC TOUR ENDS

D. F. Robertson of the Robertson Travel Agency, 714 Hibernian Building, returned to this city yesterday after completing his one hundred and tenth trip across the Atlantic and sixth trip around the world. He sailed to Europe on the Leviathan with Congressman and Mrs. Fredericks, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Laemmle, Judge and Mrs. Robert M. Clarke and Mr. and Mrs. G. D. Robertson, with other Angelenos. Mr. Robertson reports there are 300,000 Americans in Europe this season, a record-breaking number, and it is estimated they will spend not less than $300,000,000. Mr. and Mrs. Robertson will leave on a seventh trip around the world in January next.
